Molester At Work In City

A four-year-old white girl, who was not identified by police, was molested Monday by a white man. She was treated at Missouri Delta Community hospital.

When asked if anyone had been taken into custody, Chief of Police Arthur Bruce said that he had no information to be given out.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to molest another Sikeston girl Monday, possibly by the same man.

Police reported that a 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adon Cox, 308 E. Kathleen, was approached by a white man Monday afternoon who asked her to help him find a dog. The report said that after the man had induced her to enter an alley he offered $5 to find the dog and made an indecent proposal. The report said the man gave her a telephone number to call if she found the dog.

At this point the girl was reported to have run home. She reported to her father what had happened. She was not harmed.

NEW SHRUBS at the Public Library are admired by children who came for their first junior story hour under the leadership of Mrs. Evelyn Barnett. The first half dozen of 30 youngsters enrolled in the six-week course to arrive are Nancy Norton, Ronnie Rider, Stephanie Jewell, Becky Barnes, Kipper Norton and Raymond Arnold.

City Collects $3,075.28

Ronald Lee, city tax collector, reports that during May he collected from all tax sources $3,075.28: Real estate back taxes, 1962, $42.70; 1963, $212.52; and 1964, $791.43 for a total of $1,046.65.

In personal back taxes: 1961, $1.80; 1962, $18.81; 1963, $126.48 for a total of $147.09.

In merchants and manufacturers back tax collections $33 was collected for 1963 and $32.55 was collected in 1964 for a total of $65.55.

In license collections Lee reports that he collected $275 from merchants, $279.45 from automobile owners and $136 from dog license.

In the miscellaneous department $57.16 was collected from interest, $12.30 other costs and $1,056.08 from Associated Natural Gas for a total of $1,125.54.

Washout Lake Good Fish Spot

NEW MADRID — New Madrid County anglers are missing some of the best fishing in Southeast Missouri when they overlook the Des Cypre, or Washout Lake, five miles northwest of New Madrid, according to the county's conservation agent, Bob Hendrickson.

Hendrickson said that not many people have taken advantage of the fine fishing available at the Washout since the area was cleaned up and stocked with fish in 1963.

He said that many people may be staying away from the area since it was discovered last year that some of the fish were dying. He said that the fish are all right now and that the fishing should be good.

The lake was cleaned of fish on Sept. 17, 1963. Toxicants were applied for this purpose by conservation agents. Seines and nets were used to remove the fish from the water. Later, the lake was re-stocked with good game fish.

The renovation project was a joint effort of the Missouri Conservation Commission and the New Madrid County Sportsmen's club.

The lake covers approximately 40 acres. Its banks are lined with shade trees. Since the renovation, provisions have been made for launching boats. Those who fish from a bridge or railroad trestle may use the Cotton Belt railroad bridge.

Boy Scouts from Lilbourn and New Madrid use the sport for overnight camping.

Degree for Erhard

NEW YORK (AP) — Wearing the traditional light-blue robe of Columbia University, West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard received his first honorary degree in the United States.

Stone Misses Sunglasses

Kiwanis Club Endorses Water-Sewer Proposal

The Kiwanis club voted unanimously Tuesday night to support a proposal by the board of public works for more than $1 million worth of improvements in the city's water distribution and sewage disposal systems. The club met at the Holiday Inn.

The action followed a speech by Charles F. Simpson of the board of public works. The proposal must be approved by the voters.

In his speech to the club, Simpson, who is business manager of the board, pointed out that increased population required improved services if the city is to continue its prosperous growth.

Engineering reports show that many of the present water and sewage facilities are functioning at or above capacity. Simpson says that he believes that increases in population would overload existing systems.

Simpson explained that new water mains of increased capacity would be installed to beef up existing water distribution lines. This would provide better service to consumers and improve fire protection.

In addition to increased water main capacity, the proposal calls for construction of new water storage facilities, including one 500,000 gallon, ground-level tank.

Simpson explained that the proposal calls for new sewer lines, expansion of the main sewage treatment plant, and increased capacity at two sewage sub-stations in the east and west parts of the city.

By board estimate, the total cost of the proposal will be $1,200,000 — $600,000 for the water system and $600,000 for the sewage system.

Revenue bonds, involving no increase in taxation, would be used to pay for improvements in water distribution, according to Simpson. The bonds would be paid off from earnings of the city water plant.

The proposed increased capacity for sewage treatment, if adopted, would mean a rise in the bonded indebtedness of the city — approximately 29 cents on $100 assessed valuation.

Geo. Kirk of the education committee, inducted the club's newest member, Richard Niedling, cashier of the Security National Bank, and presented him with a Kiwanis pin.

In the absence of Earl Hutchinson, president, and of Lee Shell, vice president, Harold Hill, immediate past president, presided.

Fulbright Changes Mind

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. J. W. Fulbright said today he has decided - reluctantly - to lead the fight for President Johnson's foreign aid bill in the Senate.

The chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee also said he will back Johnson's request that $89 million be added to the measure for the economic and social development of Southeast Asia.

The Arkansas Democrat's declaration was a boon to the administration. Last fall, Fulbright complained that the aid bill had become a "garbage can" for all sorts of things. He said he would not lead the fight for it unless military and economic assistance were separated.

The bill, passed by the House May 25, authorizes $3,352,170,000 in foreign aid for each of the next two years.

Bell City School Aid

BELL CITY -- Supt. Forrest Jackson announced today that the federal project head start program for Bell City, has been approved, and 15 more preschool children can be enrolled, who are five and six years old, and those who are four years and who will be five before Sept. 15.

Parents are advised to notify Jackson immediately if they wish to have their child enrolled.

The school session will open June 14 and continue for eight weeks. Transportation will be furnished by the school, both to and from classes. There is no direct cost to the parents. The total cost will be paid by the school district and the federal government.

Free lunches will be served at school and physical examinations will be given to students at no cost.

Police Report 144 Arrests

Police made 144 arrests in May with fines totaling $1,950.

Persons arrested for careless and reckless driving were 64, 11 cases involved intoxicants and four persons were involved in accidents.

Twenty persons were arrested on a charge of being under the influence of liquor in public.

Arrests made for peace disturbances numbered 13 and six persons were brought in accused of assault.

Ten persons were arrested and turned over to the state and there were 16 miscellaneous arrests.

Service Of Yorke Praised

A resolution adopted by the Kiwanis club at its meeting last night at the Holiday Inn praised Robert E. Yorke, Daily Standard reporter who died May 23 for his service to his community and to the Kiwanis club of which he was a member.

The resolution was presented by a committee composed of Harry C. Blanton, Norval Cannon and Robert Meyer. A copy will be given to his family.

"Because of his varied experience and world travels he possessed an unusual ability to separate the important from the unimportant events of the passing parade," the resolution stated.

"His exceptionally colorful career as a newspaperman, enabled him to have contacts with the great and near great of our State.

"His service on the program and music committee of the club produced programs of outstanding merit and entertainment.

"His service as a public relations representative of his local Club enabled the club to enjoy a fine reputation for service to the youth of his community.

"His death after a long illness removes from our midst a member possessed of good humor and a happy disposition.

"He had honorably served his country as a member of the armed forces during World War I and was a member of Henry Meldrum's post 114 of the American Legion."

Dominican Junta Asks Elections

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican junta proposed Tuesday night that elections supervised by the Organization of American States be held as soon as possible in this divided Caribbean nation.

The junta said all "democratic parties recognized by the Central Electoral Board" should be allowed to participate in the election. This presumably would include the Dominican Revolutionary party of exiled ex-President Juan Bosch in whose name the rebellion was launched April 25.

It was not clear, however, whether the junta would allow Bosch to return from exile in Puerto Rico to be a candidate. He won the presidency overwhelmingly in a free election in 1962, but military leaders overthrew him the next year.

Following the President's announcement that 2,000 more U.S. Marines were being withdrawn from Santo Domingo, helicopters began flying them to U.S. naval vessels offshore. Their departure reduces the U.S. contingent to 2,100 Marines and 14,200 paratroopers serving with 1,500 Latin-American troops in the inter-American peace force.

TWO EMERGENCIES

Two persons were treated and dismissed from the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday.

Brenda Cecil, Catron, cut leg, and Paul Hill, Sikeston, scalp bruise.

Permits To Build Issued

A total of $205,050 in building permits were issued in the city in May:

Yant Brothers Construction Co. was issued a $8,500 permit to build a three-bedroom brick house on 320 Marion.

Bob Nowell was issued a $20,000 permit to build a three bedroom brick house on Kramer and Powers Streets.

Edwin Carey was issued a permit to build a $300 garage on 411 Jackson.

Mata Bruce was issued a $500 permit to build a carport on 714 North.

William Dock was issued a $500 permit for garage and storage facilities on Jackson and Lion Streets.

Jack Lapp was issued a $15,000 permit to build a three-bedroom brick house on Davis and Powers streets.

Arthur Ziegenhorn was issued a $30,000 permit to build a warehouse on Northwest Street.

J. W. Knox was issued a $1,000 permit to remodel a duplex on 110 Petty St.

E. C. Robinson was issued a $5,000 permit to build a two-bedroom frame house on Presnell Drive.

Ira Shuffit was issued a $250 permit to build an addition to the laundry room on 509 Ruth St.

Norman Faulkner, 859 Stanford, was issued a $10,000 permit to build a three-bedroom brick house.

Alex Klein was issued a $350 permit to build a garage on 619 Greer.

Harry Hambrick was issued a permit for $4,000 to build a store on Greer Street.

Adam LeGrande was issued two $11,000 permits to build three bedroom brick houses on Marion Street.

Cairel True was issued a $7,000 permit to build a three-bedroom frame house.

Ralph Boyer was issued a $21,000 permit to build an office building on South Kingshighway.

Lillie Proffer was issued a $300 permit to enclose a back porch at 317 Prosperity.

East Prairie Lumber was issued a $10,500 permit to build a three-bedroom brick house on Malcolm Street.

William Jones was issued one $600 permit and three $500 permits to remodel a house on 307 Alabama St.

Warren Topp was issued a $400 permit to add to a porch and remodel a bedroom and roof at 400 Tanner Street.

William Dock was issued a $6,500 permit to build a three-bedroom brick house on Marion Street.

Bob Nowell was issued a $15,000 permit to build a three-bedroom brick house on Cambridge Street.

G. W. Harrison, was issued a $150 permit to build bathroom at 160 W. Ruth St.

Drinking Charged In Lone Accident

The only injury in a highway accident in this area Tuesday occurred at 1:30 p.m. on Route H, four miles north of Steele, when a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Von Luttroll, 46, Malden, overturned while making a curve at high speed. The driver was cut on the right arm, taken to a Hayti hospital and released. Luttroll was arrested for careless and reckless driving while drinking.

Eight Fires

Firemen answered eight alarms in May and $122 was paid to them.

Bills Sent To Senate

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House sent the Senate a number of bills Tuesday. One would set up state scholarships for outstanding high school students who might not be able to attend college without financial help.

It would provide a maximum of $600 a year for up to 1,000 students each year.

Others were bills to:

Include probate and magistrate judges in a judicial retirement plan at one-third their regular salary.

Make available an estimated $4 million a year to help exceptional as well as handicapped children.

Increase from 40 to 50 years the bonding limits for colleges and universities.

Outlaw open range in the few remaining areas where it is still used under local option.

Require food handlers in public schools to obtain health certificates.

After a brief session Tuesday morning the Senate devoted most of the day to committee hearings.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved a conflict of interest bill already passed by the House. It would require lobbyists to register and report their expenses and prohibit public officials from using their offices for personal gain.

Legislators, the governor and lieutenant governor would be required to reveal any substantial interest they might have in proposed laws.

A similar bill failed last session. If this one passes the Senate it probably will have to be returned to the House for approval of amendments suggested by the committee.

The Senate Economics Committee approved a $10 million increase in state aid to schools.

It is $14.5 million less than originally proposed in the House but the total is about $20 million more than last year.

Approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee was a bill passed by the House to let farmers form commodity merchandising councils. It would be restricted to producers of fresh fruit, vegetables and poultry.

Also approved by the farm committee was a bill changing the licensing provisions for public grain storage facilities. Grain warehouses could be licensed by the state and have their stores certified. Grain receipts issued by the warehouses then could be used for collateral in credit transactions.

Braggadocio Bank Entered

BRAGGADOCIO -- The Farmers Bank of Braggadocio was entered last night or early today. Nothing was reported missing.

Officers reported that both the front and back door glass had been broken to gain entrance but neither the vault or the safe had been touched.

Police Arrest Five Men

There were five men arrested by police in the last 24 hours, three of whom were involved in careless and imprudent driving.

Those arrested for careless and imprudent driving were: James Ray Webb, 508 Gladys; John Smith, Bertrand; and Dennis Ledbetter, 325 Selma.

Others arrested were Vernon Morgan, Bernie, and Robert Summers, St. Louis, both for intoxication while in public.

Dirksen Invites LBJ Reapportionment Silence

WASHINGTON AP -- Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen invited President Johnson today to stay out of the controversy over the reapportionment of state legislatures.

Johnson told a White House news conference Tuesday he is generally sympathetic with reapportionment on the basis of the Supreme Court's decision that both houses of state legislatures must be set up on a population basis.

Noting that a president doesn't act on a proposed constitutional amendment, Johnson said he didn't want to get into a detailed discussion of pending proposals.

Dirksen took note of the fact that Johnson stopped short of saying that he would take a position on the question.

"It's a matter of submitting the issue to the people," Dirksen said. "The President doesn't sign any resolution that is passed and I don't think he ought to take a position on it."

Dirksen has sponsored a proposed constitutional amendment, now pending in the Senate Judiciary Committee, which would authorize the states to submit to their voters the issue of whether they want one house of their legislature to be elected on other than a population basis.

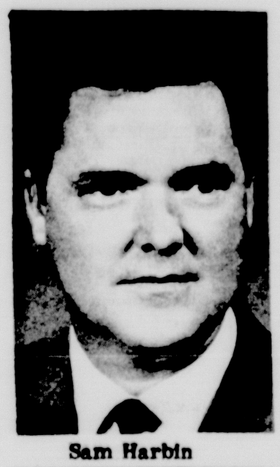

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill. said in a separate interview that Johnson's statement that he is "generally sympathetic" with apportionment on a one-man, one-vote basis is very encouraging.

Douglas said he thinks it will act to stiffen resistance by the Senate liberals against the Dirksen proposal. He said liberals had been hoping for an expression of this sort from the President.

Sam Harbin Becomes Bank Vice-President

Sam Harbin

Sam Harbin, principal of the Sikeston Middle school, has been appointed assistant vice-president of the Bank of Sikeston effective July 1.

He has been an administrater in the public school system seven years. He has been active in civic affairs. He is a past president of the Sikeston Little Theatre. He is president of the Delta Community Concert Association, Inc., and chairman of the Council on the Arts, affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce.

He has served as a director of the United Fund three years. In 1962 he was named Young Man of the Year by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

His professional associations include membership in the National Association of Secondary School Principals, Missouri Association of Secondary School Principals, Missouri State Teachers Association, National Education Association, Sikeston Community Teachers Association, and Phi Delta Kappa, an honorary organization for educators.

Harbin was appointed to the Advisory Committee of the Governor's Council on the Arts last year. He is serving on its education committee.

Mr. Harbin attended the University of California in Los Angeles, earned his bachelor of science degree in Education from Southeast Missouri State college in Cape Girardeau, and his Master of Science degree from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Ill. He has done work beyond the masters degree at Southern Illinois university.

Harbin, his wife Del, and their three children, Julie, Ken, and Lauren live at 300 West North St.

Johnson Tells Aim Of Dominican

WASHINGTON AP--President Johnson says the aim of U. S. policy in the Dominican Republic is the establishment of a broadly based government--one that represents the people and does not include extremists.

To accomplish this end, the President told a news conference Tuesday, the United States is looking to the Organization of American States while keeping in touch with Dominican leaders.

"We have no desire to insist on our particular brand of military solution or political solution," Johnson said. "We think it is an inter-American matter, and we want to cooperate fully with them (the OAS)."

The Dominican revolt and U. S. policy toward it dominated Johnson's first nationally broadcast question-and-answer session with newsmen since April 27.

The President defended his policy, including his decision to intervene with more than 21,000 Army paratroopers, airmen and Marines.

Flew Over Dominica

Capt Everett D. Wiss, of the air force reserve, has completed a tour of duty with the air force.

He participated in Project Power Pack and received an assignment as courier pilot between Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic. His plane and crew were based at Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, and each night they would carry film, documents, supplies and personnel into and out of the objective area. Their base of operation in the Dominican Republic was the San Isidro Air base.

Captain Wiss is a pilot with the 702 and troop carrier squadron based at the Memphis Metropolitan airport in Tennessee. Their aircraft is the twin-engine Fairchild, C 123, Provider.

In civilian life Captain Wiss is a salesman with the Mitchell-Sharp Chevrolet Co.

Down Two U.S. Planes

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP--Communist antiaircraft fire shot down two U. S. Navy planes during raids on North Viet Nam today. A rescue pilot said there was no chance the five American crewmen could have survived.

Two more Americans--an officer and an enlisted man--were reported killed in a Viet Cong triple ambush near Pleiku, 220 miles northeast of Saigon. Two American enlisted men were reported wounded, one seriously, and more than 80 South Vietnamese troops were killed or missing.

Rosy Flight Prospect

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The man who will float alone in the heavens Thursday, and his space buddy who will pilot him there, started the last day before flight today with good news and great expectations.

Command pilot James A. McDivitt said: "We've got a good spacecraft, and it looks like we're going to have a good mission. We're ready."

Blastoff is scheduled for 9 a.m.

"We" are McDivitt and fellow Air Force Maj. Edward H. White II— the man who will step out of the Gemini 4 spacecraft and waltz in weightlessness on their second orbit of the earth.

There was the chance, too, that these two rookie American astronauts would get close enough to their booster rocket on their maneuvering early orbits to enable White to touch the booster during his weightless walk.

The space agency had said earlier that they might get as close as 20 feet to the booster. But mission director Christopher C. Kraft said that "there is nothing holy about 20 feet."

Would the mission last four days as intended? Kraft said that the decision would be made sometime after the first 24 hours of flight — when the astronauts had a chance to evaluate their fuel supply for their maneuvering jets, and experts looked at the decay of the orbit.

It was a demonstration of the flexibility of the flight plan.

Roche Educated Through Mail

DETROIT AP -- Enrollment in correspondence school classes may jump when word gets around that General Motors' new president James M. Roche got a lot of his education via the mails.

Roche, 58, elected Tuesday as president of the world's largest manufacturing concern, never attended college. As a youth he supplemented his high school education with mail courses in business and commerce from a Chicago correspondence school.

His selection came as no surprise. In recent weeks of speculation about who would succeed retiring GM President John F. Gordon, Roche's name almost always was the first one mentioned.

Roosevelt Would Change City's Image

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. AP -- Elliott Roosevelt, newly elected mayor of Miami Beach, says his major goal will be to wipe out the city's image as a tourist resort whose permanent residents all are pensioners. He promised federal housing for young families.

Elliott, 54, second son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, won office with a 1,400-vote plurality Tuesday in his second successful venture into politics. He was elected a Democratic national committeeman from Florida in 1964.

Correction

A mistake was made in yesterday's police report. It reported that Randy Jones, 205 North Stoddard, was charged with assault and affray. He was not but he was charged with careless and imprudent driving by exceeding the speed limit.

Kennedy Assassin's Widow Marries Technician

FATE, Tex. (AP) —Marina Oswald, widow of President John F. Kennedy's assassin, and an electronics technician she met a month ago began married life today in a white brick house on a quiet street in a Dallas suburb.

Mrs. Oswald, 23, a pretty, Russian-born blonde, and Kenneth J. Porter, 27, a divorced father of two, were married in this small north Texas farming community Tuesday.

The couple was introduced a month ago at the home where Porter was staying, just two doors from Mrs. Oswald's residence in Richardson.

The marriage ceremony, performed in the office of a justice of the peace, followed a hectic day in which the couple went to Durant, Okla., for a blood test and to Sherman, Tex., for a marriage license. They avoided a three-day Texas waiting period by getting the blood tests in Oklahoma.

The new Mrs. Porter has changed noticeably since she attended the funeral of her first husband, slain just two days after he shot President Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963.

She became active socially in recent months and was seen with escorts at Dallas night clubs. She studied English for eight weeks at the University of Michigan and then spent time in Arizona working on her life story for book publication.

She bought a small brick house in Richardson soon after Oswald was slain. Less than two months ago she moved into the three-bedroom white brick home she now occupies.

IT'S TIME FOT THE ARTS

Last Saturday night's attendance at the Sikeston Little Theatre's presentation of "The Sound of Music" in Kennett should go a long way in proving our contention this area is ready for a year-round arts program.

The Kennett High School auditorium was nearly overflowing last Saturday night, and the audience so warmly received the presentation that performers found it difficult to believe their ears. At the end of the musical, local playgoers rose to give a standing and a deserved ovation to the Sikeston area cast.

Now that such enthusiasm has been evidenced, isn't it about time for some organization or organizations to come forth with a community-wide arts or cultural program?

We're hopeful that such a plan is just around the corner. The signs certainly point to widespread community acceptance of such a program in the Kennett area.

MORE ON GUN CONTROL

The Senate Judiciary subcommittee on juvenile delinquency today, resumed hearings on the gun control bill (S 1592) introduced by the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.). Sen. Dodd has charged that pressures by "the gun lobby," particularly the National Rifle Association, already have doomed the measure.

After gun control bills died in committee last year, Sen. Dodd in January introduced a moderate and not highly controversial gun bill (S 14). In effect, this measure would have placed the same kind of control over mail-order gun sales that already exists over retail sales -- banning sales to minors, criminals, psychopaths -- and establishing enforcement procedures. Sportsmen, however, greeted this overture with charges of communism and other out-sized reactions.

Sen. Dodd's substitute bill (S 1592), on which the hearings now are concentrating, incorporates the recommendations of President Johnson's crime message to Congress of March 8. The President proposed amendment of the Federal Firearms Act to prohibit interstate shipment of arms except by dealers licensed by the Treasury Department. Mail order sales to individuals would be stopped, sales to persons under 21 (18 for rifles and shotguns) would be prohibited and importation of surplus military weapons would be restricted.

In a precis of his own bill, Sen. Dodd said (Congressional Record, March 22, 1965) it would, in general: "Make it illegal to transport, ship, or receive firearms in interstate or foreign commerce, except as between licensed importers, licensed manufacturers, or licensed dealers, or between such licenses and persons excepted from the application of the Federal Firearms Act. . . Thus under the bill, the so-called interstate mail-order traffic in firearms, whereby an individual can order a gun to be shipped from a mail-order dealer in another state, would be completely terminated."

The bill also would limit sales by federally licensed importers, manufacturers and dealers of firearms to persons over 21 years of age, except for shotguns and rifles, which could not be sold to persons under 18. A companion bill (S 1591), now before the Senate Commerce Committee, covers heavy and gangster type weapons.

The revised Dodd bill is a good deal more stringent than the January measure. It has increased the ire of sportsmen, hunters, and collectors, and its path toward approval appears dark and treacherous.

14(b) AND EXCISE CUTS

With his usual political shrewdness, President Johnson has renewed the use of the carrot-and-stick technique on Congress and the public.

Having submitted to Congress a plan for progressive cuts in Federal excise taxes, the President has promptly asked for repeal of the Federal statute permitting state "right-to-work" laws.

On the other hand he intimates to the people that consumer costs on many items are to be reduced. On the other he proposes to tighten union control over the work force and thus pave the way for wage increases which will mean higher consumer prices.

It's an interesting way of pleasing many voters and leaving the economy essentially unchanged, except as it affects labor costs and government debt.

Among the standard measurements of the economy, there is absolutely no way of knowing just how much excise tax reductions can increase sales. The American economy is experiencing natural growth, partly through expanding population and broader world trade. Last year's income tax cut and the additional drop this year will put more consumer money into the sales market. There is no way to evaluate the part that lower excise taxes will play in this complex expansion. It may be more of a psychological factor than an actual benefit.

But it is clear that any reduction in Federal revenue under present budget requirements will add to the debt load of the central Government.

If excise levy cuts are to be taken with a grain of salt, so too must the advocacy of repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act. This section now permits individual states to enact laws preventing the union shop. Nineteen states have such right-to-work laws, among them Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi.

The union shop, where contracts permit it, requires involuntary union membership. Dues and assessments are paid whether the worker concurs in their use. At the same time, the union is relieved of the necessity of proving its usefulness in recruiting drives, and can devote added financial resources to harder bargaining and stronger strike power.

Certainly this generation should not forget what it means for union agents to control hiring practices. The day of the working permit, purchased from the union boss, is not so long past. Today, in states without right-to-work laws, the union managers determine who shall work and what tribute they shall pay. It costs the employer -- and the worker.

Labor is hitting hard on the 14(b) issue at this time in order to cash in on its support of the big Democratic majority in Congress.

New elections will be held in 1966, and the AFL-CIO is by no means certain it will command such strong backing in the 90th Congress.

Nevertheless, the issue is one of high controversy, and Congress is about evenly divided. It was to avoid such controversy that the President waited until mid-May to make his demand for repeal of 14(b). He wanted his domestic program enacted, or well under way, before this issue arose. How strongly he will fight for abolishing the right-to-work laws is yet to be seen, but he has paid off the unions by thrusting the matter into the lap of Congress.

There is no proof that 14(b) has resulted in "union busting," as labor leaders argue. There is every sign that repeal would place job control in the hands of union bosses and force workers to pay tribute for the chance to be gainfully employed.

President Johnson may have been reluctant to follow through on this promise to the labor politics, but when he did so he took the precaution of holding out the bait of excise tax cuts to minimize public objection. It is a political gimmick which should not go unnoticed.

MUSICAL FORT

The smallest of the country's national monuments is Castle Clinton in New York City. It consists of exactly one acre. Built in New York in 1808-11 to defend New York Harbor, the fort was later renamed Castle Garden and was used as a concert hall. From 1855 to 1890, Castle Garden was a landing depot for immigrants arriving in the United States.

TIGHT SWEATER

The senator needed a secretary and a psychologist invited him down to watch the examination of candidates for the job. The psychologist called on the first girl and asked:

"What's two and two?" Her answer was a prompt: "Four."

The second girl thought for a moment, suspecting a catch, and said: "Twenty-two."

The last applicant answered: "Four, but it could be 22."

After they had gone, the psychologist said to the senator:

"The tests were very revealing. The first girl had a conventional mind; to her, two and two is always four. The second girl has imagination; she realized it might be 22. The third girl is a combination of both; she's practical and has imagination. Clearly she will make the best secretary. Now, which would you like?"

Without hesitation, the senator replied: "The one in the tight sweater."

B. A. IN DISHWASHING

When a union official criticizes the federal government, and when a labor paper publishes the criticism, that's news!

In Little Rock, a 24-week training program has been set up with federal funds to train unemployed youths for such jobs as dishwasher, porter, and bus boy.

"It's the most ridiculous thing I ever heard of," says the Arkansas state organizer for the hotel and restaurant employees union.

Twenty-four weeks to learn how to wash dishes, to clear a table, to carry a suitcase? We have a vague feeling that the union man knows whereof he speaks.

TRENDS: According to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, men may display an Edwardian touch in their waistcoats this fall. Fancy brocades and tapestry fabrics are being used by several makers for regular vests and for matching dress ties and vests. . . A new idea -- the printed lining of blazer jackets carried the same crest motif of the metallic buttons. (Not new, but being seen more -- the lining of the breast pocket of a suit or jacket, which also matches the lining, and which pulls up to simulate a foulard breast pocket handkerchief.)

There's one thing you have to say for the Women's Job Corps of the government's poverty program. It is traveling in classy company.

It is being mentioned in the same breath with Radcliffe College for women and Harvard University for men -- and you can hardly get any classier than that.

Linking of the three names began when Sen. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio ripped into the Women's Job Corps project as outrageously expensive.

Lausche charged that the program to teach job corps trainees basic education, homemaking and citizenship would cost taxpayers nearly $8,000 per year per girl -- twice the cost of sending her to one of the nation's leading colleges.

"Nuts," retorted the Office of Economic Opportunity, although naturally not in that language. It would cost only $6,000 a year to train a girl.

"Also," commented the OEO starchily, "we find the cost to parents and the school of sending a young woman to a place like Radcliffe College (Cambridge, Mass.) for a nine-month academic year is $8,000, compared with our $6,000."

OEO then took another look at its figures and issued another statement -- this one to the effect that actually it would cost only $4,650 to train a girl in the Women's Job Corps program, whereas it costs $6,410 a year to send a young man to Harvard.

"The heck it does," retorted Harvard, although of course not in those words. A young gentleman, said the college, could attend Harvard like a young gentleman should for as little as around $3,500 a year.

Where all this leaves the taxpayer or the puzzled parent of a Radcliffe or Harvard student is a little hazy. But it does point out how classy poverty can be when Uncle Sam gets into the act.

Any girl who finds herself hobnobbing in the news with a Harvard man or a Radcliffe girl can't be doing too poorly.

The nation's independent business proprietors apparently believe it costs more than $50 a month to house, feed and clothe a youngster.

This is reflected in the overwhelming majority by which they have voted support in a nationwide vote on H. R. 533, introduced into Congress by Rep. Walter Rogers (Texas) to raise the personal income tax exemption for an individual, his spouse and each child from the present $600 to $1,000. The vote taken by the National Federation of Independent Business resulted in 83% for, 16% opposed, with 1% undecided.

The Federation analysts report that while a large part of the favorable vote was undoubtedly prompted by the realization that the $600 exemption is unrealistically low, there is also an apparent growing sentiment among the businessmen that the 1964 income tax cut was largely a deceptive device deluding rather than alleviating the problem of the working and middle class tax payer.

The continuous year long field survey also being conducted by the Federation shows independent businessmen rapidly growing disenchanted with the 1964 tax cut, due in part to the fact that millions of tax payers owed additional money, due to under-withholding. In addition, the continuous survey is revealing the feeling that proposed increased pay roll taxes for Social Security, as well as increased state and local tax levies will not only absorb any benefits gained by the workers, but will probably result in their actually paying more taxes than before the cut was made in the income tax rate.

At one time Abraham Lincoln pointed out the difficulty of fooling all of the people all the time.

H. L. Hunt Says

RESTORING THE MONROE DOCTRINE

At last we have taken a long and vitally important step toward accomplishing what is by far the most important goal of our foreign policy in this hemisphere: restoration of the Monroe Doctrine. But unfinished business still remains.

The firm and effective action taken by President Johnson recently in the Dominican Republic served notice on friend and foe alike that we will not tolerate further seizures of power by communists in the Western Hemisphere. They will not be allowed to take over any more countries through revolutions planned and armed by Fidel Castro and the Kremlin.

The usual outcry from the far left and all the sympathizers arose. But the action had been taken. The deed was done. In a manner that spoke far louder than any words could have done, the Monroe Doctrine was reaffirmed when the Marines landed in Santo Domingo.

But past administrations allowed a gaping breach of the Monroe Doctrine. Though we restore it now, the breach already made still remains. It is Castro's communist-controlled Cuba.

If the Monroe Doctrine is once again the basic principle of our hemispheric policy, then Cuba cannot be allowed to fly an alien banner indefinitely just ninety miles from our shores. Cuba must be restored to the free world before the Monroe Doctrine can regain its full and rightful meaning.

This need not mean war on Marine invasion. Blockade and the Cuban exiles, with sufficient help, can eliminate Castro and communism from Cuba. That should be our goal. HLH.

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — An open letter home:—

Dear Frances and Tracy,

Well, sweet ducks, I hope you are not spending the old man into bankruptcy while I'm away and too sentimental to cut off your credit. Spend less, live more.

You may be wondering what is going on over here. So do I. When I was here 48 hours, I thought I knew for sure what the truth was here. Now that I have been here toward 48 days, I'm not so sure what is untrue.

Perhaps that is a growth toward education and is typical. In any case, I would like to find out and will continue to seek to learn what I can know.

What it seems to me that we are doing is pouring out billions of American dollars and the earnestness of, eventually, perhaps hundreds of thousands of well-trained American soldiers on the doubtful hinge of victory.

The hinge, I suspect, is whether we stay in the spending area long enough to create a middle class. Can our dollars and our soldiers and our dreams make permanence here?

And that hinge, of course, is whether the Vietnamese can among themselves create a stable government that is able to achieve and reflect their national glory — and not resent our help too much.

Well, enough of politics. I suppose you may be more interested in personal things.

There is great dignity and sweetness among these people in the midst of the dire and perilous lives they live. They have time for kindness if you have, and sometimes if you haven't.

They respond immediately to a courtesy, a kindness, a smile and a help. Without being fatuous about it, I think if they can make a methodical government attentive to the people's goals then our billions spent here and our presence here will be worthwhile. Our support to their own goals of dignity won't have been wasted.

Of course, sometimes homesick men away from home fasten their dreams on the performance of an individual.

To many of us at the press center here our "Miss Viet Nam" is a 13-year-old orphan we call "Little One."

She is tiny, black-haired, ready-smiling, works like a Trojan, cleaning and polishing and serving drinks. Everybody tries to teach her a new English word every day, and she blooms under our adulation like a flower responsive to a bright sun.

She makes us all feel better every day. She's our dream daughter away from home. We have plans to buy her a smart uniform, and long-term plans to raise a fund to educate her. That means our conscience to her own future will force us to lose her. We all hate to face up to that, but we shall.

Oh, I guess I started to write you about something else — but this is what I have written. I'll have to tell you later about how I've figured how to whip the enemy Viet Cong — in 12 easy years.

Your homesick husband and father, Harold.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Last March, writing from Moscow, I reported that the United States and Russia were on a collision course. The reason, I said, was that American bombing of North Viet Nam which had cut the ground out from under Khrushchev's co-existence policy, set the Chinese to chortling that co-existence wouldn't work, and played into the hands of the old Stalinist, anti-American clique inside the Kremlin.

Last week, Cyrus Eaton, the Cleveland industrialist, returning from Moscow, reported that Premier Kosygin had told him American policy in North Viet Nam had left Russia with no alternative but to fight and that Moscow would retaliate against American forces "with everything we have" unless the bombing of North Viet Nam comes to an end.

Next day, Secretary of State Dean Rusk issued what was described as a stern warning to Russia and China not to widen the war in Viet Nam. He revealed that a new Sam missile site had just been sighted in the north. Rusk, when working for John F. Kennedy, had held Russian Sam missile sites to be purely defensive when constructed in Cuba only ninety miles away. But he viewed them with alarm 9,000 miles away.

Previously, Russian diplomats had conveyed informal but quite definite warnings to the State Department that if Russian missile sites in North Viet Nam were bombed, Russia would have no alternative but to retaliate. They have not, of course, been bombed ninety miles off the Florida coast at any time since placed there four years ago.

—DANGEROUS DIPLOMACY—

So runs the dangerous game of diplomatic tic-tac-toe between two nations which have the power, with a single push of the nuclear button, to wipe out sixty of each other's major cities. Like small boys with chips on their shoulders, each dares the other, while each accumulates more chips and more grievances.

The United States has now sent or is sending a total of 65,000 troops to Viet Nam, three times the number President Johnson found there when he took over from the late John F. Kennedy.

The North Vietnamese government is now stripping its key government ministries from its capital, Hanoi, and moving them to areas where they cannot be easily bombed. This is the act of a government preparing for a long siege, not one ready to talk peace.

Reports from South Viet Nam indicate that the Viet Cong is ready to take advantage of the monsoon rains by coming out of the jungle for prolonged ground battles; also is preparing to set up embassies in every major country to claim that it, not the frequently changing government in Saigon, is the true representative of this troubled area.

In brief, the American policy of bombing North Viet Nam, sold to President Johnson by Gen. Maxwell Taylor and White House adviser McGeorge Bundy, has been a miserable failure.

—TAYLOR'S FLOP—

Taylor had left the Army during the Eisenhower Administration to write a book, "The Uncertain Trumpet," in which he advocated small brush-fire wars for settling international problems rather than relying on the Eisenhower policy of push-button war.

Taylor sold his ideas to John F. Kennedy, who brought him back into government as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. However, Kennedy never entirely bought Taylor's theory of brush-fire wars. He dabbled with the idea in South Viet Nam, but never gave Taylor free-rein. It remained for Lyndon Johnson, inheritor of an insoluble military and political mess, to appoint Gen. Taylor as ambassador to South Viet Nam and tell him to go all out to solve the mess he helped create.

Gen. Taylor soon deviated from his original idea of brush-fire war and extended the war to his disastrous policy of Navy-Air Force bombing of North Viet Nam. This has failed. And with the beginning of the monsoon rains, we are now right back where we started — fighting an unseen, jungle enemy which sleeps by day and raids by night — the kind of warfare which the Continental Army used against the British when conducting an unpopular war against thirteen relatively weak colonies in 1776.

Those thirteen colonies won — partly because they were fighting on their own soil; partly because they were fighting for something they passionately believed in; partly because British troops were fighting a long way from home for something they did not believe in.

American troops half-way around the world in Viet Nam are in the same position today. They are fighting a battle which continued eight years under the French, ten years under American "advisers," and will continue another eighteen years, or even more — for the simple reason that the Vietnamese are fighting on their own ground against foreigners and white men.

Significantly, the George Washington of both North and South Viet Nam is Ho Chi-Minh, now the leader of North Viet Nam. But as the Father of Independence he is revered in the South as much as in the North.

The fact that the "George Washington" of Indochina is viewed with love and admiration by the people of the South whose alleged independence we are trying to preserve is a political fact which no bombing of bridges or raids on supply trains or skirmishes in the steaming jungles can eradicate.

And if Cardinal Spellman had not sold President Eisenhower on protecting the migration of one million Catholics, from North to South Viet Nam immediately after the signing of the 1954 Geneva Treaty, these two unhappy peoples might well be happily united and completely independent of Red China today.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Union Chiefs Urging President To Decree End of Lie Detector Use By All U. S. Agencies -- including FBI and CIA.

Washington, D. C.: -- A new and bitter offensive which will crackle through the headlines soon will be launched by labor against the use of polygraphs -- lie detectors -- by any government agency or by industry, regardless of the reason.

With this drive will be coupled a campaign to wipe out the use of closed circuit television, intraplant communications, computer analyses, and other electronic wizardries used to check on personnel.

But the primary target is the lie detector. Labor leaders feel so strongly about it they object to its use even by the FBI and CIA in security and anti-crime activity.

This is a sharp shift in militancy on this front. Several months ago the AFL-CIO leaders attacked the lie detector only on the commercial and industrial front. But in recent weeks labor's high command has decided to push for the wiping out of polygraph use anywhere in the U. S.

The union chiefs could not have put it more strongly when they appointed two of their group to head the campaign -- the machinists chief, Al J. Hayes, whose union has vast jurisdiction over defense and such space projects as the two-man Gemini space shot; and James Suffridge, head of the Retail Clerks International Assn. The latter often is spoken of by insiders as the next AFL-CIO president.

"Police state surveillance of the lives of individual citizens," is labor's description of the lie detector.

There are 1,500 polygraph companies in the country doing a business of more than a billion dollars. The government does a fairly large polygraph business itself.

At the latest count, the U.S. agencies -- not including the secretive CIA -- give about 24,000 polygraph tests a year. The FBI, though its specialists are the most experienced, does not use the lie detector on its personnel. It restricts the polygraph to security and crime work. Central Intelligence, however, gives all its prospective employes a polygraph test.

In addition to the CIA, 24 U.S. bureaus and agencies own and use the lie detector equipment. The government owns some 600 polygraphs in addition to what the CIA has. There actually are almost 700 authorized polygraph operators working for the government full time.

The first to be antagonized by this was the AFL-CIO government workers' unions. When the figures were made known to the national AFL-CIO chiefs they were appalled and decided to appoint the two-man subcommittee to launch the national offensive.

During a recent meeting of national labor chiefs it was decided to ask President Johnson for an immediate decree ordering the discontinuance of all federal lie detector use. If this move fails, the labor chiefs will go to Congress.

Paralleling this will be labor's drive in private industry. The lie detectors are most heavily used by the steel industry, copper refining, auto manufacturing, meat packing, food processing, oil, electronics, mail order retailing and supermarkets.

To hit the "private sector" of the lie detectors, the national labor leaders have directed their regional people to fight for state and city laws banning the polygraph. Its use already is banned in Alaska, Oregon, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and California.

In the last state the law says: "No employer shall demand or require any applicant for employment or prospective employment or any employe to submit to or take a polygraph, lie detector, or similar test or examination as a condition of employment or continued employment. The prohibition of this section does not apply to the federal government or any agency or local subdivision thereof. . ."

The labor men, of course, want the ban to be all-inclusive. If they can't get it through the legislatures, they will fight to get it into labor contracts. And they'll surely get into a battle.

The opposition is saying there is a sharp line between the detection of dishonesty and the invasion of privacy.

Morehouse WSCS Holds Annual Pledge Service

MOREHOUSE -- The Women's Society of Christian Service met Monday afternoon in the Sanctuary of the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist Church in Morehouse for their annual Pledge Service, under the leadership of Mrs. Jo Barnett, with fifteen members attending.

The program opened with Mrs. James Estep at the piano, playing soft music, "All Things Are Thine." Mrs. Barnett gave the meditation, "Come Let Us Prepare Ourselves To Behold The Portrait of Christ", followed by prayer, "For God's Presence In The Service." At the conclusion of prayer, a large portrait of Christ was unveiled. A solo, "More Love To Thee" was sung by Mrs. Charles Allbright. The scripture reading was from First Corinthians, 13th Chapter, followed by Mrs. Barnett giving the Introduction, "A Portrait of Christ" and a poem entitled, "God Pointed His Finger At Me."

The following ladies participated on the program: "My Goods To The Poor" by Mrs. A. W. Summers; "Love Is Kind" by Mrs. Veda Cook; "Love Suffereth Long" by Mrs. Norman Crumpecker; "I Give My Body To be Burned" by Mrs. Douglas Hammock; "Love Never Ends" by Mrs. Gladys Crumpecker; "Love Hopes All Things" by Mrs. Wendell Fox; "Love Abides" by Mrs. Virgil Owings. Soft music was played as the ladies brought their pledge cards and placed them on the Altar, all kneeling as Mrs. Barnett pronounced the Benediction.

Cards Stop 5 Game Losing Streak, Down Giants 2 to 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Cardinals pulled out of a five-game losing streak Tuesday with a 2-1 victory over the Giants at San Francisco.

The Cardinals will entertain National League leader Los Angeles tonight at Busch Stadium in St. Louis. Don Drysdale 8-3 will start for the Dodgers against Redbird pitcher Ray Washburn 3-2. The series is the first in a 17-game homestand for St. Louis.

Ray Sadecki, who started a seven-game winning streak for St. Louis two weeks ago, was the man who stopped the nosedive. He pitched a five-hitter at the Giants and held on while Cardinal defense and singles won the game.

The Giants' only run came in the second when Willie McCovey blasted one over the centerfield fence to give the Giants a 1-0 lead.

Bill White, who had three singles, led off the fourth with a single and scampered all the way to third on an error. Ken Boyer grounded out as White scored to tie it. The Cardinals got the winning run in the sixth when Dick Groat singled Boyer home.

There were several fine fielding plays by the Redbird infield and leftfielder Lou Brock made a running catch of a drive from McCovey's bat in the ninth inning to ice the game.

DOME SWEET DOME—Dick Farrell tests the pitching mound at Harris County domed stadium, the new home of the Houston Astros.

Babe Ruth League Action At VFW

Sikeston Babe Ruth League held its opener at VFW Stadium. The two contests of the night turned out to be real fine baseball action. Typical of the fine action found in boys baseball. In the first contest, Home Materials nosed out a stubborn Reiss Dairy team 10 to 9. Home Materials out hit Reiss 12 to 6. The deciding inning for the Home Materials crew was the fifth, when they rolled across 5 big runs, while banging out five hits in that inning. Beal was the winning pitcher, while Counts got a mark on the loss side.

Brown carried the big stick for Reiss Dairy having two hits in the game. Stewart, Childress, Newman, McDonald and Underwood all had two hits a piece for the winners.

Anchor Toy 4, Harts 3 -- The second game of the night turned out to be a pitchers duel, with Garner on the hill for Harts and Farris doing the hardball chunking for winning Anchor Toy. Both boys pitched fine ball games. Garner allowed 6 hits in the contest, while Farris gave up only 7.

Garner was also his teams leading hitter banging out three hits in three appearances. Watkins, Harts second baseman, had two hits.

Bailey, Felker, Farris, Edwards, McDaniel and Sharp all had one hit each to lead Anchor Toy to its first seasonal win.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Who was the only southern member of Congress who refused to secede with his state at the outbreak of the Civil War?

A—Sen. Andrew Johnson from Tennessee.

Q—What do the letters IHS represent?

A—IHS is an adaptation into Roman characters of the Greek letters spelling the name Jesus. They are most often found as a monogram on altar cloths and vestments.

Q—On what continent are marsupials to be found?

A—All marsupials, with the exception of the opossums of America and a few others, make their home only in Australia and nearby regions.

Sports TALK By DON SAVAGE

"Talk" to the crawdads about fishing conditions!

If there's one creature that has the inside dope on fish, it's the lowly crawdad or crayfish. His life is a continuous struggle for survival against the voracious appetites of game fish. How successfully he wages this battle often determines how much luck the angler can expect.

Availability of food is the biggest single factor governing a fish's desire to gobble a bait. Abundant supplies mean slow fishing. Insufficient quantities generally indicate that the fish are hungry and will strike baits resembling the type of food they're accustomed to.

At certain seasons, crayfish burrow into the mud and are scarce. Fish scrounge around the bottom waiting for a straggler to stray from protection. When this occurs, frequently in the spring, a crawdad bait can prove deadly.

To discover what the crawdads are doing, check with local bait shops and producers in the area. If they are having trouble obtaining crayfish for customers, chances are good that the same condition exists in nearby lakes and streams. This is the time to dangle a crawdad over a mudbank.

Always examine closely the first fish caught to find what foods predominate in its diet. Even the most discriminating piscatorial gourmet can't resist a crawdad, and when not found in large numbers, that's your clue to give this bait a try.

"Keeping up with the crawdads" won't help your social standing, but it'll sure make a hit with the fish.

War Between AAU And NCAA Still Going Strong

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP -- The war between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union over control of ameteur athletics in the United States is going full blast again today. The big loser could be the track team the United States will send against the Russians at Kiev July 31.

The end to an uneasy truce between the organizations came Tuesday when Everett D. Barnes, president of the NCAA, warned its members to boycott the National AAU Championships at San Diego on June 26-27.

Barnes declared in a special memorandum from Hamilton, N. Y., where he is director of athletics at Colgate University, that participation of college-eligible athletes in the AAU Championships would place the student's institution in violation of the NCAA by-laws and subject to enforcement procedures.

Barnes emphasized that there would be a violation "whether or not the student represents his institution, a club or competes unattached."

This placed in jeopardy the prospect of a strong U. S. team being selected for the dual meet with the Soviet Union. The first two finishers in each event at the AAU Championships traditionally have been named as the U. S. team.

Barnes added, however, that the directive against participation in the AAU Championships "should not mean that NCAA athletes need be eliminated from the team competing against Russia. They should be permitted to quality through other established championships meets."

This was an apparent reference to the forthcoming NCAA Championships and meets conducted by the U. S. Track and Field Federation, affiliated with the NCAA.

Donald Hull, executive director of the AAU was not available for comment on Barnes' statement.

matter of fact

The skunk, a member of the weasel family, is an animal exclusive to America. It is a calm, deliberate, amiable creature seldom molested by other animals because of the offensive odor it can eject when in danger. Most skunks accept man's presence and will establish a den under a building as well as in natural sites. Deodorized skunks make delightful and affectionate pets.

Clark, Winner of 500 Collects $166,621.

INDIANAPOLIS AP -- Scot Jimmy Clark and Italian-born Mario Andretti shared the spotlight Tuesday night at a victory dinner which carved a record pie of $628,399 from the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Clark, the 29-year-old winner from Duns, Scotland, collected $166,621, also a record, for the Lotus - Ford team. The first prize cash actually goes to the owner of the winning car, Colin Chapman of London, who makes a distribution to the driver. This usually varies from 45 to 60 per cent.

Andretti, of Nazareth, Pa., was voted Rookie-of-the-Year for his third-place finish. Balloting by a committee of newsmen and Indianapolis Motor Speedway officials gave Andretti 23 of the 24 votes cast.

He received $500, a trophy from a meat packing firm and a year's supply of meat.

Clark also received the race's Plymouth pace car, a $1,000 wardrobe, six trophies, an engraved watch and assorted other special prizes.

The 1965 purse topped last year's by $118,224. The Speedway contributed $500,493, lap prizes another $30,000 and accessory prizes $97,906.

Last year the Speedway gave $397,150 for the prizes, and winner A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., picked up $153,650 for his car's owner.

Parnelli Jones, Torrance, Calif., runner-up in Monday's race and the 1963 champion, won $64,661, and Andretti received $42,051.

PITCHING -- Bob Veale, Pittsburgh, struck out 16, most in the majors this season, and gave up just five hits as the Pirates defeated Philadelphia 4-0 for their 12th straight victory.

BATTING -- Jim Hickman, New York, drove in four runs with two homers, leading the Mets to a 10-5 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Over 1,000 World Health Organization projects in 146 countries are planned for this year.

Little League Star A Girl ?

ROCK HILL, S. C. AP--Carol Tobias, her blonde hair cropped short, is ready to open the season this week as possibly the only girl ever to play Little League baseball in South Carolina.

"I just like to play baseball," the spunky 12-year-old said during a recent practice break. "If they don't want girls to play Little League with boys, they ought to have a girls' Little League team."

But the Rock Hill Little League baseball commissioner has given her permission to play this year for the York County Natural Gas Authority team.

Her coach, Jimmy Cox, said Carol is a real slugger at 84 pounds and an exceptional outfielder.

"Carol came to play and she'll be playing because she's good --not because she's a girl," he said.

Many Wiring Systems Now Out-Of-Date

Very often, homeowners continue using the same wiring system that they've been using for the past ten years, in spite of having added many new electrical appliances to their homes.

There's no doubt that electricity, through appliances and electrical utilization, has added much more comfort and convenience to our lives. But a home's wiring system must grow along with electrical use.

For one thing, the more appliances and uses for electricity, the more outlets will be needed, in the kitchen as well as in the living room, the bedroom, or, for that matter, on the patio or in the garden.

The versatility of appliances has created the need for convenient outlets and plenty of them. Such modern devices as "appliance center" for kitchens where four or five different appliances can be plugged in at the same time are among the more glamorous conveience outlets available.

To have plenty of outlets is fine. But remember, there must be enough circuits to supply all those outlets with sufficient current to operate several appliances at one time.

It all starts with the power supplied to your distribution center through the "Electrical Service Entrance."

Adequate Wiring or Full Housepower begins with the availability of at least 100 amperes of electrical current at either 120 or 240 volts.

This will mean that up to 24,000 watts of energy may be utilized at one time.

If you add up the watts on the washing machine, dryer, toaster, iron, vacuum cleaner, refrigerator, lamps, radio, television and all the other electrical uses, you will begin to understand why adequate home wiring is so important.

And when you count up those wattages, remember that the 24,000 overall wattage for your home must be distributed through all the circuits in the house. And each circuit must carry its own load. That depends, quite simply, on the size of the wire. For example, a "number 12" wire can carry 20 amperes of current whereas a "number 14" wire can carry only 15 ampres (the larger the wire, the smaller the number designation). Today, "number 12" wires are recommended throughout the house, enabling 20 ampere fuses to protect the circuits.

If you are concerned about the wiring in your house, call in an electrical contractor to check your entire system.

Woolworth Executive Cities Opportunities In Retailing Field For College Graduates

Opportunities in retailing for the more than 500,000 young men and women graduating from college this year "have never been brighter," in the view of Robert W. Young, vice president of the F. W. Woolworth Co.

"Retailing is becoming more competitive and expanding and needs qualified personnel to fill executive positions and is searching college campuses for talent as never before," Mr. Young said in an interview in New York.

"The changing character of retailing has been primarily responsible for this increased interest in recruiting well-trained personnel. Retailing is now more than ever before feeling the pressures of new and more aggressive competition as the traditional specialized areas of retailing blend and overlap, diversify and expand," he added.

EFFECT OF ELECTRONICS

The technology of electronics is changing many of the traditional practices of retailing, and the expanding economy and future population increases require long-range decisions as to market strategy and capital investments. These are only a few of the reasons for the stepped-up recruitment by retailing organizations, the Woolworth executive pointed out.

"The retailing field today offers alluring opportunities to college graduates not only in merchandising, but such areas as accounting, real estate, construction and other specialized fields," Mr. Young said.

"Our company, along with many others, needs at all times a substantial reservoir of educated men of good character to eventually move up to supervisory and executive positions. And career opportunities in our company are greater than ever before because of our company's accelerating growth not only in the variety store field but in more comprehensive areas of merchandising," he explained.

PROMOTION FROM WITHIN

"At the present time," he added, "there are about 2,400 young men in training with our company, and during the past year we sent executive teams to 276 colleges and universities to outline career opportunities."

Woolworth maintains a policy of promotion from within, and every elected officer, every executive in Woolworth's history, whether at home or abroad, is a veteran of the nation's largest variety chain.

"It has been Woolworth's experience that a fundamental basic on-the-job training course plus a policy of promoting from within and the opportunity of sharing in the net profits is an effective means of creating that feeling of belonging, that feeling of being part of a successful team," Mr. Young said.

He also stated that young men who enter the company's training program and complete it can look forward to responsibility, financial compensation, pensions and benefits equal to or better than men at a similar level in industry.

To help create the needed reservoir of new talent which all business organizations need, Woolworth has and will continue to participate in the National Merit Scholarship Program.

197th Pledges All To Vietnam Struggle

". . . we are honored by the distinction of being chosen to receive The Presidential Unit Citation and I know I speak for the entire unit when I say that we will wear it with pride.

"We will strive to conduct ourselves as a 'distinguished unit' and continue to pledge our utmost support in the grave struggle against communism in the Republic of Vietnam."

These were the words of Maj. Joseph N. Jaggers of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., Commanding Officer of the 197th Aviation Company (Armed Helicopter), when he was notified of the Presidential award.

Being singled out for unit honors is not a new experience for the men of the 197th. In 1963, the unit, then designated the Utility Tactical Transport (UTT) Company, received the Hughes Aviation Unit of the Year award. The unit was cited in part for ". . . being the first company of its kind in pioneering the techniques of providing armed helicopter escort for troop transport helicopters in Vietnam."

In individual awards and decorations, the men of the 197th are among the most decorated. Numbered among these awards are the Legion of Merit, Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal, Distinguished Flying Cross, Purple Heart, and also Vietnamese awards and decorations.

Since its arrival in Vietnam in October 1962, the unit has chalked up an average of 1,230 hours flying time and more than 1,100 sorties per month.

The Presidential Unit Citation was also awarded to the 1st Air Commando Squadron, 34th Tactical Group, 2d Air Division, United States Air Force; and three units of the Vietnamese Armed Forces.

All of the Citations were recommended by Army General W. C. Westmoreland, Commanding General, U. S. Military Assistance Command, Vietnam, and were approved by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The Internal Revenue Service processes about 400 million reports a year and the Social Security Administration handles 300 million, a government committee studying paperwork has reported.

The aluminum foil market has grown from 274.2 million pounds in 1960 to some 537 million pounds last year.

Clouds Lift From Stormy Remap Issue

By LARRY HALL

JEFFERSON CITY AP--Legislative storm clouds seem to be lifting on the tricky issue of redistricting the Missouri House of Representatives.

House Democrats caucused Tuesday to work out their strategy.

Since Democrats control the House 123 - 40, the caucus agreement should have little trouble on the floor.

In the past few days, sponsors of the current 168-member redistricting map have raised their sights a bit. They first counted 90 votes for the plan. Now they expect to hit a majority of 100 or more when it comes to a final vote.

Some of the representatives are far from satisfied with the prospects of being reapportioned out of a $4,800-a-year job. But even worse they fear the possibility of having to run at large and compete with the massive votes that would be rolled up in urban areas.

Under the current plan, the new 168-member House--an increase of five--would have almost half the membership from the Kansas City and St. Louis areas in conformance with the U. S. Supreme Court's one man-one vote decree.

Graham indicated the Democratic strategy would be to let the dissident members talk themselves out--probably next Wednesday and Thursday. But all proposed amendments would be voted down on the floor.

Then the House majority would, with as much good grace as possible, pass the proposal and send it to the Senate. Leaders in the Senate have indicated they would be inclined to go along with any fair plan that is acceptable to the House.

Meanwhile the Senate has passed and sent back to the House a proposal to put future house redistricting in the hands of a special bipartisan commission--the same system that is being used now to revamp the Senate.

This is expected to be rejected automatically by the House and be thrown into a House-Senate conference committee to work out a compromise between the commission idea and the House approved constitutional change to leave House realignment to the House itself.

Originally the House proposal called for four-year terms for representatives, the same as senators.

Graham indicated the House probably would retreat from that position but would stick to the idea of letting the House do its own reapportioning.

Whatever compromise the conferees come up with will have to be passed on by the voters at a special election later this summer.

As of now, prospects have brightened considerably for the House to wash its own redistricting linen in the first week of June, the final month of the session.

Mansfield Praises U.S. Press

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield praised the nation's press and said it must continue to reflect the truth as it sees it, "not as it is reflected in the retina of 'official position.'"

When these two views differ, Mansfield said, "there must be no forced convergence in the name of a national unity."

That kind of unity, he added, "is not a source of strength. Rather, it is a source of a dangerous and delusive weakness."

In a commencement speech prepared for delivery at Clarke College, Mansfield said it is the basic task of the press to ask incisive questions "which in a democracy need to be asked by the people and answered by their government."

The Montana Democrat said this was the case in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, where "the press provides the impetus and stimulus for a searching and continuing public debate which is likely to go on and should go on until there is a satisfactory resolution of critical national questions."

Mansfield injected his remarks about the press into a speech largely devoted to the role of women in today's society as he addressed the graduates of the liberal arts college for women. Mrs. Mansfield, who attended Clarke College for three years and was graduated from St. Mary's of Notre Dame, received an honory doctor of laws degree at the ceremonies.

Ringing Up "29"

This year rings up the 29th anniversary of June is Dairy Month — celebrated annually when milk production increases significantly.

Aimed especially at the teenage and young adult market, this year's June Dairy Month promotion will seek to improve the image of milk and point out its value to weight - watchers and dieters.

One particular aim is to remind homemakers of the nutritional, as well as economical, values of milk and its many products. Appetizing ways of serving dairy foods — not only through the month of June but throughout the entire year — will be suggested.

In cooperation the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service is currently featuring milk and dairy products — in the period of heaviest production — on its list of plentiful foods.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman will offer a special tribute to dairying in recognition of the dairy industry's great and ever-expanding contribution to the Nation's health.

Spearheading the 1965 promotion is the American Dairy Association, assisted by a large number of other dairy organizations. Under their leadership, special dairy days with parades, festivals and proclamations by various officials are expected to be held across the country throughout the month.

Solution To Bathroom Shortage

How's this for logic? If your home doesn't have enough bathroom facilities, have them installed.

Sounds ridiculously simple, but it's amazing how many people, unsatisfied with a single bathroom, don't think of the obvious solution. Or if they do think of it, then only in terms of "impossible" or "too expensive" for my house.

According to the Plumbing-Heating - Cooling Information Bureau, bathrooms in older homes are often large enough that a simple division of the area will provide room for two complete baths or perhaps a full bath and a powder room. A two-story home with a single bathroom is a natural for installing a second bath on the floor now lacking one, reports the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Space for added facilities is generally available for the looking--at the end of a dead-end or little - used hallway--in a large walk-in closet--in the end of a large room--even in basements and attics. Areas not quite large enough for a tub should be considered for possible shower installations.

In addition to securing more space, there are also many ways to better utilize present facilities by "compartmentizing," that is, providing privacy for each fixture within a bathroom. With this arrangement, bathroom fixtures can be used simultaneously by two or three persons in complete privacy.

A handy booklet entitled "Modern Bathroom Plans" may be obtained by sending 15¢ to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 East Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60601.

Lightest Mexico

By John Abney

Mexico City--If everyone will quietly lay aside the comics we can hold an enlightened discussion of the Six Day Shower Cure. This being one of the medical rages, according to a story published here.

The author says ancient Chinese tortured prisoners by letting water drip on them day and night (but fails to say for how long). And he adds that modern science transposed the idea into a sort of Marathon Bath to relieve pain and hasten healing in persons burned by such chemicals as lye, bleach or possibly too many martinis.

The current idea is to place people under a steady shower either in a stall or bathtub for as long as six days at a time. They even sleep there.

Frankly, I would be sceptical about someone pushing me in a shower stall and turning on the hydrants for six days. Unless they left the door open or had a huge drain.

There is this little village on the Pacific Coast of Mexico where they have coconut palms and jungle all around. Gorgeous place and I must go back there and write a column about it some day if I can remember the name.

A little restaurant on the beach has hammocks strung between poles that hold up the roof and you swing yourself with a bare foot tucked in the sand floor. Fine seafood served you in the hammocks at any hour of the day.

And out in back is this jungle-type shower, apparently built for curative purposes. Somebody put up a sapling platform in the quiet palm grove and set a 50-gallon drum on the platform.

When you need some therapy the gentlemen fill the drum with a rope and bucket rig. Then you get beneath the pipe and turn on the water with a butterfly valve and stand there for six days.

The water probably will not run for six days, unless somebody keeps working the rope and bucket, but if it did you would be safe. The stall is made of palm leaves tied to a sapling frame. Guaranteed drown-proof.

I recall some curing beneath this shower once. Had a terrible case of Rum Burn and the horizon looked like it was slanted. The restaurant owner's two sons put me in the therapy stall and turned on the water.

After a while the cure was effected and I had to lie in a hammock for a couple of hours eating redsnapper fillets and clams.

It was truly a triumph for science. However, things do not always work out so well.

There was this story about the fellow who cruised into the village one day and said he wanted a long shower to cool off from traveling. The bucket brigade got to work and the gentleman stepped in the shower.

After two or three hours the restaurant owner went to see what was wrong because the food his client had ordered was almost petrified. He came back shouting that the man had stayed in the water so long he had shrunk to practically nothing, then fainted.

Of course it turned out to be nothing but a midget plumber somebody had called to fix the butterfly valve because it was stuck. But I believe there is a message here for experimenting scientists.

For your own peace of mind, gentlemen, measure your patients before pushing them in a Six Day Shower. It isn't worth the agony, what with midgets and children hanging around your offices.

A Lakeful To Lap Up

Picture a creamy white colored lake about 10 miles long, 5 miles wide and deep enough to cover a one-story house. This is what the milk produced last year in the U. S. would look like "all in one lump," says the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

This "lake of milk" produced last year was a record high 126.6 billion pounds--equal to about 60 billion quarts. So far this year even more of this "plentiful" is being produced, making all the more dairy products available for American consumers to "lap up."

Average milk and cream consumed per person in the U. S. last year was just over 140 quarts. But Midwesterners used more. Midwesterners, a U. S. Department of Agriculture report says, are among the biggest milk drinkers.

Consumption per person in the Midwest ranged from about 103 quarts in Wichita, Kans., to 160 quarts in the Dayton - Springfield, Ohio, area. Consumption in the south and west was lower than this; while as a whole, the northeast uses more.

Almost half the milk consumed by Americans is used in fluid form. The other half is turned into butter, cheese, frozen dairy products and other processed dairy foods.

Pro and Con of 'Obsession' Over Communism Question

BY BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Underlying the ferment here over U.S. foreign policy is a fairly old question—whether the government and the nation are obsessed with the threat of communism.

It is being argued anew in some quarters that we not only see Communists under every bush, but that we ascribe to them strengths and capacities which they often do not have.

It is also asserted that our heavy focus on communism sometimes obscures the role played by nationalistic-imperialistic impulses in such a country as Red China.

We are told again that other free nations do not fret about the Communist menace the way we do. And some students of foreign affairs suggest it is perfectly sensible for Communist nations, like others, to build broad protective zones around themselves.

The arguments deserve a fresh review.

INQUIRIES AMONG POLICYMAKERS in this capital do not in fact turn up people who think the Russians, the Chinese or any other Communists are really 10 feet tall. Nor do they believe Reds lurk behind every shrub.

What they do think is that the Communists, whether directed from Moscow, Peking, Havana or Hanoi, have developed techniques of covert aggression which are peculiarly fitted to what James Montgomery of the State Department calls the "vulnerabilities" visible today in so many insecure nations around the world.

With these golden opportunities lying all about, the Communists can—in this frightening nuclear age—undertake a variety of small-risk games, from guerrilla warfare to stone-the-embassy.

The link between these subversive enterprises and the nationalistic-imperialistic ambitions of Moscow and Peking is a question stirring much debate among U. S. foreign affairs specialists.

THIS IS NOT THE PLACE TO AIR the fine-spun arguments. The point is that some feel the United States might have better luck keeping nations out of the Moscow-Peking orbits by talking more about the menace of Russia and China and less about communism as such.

The other side thinks this is all academic, that vulnerable countries have grown sophisticated enough to see communism in all its aspects—a powerful weapon serving imperialist causes, a worldwide false front behind which ambitious imperialists try to widen their circle of supporters and diminish their enemies—at the minimum, a form and practice of government which, if victorious, "closes out the options" on all other kinds for long years to come.

There are some debaters who don't want us to worry at all, whether the problem be labeled "communism" or "Russia" or "China."

They contend that regional domination by large powers, whether through the compulsions of influence or through actual physical expansion as with China's moves into India and Tibet, is something we cannot prevent and ought to approve.

West Must Approve Any Cotton Bill

WASHINGTON AP -- Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N. C., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, told cotton producers of western states there wouldn't be a Chinaman's chance of passing a cotton bill opposed by them.

He spoke to C. B. Ray, El Paso, Tex., chairman of the Cotton Producers Legislative Committee, an affiliation of cotton producers organizations of Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Oklahoma, New Mexico and California, at a hearing on a cotton bill introduced by Cooley.

He also told Ray he agreed with his statement the Agricultural Act of 1964, which would be extended by the bill, has been operating for only 10 months and this is too short a time to judge its merits.

The Cooley bill would extend for two years a program enacted by Congress last year eliminating from 1964 and 1965 the two-price cotton system. The program provides a domestic subsidy to enable textile manufacturers to buy U. S. Cotton at world prices.

Ray maintained the bill would point toward the liquidation of the cotton industry.

Ray asked the committee to allow the producers he represented 10 days to come up with definite recommendations to expand domestic consumption and step up foreign sales.

Stewart Sanders, Pine Bluff, Ark., said the Arkansas-Missouri Cotton Trade Association, which he represented, would cooperate to obtain legislation that would return the cotton industry to private interest while allowing the farmer to make the adjustments necessary to a supply and demand economy.

Q—How did California's Death Valley get its name?

A—After an emigrant party, looking for a short cut to California in 1849, suffered from heat and thirst while crossing it, they looked back from the Panamint Mountains and one said: "Goodby, Valley of Death."

Farm Labor Bulletin

STATE SUMMARY:

Strawberry harvest is nearing completion in Southeast Missouri but cotton chopping is increasing and should provide work for all available labor through the first two weeks in June.

Hot, dry weather has retarded farm work over the rest of the State, and as a result the demand for year-round hands dropped slightly. There were 124 unfilled openings reported for year-round hands and the only seasonal demand reflected in reports was for horticultural workers in Kansas City.

Workers totaling 261 strawberry pickers were referred to Southern Illinois and Kentucky by the St. Louis and Sikeston Offices.

SOUTHEAST

Sikeston: 202 South Kingshighway--Telephone: Granite 1-2731 Cotton chopping being regulated by spotty rains. Most chopping starting at 60¢ per hour. With the exception of a few growers, most growers will depend on day-haul and on-the-farm labor for chopping. Housing is limited for choppers, and only a small number of out-of-area workers will be used.

Farm Labor Information Station & Rest Camp, Route #2, Sikeston--502 migrants used the facilities of the Farm Labor Camp during the week ending May 23. 47 were from Arkansas and 455 from Texas. Their destinations were: 53 to Illinois, 18 to Indiana, 362 to Michigan, 62 to Ohio and 7 to Wisconsin. Thus far 2,891 persons have stopped at the camp this year compared to 3,112 this time last year.

Cape Girardeau: 238 Broadway -- Telephone: Edgewater 5-6666 -- Strawberry harvest continues with adequate local labor available. Wage rate 7¢ per quart for picking. Demand for hay hands continues to exceed supply of workers available. Wages $1.00 per hour or 2¢ per bale per worker. Cotton chopping started with wages offered 50¢ per hour. Very little labor available at this time. A surplus of labor, consisting of inexperienced school age youth ranging from age 16 to 20 years, is expected to develop about 1 to 4.

Poplar Bluff: 211 Pine Street --Telephone: Sunset 5-9606-- Crops are all in good condition in this area. Some scattered chopping is being done in this area with wages being $6.00 a day. Strawberry harvest is finished and some crews are wanting to leave for Illinois and Michigan.

Kennett: 405 St. Francis Street --Telephone: Tuxedo 8-3184-- Strawberry harvest is nearing completion and will be finished by early next week. Total placement in strawberry harvest this week, 1648. Cotton chopping is in full swing this week; prevailing wage rate $6.00 per day. The Caruthersville office supplied five crews and one crew came from Blytheville, Arkansas, for strawberries. Several growers are using chemicals for grass and weed control in cotton. No workers available for other areas.

Caruthersville: 112 West Fifth Street--Telephone: Edison 3-2416 -- Cotton chopping has started in this area with wages at 60¢ per hour. Demand for choppers is increasing daily. There is no demand for out of area labor for this activity.

WASHINGTON (ANF) —The Army Materiel Command keeps a mighty big supply room.

It has supplies equal to a 10-lane highway from Boston to Los Angeles and a double track railroad from Washington, D.C., to St. Louis.

It has materiel equal to a surfaced area more than half the size of Washington, enough acreage to completely cover Connecticut — plus one-third of Rhode Island, and it has enough building space to enclose 42 Pentagons.

Missouri Press Report From Edward Long

The Senate last week passed the Administration's Voting Rights Act of 1965 after five weeks of discussion on the measure.

Final passage came with a big majority of 77 Senators voting in favor of the bill. A cloture motion was passed to bring the measure up for final action. The move to limit debate was only the seventh time that the Senate had invoked cloture to bring legislation to a vote.

The Administration proposal to guarantee all Americans the right to participate in our democracy is now due to receive further consideration in the House of Representatives.

A new program to combat poverty in America is aimed at channeling needed assistance to disadvantaged pre-school age children.

Project Head Start was inaugurated three months ago by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, Honorary Chiarman of the program. Its objective is to provide assistance to children of low-income American families before poverty has given them as early handicap of disadvantage and under-privilege.

The project is now planned to ehlp 600,000 per-school children in more than 2,000 communities across the United States. The hub of the new child-assistance effort is the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington. However, local volunteers are expected to be a vital part in most Head Start programs which will rely heavily on local community effort.

The Agriculture Department reports it is initiating a new program to improve and simplify Department services and operations.

"Project Simpler" is being launched on a nationwide scale by the Argicultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. It was developed in response to President Johnson's desire for more efficiency and economy in government.

Secretary Freeman advises me that the effort will result in better and simpler service to the farmers the Department serves. Targets for the USDA streamlining campaign are designed as government program provisions, instruction and procedures, forms, communications, and work methods.

Improved efficiency for ASCS employees will not be anything new, however. Measured work per employee in this agency has increased more than 25 percent in the past four years. "Project Simpler" will seek to continue this progress.

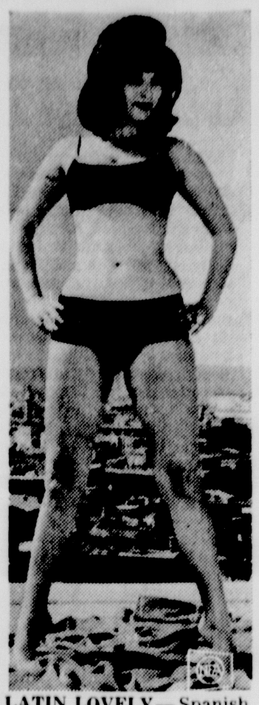

Two Talks On Child Care Needs

BENTON -- Tuesday and Wednesday Arthur McArthur, human development and family relations specialist for the University of Missouri at Columbia will present a special talk on "Parents Are People, Too." He spoke Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the 4-H building in Charleston and will speak Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. at the Airport cafe in Dexter. The public is invited.

McArthur will speak on the needs of parents and how important the three "R's" of reassurance, recognition, and relief are to the parent.

Q—What is the meaning of the word "caliche" used by President Johnson in his inaugural address?

A—Caliche is an odd kind of earth that is slick as soap when wet, hard as rock when dry, and crumbly while it is damp. It was widely used in the '20s and '30s for road surfacing—excellent in dry weather and slippery during infrequent rains.

LATIN LOVELY—Spanish actress Aurora de Alba finds a Roman roof the perfect place to soak up some sunshine while studying her lines for a role in a new film.

Johnson Guidelines Given Test

NEW YORK — If the honeymoon of the Johnson administration and business fades it might well be due to government's new tool for influencing economic behavior — guidelines.

They are being applied to prices, wages, investments and banking practices. They are undergoing their first big test right now.

Guidelines join the traditional government tools of taxes, subsidies, and supervising agencies. All are used to shape the economy more or less.

Opposition to the new tool of guidelines is rising in some business and banking quarters as well as in some labor unions.

One example is in steel. Labor objects to government's saying it should ask so much and no more to avoid inflation. Management resents government saying how much it could raise wages without increasing prices. And any government censure of steel price increases brings angry replies from some steel executives.

Government guidelines as an influence on economic decisions differ from other tools in several ways. By definition they rest on voluntary compliance.

They are implemented to a large degree by exerting pressure of public opinion. And they usually carry at least an implied threat that if business doesn't follow the guidelines, government may step in and impose controls.

The moral that government hopes management and labor will grasp is that voluntary compliance to guidelines of what Washington thinks is best for the economy is preferable to controls or direct penalties.

Business takes all of the government's economic tools into account when making its decisions.

Guidelines are now in the testing stage. Those aimed at wages and prices seek price stability from two approaches: 1. Labor costs should rise only as much as output per man-hour rises; 2. Prices should rise only in industries where output per man-hour lags behind the national average and should fall in industries with greater than average productivity gains.

Compliance runs up against the natural desire of workers for higher pay and of management for tailoring prices to demand and competition as well as to production costs.

In the field of investments and banking, the government guideposts have as goals: 1. Keeping long-term interest rates low enough to inspire economic growth; 2. Keeping U.S. dollars at home, both by keeping short-term interest rates high and by getting corporations voluntarily to cut back on overseas investments and inducing banks to trim foreign loans.

Here compliance has worked so far. But corporations grumble that over the long run their overseas investments would return more dollars in profits than they now cost in construction. And banks argue that much of their overseas lending is to finance American exports which strengthen the U.S. dollar more than any lending can hurt it.

TODAY'S KITCHEN TOPS IN CONVENIENCE AND BEAUTY

In addition to being a real "mom-saver," a modern, functional kitchen provides a smart setting for appliances and fixtures. A well-planned kitchen can be as decorative as any room in the house. The focal point of kitchen convenience and beauty is the sink. For the ultimate in decorous utility, plans should include a double or triple-bowl sink, complete with food waste disposer and single control faucet.

Accredited colleges and universities east of the Mississippi River number twice as many as those to the west.

Ask Traffic Death Case Be Dropped

MEMPHIS -- Asked by Atty. Gen. Phil Canale to request the extradition of Joel Montgomery, 47, land developer and civic leader of Sikeston, Mo., and a former Memphian, to Memphis to face trial in connection with a 6-year-old traffic fatality, Governor Clement has now been told that the traffic victim's family wants the matter dropped.

John Hooker, Sr., of Nashville, attorney for Montgomery, and James P. Smith, of Memphis, who represents the family of Miss Glenda Wiles, the traffic victim, conferred with Governor Clement about the matter yesterday.

"Miss Wiles' family has had enough in the way of grief caused by the publicity about the case through the years," Smith said today. "The governor said he would take the matter under advisement."

The extradition suit charges Montgomery's car, driven by Mrs. Betty Lou Sells, a secretary, collided with a car in which Miss Wiles was a passenger, at 12:45 a.m., Oct. 14, 1959. Mrs. Sells was convicted of involuntary manslaughter and given one to three years in the penal farm. Her case was first affirmed, then reversed by the Tennessee Supreme Court.

The late Judge Sam Campbell of Division Two, Criminal Court, then asked that the attorney general investigate the matter further with a view of "adding another name" (Montgomery's) to the indictment.

Mountain sickness is a disease that may occur in an individual several hours or days after he has ascended a mountain to an altitude of about 7,000 feet or higher. It is caused by the rarefied air at high altitude and the prolonged lack of an adequate oxygen supply in the blood and body tissues. Symptoms may be headache, sleeplessness, depression, or rapid heartbeat.

THE FACTS ABOUT U.N.

The United Nations is composed of 115 member nations. India is the largest with over 450 million people, the Soviet Union second with about 224 million people, and the United States third with 194 million people. Six member nations have populations of less than 100 million but more than 50 million each.

30 member nations have between 10 and 50 million people.

21 member nations have between 5 and 10 million people.

46 member nations have between 1 and 5 million people.

4 member nations have between 500,000 and 1 million people.

5 member nations have less than 500,000 people.

Sixty-four member nations have fewer people living in them altogether than live in the United States. Nevertheless these sixty-four nations have 64 times as many votes in the General Assembly as our country.

Each member nation has one vote except the Soviet Union, which has three.

The citizens of the small nations have vastly more voting representation in the General Assembly than the citizens of the larger nations. One citizen in Gabon, for instance, has as much representation in the General Assembly as 428 citizens of the United States. Moreover, very few citizens of the Asian and African members of U.N. are educated and very large numbers of them are still primitive bush people. To give a handful of educated people, backed by a few hundred thousand savages, the same voting power in the General Assembly as the large well-developed nations is not realistic. It cannot succeed.

Our country pays about one-third of the costs of operating the United Nations, plus many extras such as the purchase of U.N. bonds and special projects.

One hundred thirteen member-nations combined pay about the same percentage of the costs of U.N. as the United States alone. The world has never afforded a better example of taxation without representation than our country in the United Nations.

Roughly, it might be said that about one-third of the member nations of U.N. are at least nominally Christian. Some of these and most of the other two-thirds could be classified as Socialist or Communist states. The predominant philosophy of U.N. is Marxist. Its whole ideology and operating technique is Marxist. If it gains the power to rule the world, as it aspires to do, we will be a minor province in a Socialist world, taxed down to the level of Asia, Africa, and Latin America.

If member nations disarm and turn the bulk of their military forces over to the United Nations, as some of our top leadership is urging, our independence will be at an end.

236 Feared Dead In Japanese Mine

TOKYO AP -- A total of 236 men are feared dead in Japan's second - worst postwar coal-mine disaster.

Rescue workers recovered 219 bodies from the Yamano mine, on Kyushu Island, where a gas explosion occurred nearly 2,000 feet underground Tuesday.

Police said hope was virtually abandoned for 17 other miners believed buried under piles of coal and rock.

About 600 teen-agers — a ratio of 4 of every 100,000 — commit suicide annually. It is the fourth leading cause of death among teen-agers, ranking behind accident, cancer and rheumatic heart disease.

Mrs. Moran Hahn Dies Of Injuries

CHARLESTON -- Mrs. Moran K. Hahn, 44, died shortly after midnight today in a Cape Girardeau hospital, as the result of an accident near Cape Girardeau ten days ago.

The former Miss Marie Bruenderman of Charleston, she is survived by her husband; two daughters, Miss Delores Hahn, in the O'Fallon convent, and Miss Alma Hahn, at home; one son, Moran Hahn Jr., at home; her father, Ben Bruenderman, Charleston; five brothers, Raymond, Robert, Edward and Leo Bruenderman, all of Charleston; two sisters, Mrs. Holton Newcomb and Mrs. Charles Keene, both of Charleston.

The body is at the Nunnelee Funeral Home in Charleston, with arrangements incomplete.

Estrogen Fights Menopausal Distress, Aging Symptoms

By Louise Chase

It is now possible to make the aging process of woman--the menopause--more tranquil and relatively free of such unpleasant symptoms as the "hot flush" and back pain. And it is also possible to protect the aging woman from deteriorating bone and circulatory conditions which make growing old more like a disease than the natural process it is.

These beneficial effects may be achieved by the use of the hormone, estrogen, as a preventive, according to Dr. M. Edward Davis, Chariman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, University of Chicago School of Medicine. Dr. Davis reported his findings recently to fellow physicians attending the 13th annual meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

The doctor pointed out that menopause generally begins when the ovaries of a woman, usually in her late forties or early fifties, cease to produce estrogen, or produce much less of it.

Estrogen Makes the Girl

"Estrogen is what makes a girl a girl," notes Dr. Davis. "This hormone," he says, "stimulates femininity, development of body contours, reproductive organs, menstruation." For about 30 or 35 years, the girl's and woman's health and vigor are at their peak, childbearing is generally normal, enthusiasm for living is high. The incidence of heart and circulatory disease is usually lower than among males."

The decline of estrogen production affects other hormonal activity as well, and together these seem to cause menopausal and other aging symptoms, according to Dr. Davis. The woman's reproductive structures begin to atrophy, breast and other tissues lose their elasticity, hair and skin begin to age.

Coronary disease, which is 20 times more common among males than females until about age 40, afflicts an increasing number of women after menopause, as do atherosclerosis, a circulatory condition, and a bone condition known as osteoporosis. In the latter, the bone structure becomes thinner and weaker, and fractures become more frequent. Dr. Davis estimates that about 25 per cent of women eventually suffer from osteoporosis after menopause.

About 18 months ago, reported Dr. Davis, scientists in the radiology department at Chicago developed a machine which can accurately measure bone density. Tests made on four different groups of women proved conclusively, the doctor said, that estrogen therapy retards or prevents postmenopausal osteoporosis.

There is also evidence that normal bone metabolism can be continued or reestablished by the administration of estrogen.

Dr. Davis is convinced, on the basis of 25 years of experience, that "long-term replacement of estrogen must become an integral part of medical practice."

He believes that estrogen therapy, continued indefinitely, can suppress menopausal symptoms, slow down physical deterioration, retard the development of circulatory disorders, brittle bones, and other skeletal changes.

Southern Baptist Boom Rates Losing Steam

DALLAS, Tex. -- The once-booming growth rate of Southern Baptists has lost some of its steam, they noted today. And they're upset about it.

As their 108th annual convention went into its first working day, the Rev. Dr. James L. Sullivan of Nashville, head of the denomination's Sunday School Board, observed:

"The change - the slowdown -- in the percentage of growth rate has brought great concern to us all."

For more than a decade Southern Baptists have paced the field among the nation's larger Protestant bodies in membership gains, climbing to first place in size with 10.6 million on the rolls.

The tempo of the upsurge has sagged.

This "has upset many who did not understand its causes," Dr. Sullivan told the huge gathering, including 11,000 registered "messengers" from local churches, a record for a first day.

He said that increased size itself, and the spread of the denomination throughout the nation from its past Southern borders, along with organizational readjustments, has dampened the growth rate.

Moreover, in an increasingly technological environment, he said, "it is more difficult to get people to think in spiritual terms."

The new conditions call for changes in church life, he said.

Firing up of the denomination's characteristic evangelical zeal was urged by the convention president, the Rev. Dr. Wayne Dehoney of Jackson, Tenn.

At the opening ceremonies Tuesday night, he called for a "fresh vision of a lost world" and "the greatest evangelistic and missionary thrust this world has ever seen."

Teen Time Snack Problem Solved By These 'Burgers

Mom needn't worry too much about what her teen-agers should have for a snack if she has these items on hand: ground beef, cheese soup, dehydrated onion and pepper flakes, tomatoes and buns or English muffins.

Ground beef can be kept in the freezer, points out Reba Staggs, meat authority, for just such a purpose as this. Freeze ground beef in a moisture-vapor proof wrapping and it can be stored at 0° F. or lower for one to three months. Hamburger buns or muffins may also be frozen just to have on hand for the teen crowd.

Speedy Beef-Cheese 'Burgers

1½ pounds ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon instant minced onion, reconstituted
1 tablespoon bell pepper flakes, reconstituted
1 can (11 ounces) Cheddar cheese soup
12 tomato slices
½ teaspoon basil or thyme
6 hamburger buns or English muffins, split and toasted

Combine ground beef, salt, pepper, onion and pepper flakes. Brown lightly. Pour off drippings. Add soup. Mix well. Cook slowly 10 minutes. Broil tomato slices until heated through. Sprinkle basil or thyme on each tomato. Place tomato slice on each bun or muffin half. Spoon meat mixture on top. 6 servings.

Fringe benefits cost the U.S. manufacturing employer 53.4 cents per hour for every production worker in 1962, according to the National Industrial Conference Board.

Missouri's Share In 1963 Exports To Japan

Missouri was 15th in sales to Japan, totaling $34,300,000. Chief commodities were (in millions of dollars): soybeans 12; sorghum grain 8; corn 4; machinery 3; hides and skins 2; chemicals 2; manufactured articles 1.

These exports created an estimated 2,900 jobs in Missouri, including direct production workers, suppliers and service personnel.

With a steadily declining agricultural labor force, resulting from rapid industrialization, Japan will continue to depend heavily on food imports. Add to this the fact that Japan's demand for soybeans alone will more than triple during the text decade, and it's obvious that Missouri should enjoy a substantial and expanding Japanese market in the years ahead.

You may think we see a lot of "Made in Japan" labels on the products in our stores, but did you ever stop to realize the number of "Made in America" labels Japanese shoppers might encounter? Only last year, every Japanese spent over twice as much per capita for American exports as Americans spent for theirs. Figuratively speaking, that's a lot of "Made in America" labels, too!

In fact, with the exception of Canada, Japan is the United States' best customer. And with the close to $2 billion in products she now buys from us, she creates nearly 200,000 jobs in the 50 states, according to the U.S.-Japan Trade Council. This trend began 20 years ago, and since then the U.S. has consistently maintained a favorable balance of trade with Japan, exporting considerably more than we import.

California and Texas are the leading states exporting goods to Japan. Each supplied over $60 million worth of cotton—the most important single commodity sold to Japan. Oil, machinery and chemicals are among a host of others. Illinois, New York and Washington follow closely behind, with over $75 million each in total exports to Japan. Their biggest products are machinery, wheat and other foodstuffs, logs and lumber. The U.S. is Japan's largest supplier for all of these.

Today, there may be twice as many "Made in America" labels in Japan as there are "Made in Japan" labels here, but the Trade Council estimates the gap will widen even further through this decade, creating substantial increases in sales and jobs for every state in the Union.

Try Foil Bag Fasteners

by Polly Cramer, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Polly

DEAR POLLY—If you do not have enough twist ties to fasten plastic bags, tear off a strip of aluminum foil, twist it together and use it as if it were a regular twist tie. It works just fine.—MARYLEE

DEAR POLLY—If the waistbands to last year's skirts and shorts will not button this year, try my solution. Take a button similar or the same as now on the waistband and five inches of elastic cord. Starting at the back of the button, thread the cord through one hole and back again through the second hole. Bring the ends of the cord together and knot. Now place the elastic loop around the button on the skirt and stretch until the new button will go through the skirt buttonhole.—MRS. F. E. L.

DEAR POLLY—My hands are no longer sore and a calloused mark has disappeared since I started to wear a cotton glove with the fingers cut off over the first knuckle when ironing. This leaves my fingers free for coping with buttons and putting things on hangers.

Tablecloths usually slip on the ironing board and do not stay even. Fold lengthwise and pin with non-rust straight pins placed about four inches apart. When the ironing is finished, take out the pins and reiron over edges. This is especially good for long and large cloths—FLORENCE

GIRLS—This idea would also be good to use when ironing curtains, bedspreads and sheets.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—While reading your helpful column in today's paper it occurred to me that I have been sitting on a Polly's Pointer for several months. How come? Just this. My doctor ordered me to buy a "doughnut" to relieve the hardness of a chair while seated. My purse did not contain the price. After inspecting foam rubber pads, I went to a small mattress factory and bought a thick foam rubber chair seat for less than a dollar. I used a toilet seat as a pattern for marking the center to be removed. Using a bread knife, I cut the outside shape and then the center "doughnut" hole. It was just about what the doctor ordered except that it was homemade and cost what I could afford. This has served its purpose well.—HAZEL

matter of fact

A barracuda is among the most dangerous fish in the world and should properly be credited with many swimming tragedies attributed to the shark. The fish ranges from three to ten feet in length. It has long pointed jaws filled with teeth of razor-like sharpness. In appearance it somewhat resembles the pike. The largest of the species lurk about tropical reefs as the pike does about the edges of a pond.

Iowa had no state debt at the end of its last fiscal year.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is 6'3" and he says he weighs 265 pounds but I don't believe it. He refuses to get on a scale in my presence.

I had him on a special diet but gave up when I discovered the diet meal was just a snack and he was eating everything in sight when my back was turned.

The children hide their candy from him but he finds it. When I bake for my club he sneaks into the freezer and eats the desserts. I think he has high blood pressure but he won't go to a doctor.

You told the other wife that some things are worth nagging about and husband's health is one of them. Does this go for me, too? — OPEN FOR SUGGESTIONS

Dear Open: Yes, but change your tone and your tune. Tomorrow tell him you are making an appointment for him with a doctor. Ask which day and what time would be best.

A few days later ask if his affairs are in order because the way he eats he's not going to be around to see his children through college.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a terrible problem. I'll bet you've never heard anything like this before.

When I was six years old I saw a tuba in the Labor Day parade. I said to my mother "I want one of those when I grow up." For years I begged for a tuba and my mother said if I was still interested she would get me one for my 12th birthday.

Well, six months ago I reached my 12th birthday and my mother bought me a tuba — secondhand, but very nice. Now, nobody will let me practice. Everytime I start to play my mother says she has a headache, or I will wake up my little sister. Or my Dad says he can't hear what's on TV and to play some other time.

The band leader who is also my teacher said if I don't start learning something pretty soon I will have to get out of the band. I'm ashamed to tell him my problem. What shall I do? — SAD KID

Dear Kid: Every school has music rooms where kids can practice. Tell your teacher it is very difficult to practice at home and you'd appreciate it if he'd give you permission to use a practice room.

Dear Ann Landers: We are having discussions in our Sunday religious instruction class. The subject under debate is "Should Sex Education Be Taught in Schools?"

Most of the kids I have talked to are for it. I am against it. I feel that a subject as intimate as sex should be taught at home, by parents. Do you agree? — AGAINST IT

Dear Against It: Sex education SHOULD be taught at home by parents. But too many parents are abysmally ignorant. Some parents are incapable of discussing sex with their children because they are inhibited by age-old taboos instilled in them by THEIR parents.

To those who are against sex education in schools I say this: It is foolish and unrealistic to tell teen-agers to stop thinking about sex. They ARE thinking about sex and they are going to continue to think about it. What they need is correct information so they will know HOW to think about it. Nine out of 10 teens who write to me about sex problems say they cannot communicate with their parents, which is a sad commentary, indeed.

When the information is not available at home, school is the next best place to learn.

Parents are people — they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

If I preach the gospel, that gives me no ground for boasting. For necessity is laid upon me. Woe to me if I do not preach the gospel! (I Corinthians 9:16, RSV)

PRAYER: Merciful Father, we thank Thee that Thou hast saved us. Increase in us love for those who are lost, and make us faithful shepherds to those who are going astray. In the name of Jesus, the Savior of the world. Amen.

Mail Box

Dear Mr. Blanton,

Although removed from the Standard for the most part of the last three years, I must express the deep sense of loss I have in the death of Mr. Yorke.

As you know, he was a great man to me. I came to the paper as a real novice; he taught me a great deal about more than the newspaper world during my four years with him.

I shall remember the Judge Reeves story, a letter to President Johnson, the Jaycee Rodeo, and many other times I spent with him, under his wing and many times, I'm sure, underfoot.

But he was patient and kind and tolerant to me, and I am a better person because of him.

We have all lost a real reporter, a fine man, and a wonderful friend. And I have lost the finest teacher I have had.

I shall miss him.

Respectfully,
Joe Bean

USS HANCOCK (CVA-19) (FHTNC) May 25 — Airman Apprentice Danny O. Eaton, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Baton of 835 Greer, Sikeston, Mo., is scheduled to arrive in Alameda, Calif., May 29, aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Hancock, following a seven-month cruise with the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific that included three months of combat operations.

Since February 7, until she departed the Western Pacific for the United States, the Hancock participated in the majority of the air strikes conducted against North Viet Nam and communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

In eight major strikes and numerous minor operations, Hancock aircraft struck communist billeting areas, harassed ground traffic, and knocked out anti-aircraft batteries, radar installations and many bridges vital to communist supply movements.

SANTA ANA, CALIF. (FHTNC) May 14 — Marine Sergeant William R. Lemons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lemons of 106 Glenstone Road, Dexter, Mo., has returned to the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station at Santa Ana, Calif., after deployment to the Marine Corps Air Station, Yuma, Ariz. May 2-8.

He is a member of Marine Heavy Helicopter Squadron 462, a unit of Marine Aircraft Group 26. This group, part of the 3rd Marine Aircraft Wing at El Toro, deploys to Yuma for one week every three months.

Cadet Captain Ranney W. McDonough, son of Walton R. McDonough, Morley, Missouri, received the ROTC Pilot Badge Full-Wing Award during the U.S. Army ROTC Group Awards Review ceremonies at the University of Missouri at Rolla on May 24, 1965. The award was presented by Colonel David L. Gundling, Professor of Military Science at UMR.

The full-wing type ROTC Pilot Badge is awarded to cadets who complete the Reserve Officers Training Corps Flight Training Program, which is an extracurricular activity and is limited to those students who have sufficiently high academic standing to be recommended by the Chancellor and the Professor of Military Science.

Students complete the ROTC Flight Training Program normally have the opportunity to progress into Army Aviation training and assignment after obtaining their commissions and entering active duty with the Army.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK. — Blytheville based bombers along with other United States Air Force bombers of the Strategic Air Command (SAC) will participate with Air Defense forces of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) in a joint training exercise overflying North Central Canada and 26 Central U.S. states during early morning hours on Friday, May 21. The SAC bombers and NORAD fighter intercepter aircraft will overfly Canada within an area from Hudson Bay over Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Saskatchewan, south into the central United States. Over the Central U.S., exercise bombers and fighters will overfly an area East of the Rocky Mountains to central Georgia and southward over Texas.

Large numbers of subsonic B-47 and B-52 global range bombers will fly toward simulated targets at high and low altitudes close to U.S. cities and towns in 26 states and near several cities in Canada.

In addition several B-58 "Hustler" bombers will fly high altitude supersonic missions over or near cities in Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska and Wisconsin creating noisy but harmless sonic booms. Additional B-58 supersonic missions are scheduled at high altitudes over provinces of Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Saskatchewan in Canada.

NORAD fighter aircraft of the U.S. and Royal Canadian Air Force will fly practice aircraft interception missions as they rise to meet bombers of the exercise attack force. Bombers simulating attack will be tracked by U.S. and Canadian Aerospace Defense Forces exercising all elements of the defense system.

Air Traffic Control officials in Canada and the United States have received advance information of this exercise and no suspension of normal civil air traffic is expected. The exercise will not last longer than one hour over any particular land area. No missiles will be fired during this exercise.

GREAT LAKES, ILL. (RHTNC) Seaman Recruit Richard G. Holt, 20, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Holt of Route 1, Dexter, Mo., has begun nine weeks of Navy basic training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

In the first weeks of his naval service he will study military subjects and live and work under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian to sailor he will be taught and supervised by experienced Navy petty officers. They will teach him the basic skills of seamanship as well as survival techniques, military drill and other basic subjects.

On completion of his recruit training he will be assigned to a school, shore station or ship, according to the results of his Navy classification tests, his own desires and the needs of the Navy.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.--James A. McKinley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayborne J. McKinley, Bertrand, Mo., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School (OTS) at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Lieutenant McKinley, selected for OTS through competitive examination, is being assigned to an Air Training Command unit at Vance AFB, Okla., for pilot training.

The lieutenant, a graduate of Charleston (Mo.) High School attended Southeast Missouri State college. He received his bachelor degree in architecture from Kansas State University.

The Collegians

Collegians In Concert

The Collegians, a male quartet from Evangel college in Springfield, will give a vocal and instrumental concert at the First Assembly of God Church, 310 South Kingshighway at 7:30 p.m. tonight the Rev. James E. Smith announced.

The quartet is on a three-month summer tour. The Collegians are Bob Reedy, Denver, Colo.; Paul Guiney, Lafayette, Ind.; Gary Hallberg, Moline, Ill.; Johnnie Shows, Natchez, Miss.; and David Jenkins, Pittsfield, Ill.

The Collegians' program will include piano solos, trombone and tenor solos, trios with brass accompaniment, brass ensemble pieces, and vocal quartet numbers.

Among the numbers on the program will be "We Are More Than Conquerors," vocal and instrumental; "Onward Christian Soldiers," instrumental; "Battle Hymn of the Republic," trumpet trio; "How Great Thou Art," combined vocal and instrumental; "The Unveiled Christ," and instrumental arrangements of such old favorites as "Amazing Grace" and "Power in the Blood."

Reedy, a junior music education major, is pianist and plays trumpet. First tenor Guiney, a freshman music education major, plays trombone. Hallberg, second tenor and trumpet, is a sophomore elementary education major. Jenkins is a sophomore music education major and is the bass in the quartet as well as playing the French horn. Baritone Shows plays trumpet and is a junior music education major.

Evangel College is a regionally accredited four-year college of arts and sciences. A church-related college, Evangel's parents denomination is the Assemblies of God.

Fertility & Sterility

REPRODUCTION PUZZLES YIELDING TO RESEARCH

Nature has paved the road to human conception with so many obstacles that it seems a miracle the event happens at all. Rather than diminish this aura of wondrousness, the birth of billions of people illustrates the remarkable ability of the reproductive system to overcome handicaps. The miracle lies in the delicate balance of male and female procreative machinery — for every obstacle to pregnancy there is a surmounting factor, for every natural roadblock a natural detour.

In about one of ten couples, though, a cog slips in the complex apparatus and conception is thwarted. Husband, wife, or both, start out or later become infertile. As a result, approximately 4,000,000 American couples are either childless or cannot have as many children as they desire.

Conversely, many more millions of families face the problem of excess fertility. For a variety of reasons — medical, economic, emotional — they wish to limit the number of their children or regulate the time of their arrival.

RECENT PROGRESS

Fortunately, both kinds of families can be helped in greater number than ever before because of relatively recent breakthroughs in our understanding of the fundamental biochemistry of human reproduction.

In the treatment of infertility, for example, therapies were effective in only about 20 per cent of cases two decades ago. Now, with new approaches, that success quotient has at least doubled. In the male, several surgical, chemical and other procedures have been developed to correct oligospermia — deficiency of spermatozoa in the semen. Recent research is also illuminating the psychological components of mail infertility.

Similarly in the female, we have learned much about the endocrine system which governs ovulation. This knowledge has made it possible to stimulate the production of ova in previously anovulatory women. In a number of cases, new drugs are supporting pregnancies in women who had habitually miscarried or delivered with drastic prematurity. In addition, surgical techniques are making conception possible in women whose cases were once considered hopeless.

REGULATING FERTILITY

As for the other side of the coin — the containment of conception — progress has been at least as dramatic. With the development of hormonal compounds which regulate the female reproductive system, medicine's ability to control and schedule fertility has achieved a major advance. In this way, too, mechanical methods of contraception have been supplemented by more esthetically attractive means.

In the background of this progress lies the achievement of a clearer view of the operation of the procreative apparatus. Despite gaps in knowledge that persist, we can now chart its labyrinthine activities in fine detail.

In the normal woman, which means the vast majority, we know that all is regular, all is automatic. Every four weeks during her child-bearing years (from menarche, the onset of menstruation, to menopause), she ovulates. If an ovum is fertilized by a spermatozoon (from the Greek "animal seed"), the mechanism prepares the conditions under which an embryo can develop. If the egg is not fertilized, the mechanism prepares for menstruation and a fresh cycle.

BEHIND THE SCENES

As in all complicated processes that perform with seeming ease, a bustle of activity is taking place in the female reproductive organs. It is thought that the initial impetus leading to ovulation is provided by the hypothalamus, which acts on the nearby pituitary gland. The pituitary is a key member of the endocrine system, which secretes hormones directly into the bloodstream for transport to specific organs. (Hormone, from the Greek ormanein, means "to arouse to excite," which is precisely what minute quantities of hormones do.)

One of these chemical stimulants is FSH, or follicle-stimulating hormone. The bloodstream carries FSH selectively to the ovaries, where many immature ova are lying fallow. FSH inspires a few of the ovaries' follicles — tiny sacs that contain the eggs — to start growing.

Only one follicle usually attains maturity, although it has been estimated that 100,000 to 400,000 reside in the ovaries in a primordial state. About the fourteenth day of the menstrual cycle, the most mature follicle bursts and drops its ovum, which is as small as a grain of sand. Over a five-or six-day period, the egg wends its way down the Fallopian tube, or oviduct, to the uterus, a distance of about four and a half inches. (To be continued.)

Get The Most From Air Conditioning

"The bigger the better" doesn't apply to your home air conditioning system. According to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, oversizing is not only needless, it's a waste of money.

An experienced heating-cooling contractor will help you make an accurate determination to give you maximum performance and economy. Once you have a properly-sized unit installed, help it to do its best job.

Here's how you can get the best use from it:

1. Keep the doors and windows closed as much as possible. Letting warm, humid air enter the house defeats the purpose of air conditioning.

2. Don't wait until the warmest part of the day to turn on the system. By starting early, it will remove heat continually as it enters the house.

3. Zone the system with a thermostat in only those living areas where cooling is required.

4. Ventilate cooking areas so that moisture from boiling water etc., will not get into the air.

5. Keep the laundry area separate from air conditioned portions of the home. Here again, moisture-laden air is to be avoided.

Molester At Work In City

A four-year-old white girl, who was not identified by police, was molested Monday by a white man. She was treated at Missouri Delta Community hospital.

When asked if anyone had been taken into custody, Chief of Police Arthur Bruce said that he had no information to be given out.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to molest another Sikeston girl Monday, possibly by the same man.

Police reported that a 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adon Cox, 308 E. Kathleen, was approached by a white man Monday afternoon who asked her to help him find a dog. The report said that after the man had induced her to enter an alley he offered $5 to find the dog and made an indecent proposal. The report said the man gave her a telephone number to call if she found the dog.

At this point the girl was reported to have run home. She reported to her father what had happened. She was not harmed.

NEW SHRUBS at the Public Library are admired by children who came for their first junior story hour under the leadership of Mrs. Evelyn Barnett. City Collects $3,075.28

Ronald Lee, city tax collector, reports that during May he collected from all tax sources $3,075.28: Real estate back taxes, 1962, $42.70; 1963, $212.52; and 1964, $791.43 for a total of $1,046.65.

In personal back taxes: 1961, $1.80; 1962, $18.81; 1963, $126.48 for a total of $147.09.

In merchants and manufacturers back tax collections $33 was collected for 1963 and $32.55 was collected in 1964 for a total of $65.55.

In license collections Lee reports that he collected $275 from merchants, $279.45 from automobile owners and $136 from dog license.

In the miscellaneous department $57.16 was collected from interest, $12.30 other costs and $1,056.08 from Associated Natural Gas for a total of $1,125.54.

Washout Lake Good Fish Spot

NEW MADRID — New Madrid County anglers are missing some of the best fishing in Southeast Missouri when they overlook the Des Cypre, or Washout Lake, five miles northwest of New Madrid, according to the county's conservation agent, Bob Hendrickson.

Hendrickson said that not many people have taken advantage of the fine fishing available at the Washout since the area was cleaned up and stocked with fish in 1963.

He said that many people may be staying away from the area since it was discovered last year that some of the fish were dying. He said that the fish are all right now and that the fishing should be good.

The lake was cleaned of fish on Sept. 17, 1963. Toxicants were applied for this purpose by conservation agents. Seines and nets were used to remove the fish from the water. Later, the lake was re-stocked with good game fish.

The renovation project was a joint effort of the Missouri Conservation Commission and the New Madrid County Sportsmen's club.

The lake covers approximately 40 acres. Its banks are lined with shade trees. Since the renovation, provisions have been made for launching boats. Those who fish from a bridge or railroad trestle may use the Cotton Belt railroad bridge.

Boy Scouts from Lilbourn and New Madrid use the sport for overnight camping.

Kiwanis Club Endorses Water-Sewer Proposal

The Kiwanis club voted unanimously Tuesday night to support a proposal by the board of public works for more than $1 million worth of improvements in the city's water distribution and sewage disposal systems. The club met at the Holiday Inn.

The action followed a speech by Charles F. Simpson of the board of public works. The proposal must be approved by the voters.

In his speech to the club, Simpson, who is business manager of the board, pointed out that increased population required improved services if the city is to continue its prosperous growth.

Engineering reports show that many of the present water and sewage facilities are functioning at or above capacity. Simpson says that he believes that increases in population would overload existing systems.

Simpson explained that new water mains of increased capacity would be installed to beef up existing water distribution lines. This would provide better service to consumers and improve fire protection.

In addition to increased water main capacity, the proposal calls for construction of new water storage facilities, including one 500,000 gallon, ground-level tank.

Simpson explained that the proposal calls for new sewer lines, expansion of the main sewage treatment plant, and increased capacity at two sewage sub-stations in the east and west parts of the city.

By board estimate, the total cost of the proposal will be $1,200,000 — $600,000 for the water system and $600,000 for the sewage system.

Revenue bonds, involving no increase in taxation, would be used to pay for improvements in water distribution, according to Simpson. The bonds would be paid off from earnings of the city water plant.

The proposed increased capacity for sewage treatment, if adopted, would mean a rise in the bonded indebtedness of the city — approximately 29 cents on $100 assessed valuation.

Geo. Kirk of the education committee, inducted the club's newest member, Richard Niedling, cashier of the Security National Bank, and presented him with a Kiwanis pin.

In the absence of Earl Hutchinson, president, and of Lee Shell, vice president, Harold Hill, immediate past president, presided.

Fulbright Changes Mind

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. J. W. Fulbright said today he has decided - reluctantly - to lead the fight for President Johnson's foreign aid bill in the Senate.

The chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee also said he will back Johnson's request that $89 million be added to the measure for the economic and social development of Southeast Asia.

The Arkansas Democrat's declaration was a boon to the administration. Last fall, Fulbright complained that the aid bill had become a "garbage can" for all sorts of things. He said he would not lead the fight for it unless military and economic assistance were separated.

The bill, passed by the House May 25, authorizes $3,352,170,000 in foreign aid for each of the next two years.

Bell City School Aid

BELL CITY -- Supt. Forrest Jackson announced today that the federal project head start program for Bell City, has been approved, and 15 more preschool children can be enrolled, who are five and six years old, and those who are four years and who will be five before Sept. 15.

Parents are advised to notify Jackson immediately if they wish to have their child enrolled.

The school session will open June 14 and continue for eight weeks. Transportation will be furnished by the school, both to and from classes. There is no direct cost to the parents. The total cost will be paid by the school district and the federal government.

Free lunches will be served at school and physical examinations will be given to students at no cost.

Police Report 144 Arrests

Police made 144 arrests in May with fines totaling $1,950.

Persons arrested for careless and reckless driving were 64, 11 cases involved intoxicants and four persons were involved in accidents.

Twenty persons were arrested on a charge of being under the influence of liquor in public.

Arrests made for peace disturbances numbered 13 and six persons were brought in accused of assault.

Ten persons were arrested and turned over to the state and there were 16 miscellaneous arrests.

Service Of Yorke Praised

A resolution adopted by the Kiwanis club at its meeting last night at the Holiday Inn praised Robert E. Yorke, Daily Standard reporter who died May 23 for his service to his community and to the Kiwanis club of which he was a member.

The resolution was presented by a committee composed of Harry C. Blanton, Norval Cannon and Robert Meyer. A copy will be given to his family.

"Because of his varied experience and world travels he possessed an unusual ability to separate the important from the unimportant events of the passing parade," the resolution stated.

"His exceptionally colorful career as a newspaperman, enabled him to have contacts with the great and near great of our State.

"His service on the program and music committee of the club produced programs of outstanding merit and entertainment.

"His service as a public relations representative of his local Club enabled the club to enjoy a fine reputation for service to the youth of his community.

"His death after a long illness removes from our midst a member possessed of good humor and a happy disposition.

"He had honorably served his country as a member of the armed forces during World War I and was a member of Henry Meldrum's post 114 of the American Legion."

Dominican Junta Asks Elections

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican junta proposed Tuesday night that elections supervised by the Organization of American States be held as soon as possible in this divided Caribbean nation.

The junta said all "democratic parties recognized by the Central Electoral Board" should be allowed to participate in the election. This presumably would include the Dominican Revolutionary party of exiled ex-President Juan Bosch in whose name the rebellion was launched April 25.

It was not clear, however, whether the junta would allow Bosch to return from exile in Puerto Rico to be a candidate. He won the presidency overwhelmingly in a free election in 1962, but military leaders overthrew him the next year.

Following the President's announcement that 2,000 more U.S. Marines were being withdrawn from Santo Domingo, helicopters began flying them to U.S. naval vessels offshore. Their departure reduces the U.S. contingent to 2,100 Marines and 14,200 paratroopers serving with 1,500 Latin-American troops in the inter-American peace force.

TWO EMERGENCIES

Two persons were treated and dismissed from the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday.

Drinking Charged In Lone Accident

The only injury in a highway accident in this area Tuesday occurred at 1:30 p.m. on Route H, four miles north of Steele, when a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Von Luttroll, 46, Malden, overturned while making a curve at high speed. The driver was cut on the right arm, taken to a Hayti hospital and released. Luttroll was arrested for careless and reckless driving while drinking.

Eight Fires

Firemen answered eight alarms in May and $122 was paid to them.

Bills Sent To Senate

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House sent the Senate a number of bills Tuesday. One would set up state scholarships for outstanding high school students who might not be able to attend college without financial help.

It would provide a maximum of $600 a year for up to 1,000 students each year.

Others were bills to:

Include probate and magistrate judges in a judicial retirement plan at one-third their regular salary.

Make available an estimated $4 million a year to help exceptional as well as handicapped children.

Increase from 40 to 50 years the bonding limits for colleges and universities.

Outlaw open range in the few remaining areas where it is still used under local option.

Require food handlers in public schools to obtain health certificates.

After a brief session Tuesday morning the Senate devoted most of the day to committee hearings.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved a conflict of interest bill already passed by the House. It would require lobbyists to register and report their expenses and prohibit public officials from using their offices for personal gain.

Legislators, the governor and lieutenant governor would be required to reveal any substantial interest they might have in proposed laws.

A similar bill failed last session. If this one passes the Senate it probably will have to be returned to the House for approval of amendments suggested by the committee.

The Senate Economics Committee approved a $10 million increase in state aid to schools.

It is $14.5 million less than originally proposed in the House but the total is about $20 million more than last year.

Approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee was a bill passed by the House to let farmers form commodity merchandising councils. It would be restricted to producers of fresh fruit, vegetables and poultry.

Also approved by the farm committee was a bill changing the licensing provisions for public grain storage facilities. Grain warehouses could be licensed by the state and have their stores certified. Grain receipts issued by the warehouses then could be used for collateral in credit transactions.

Braggadocio Bank Entered

BRAGGADOCIO -- The Farmers Bank of Braggadocio was entered last night or early today. Nothing was reported missing.

Officers reported that both the front and back door glass had been broken to gain entrance but neither the vault or the safe had been touched.

Police Arrest Five Men

There were five men arrested by police in the last 24 hours, three of whom were involved in careless and imprudent driving.

Those arrested for careless and imprudent driving were: James Ray Webb, 508 Gladys; John Smith, Bertrand; and Dennis Ledbetter, 325 Selma.

Others arrested were Vernon Morgan, Bernie, and Robert Summers, St. Louis, both for intoxication while in public.

Dirksen Invites LBJ Reapportionment Silence

WASHINGTON AP -- Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen invited President Johnson today to stay out of the controversy over the reapportionment of state legislatures.

Johnson told a White House news conference Tuesday he is generally sympathetic with reapportionment on the basis of the Supreme Court's decision that both houses of state legislatures must be set up on a population basis.

Noting that a president doesn't act on a proposed constitutional amendment, Johnson said he didn't want to get into a detailed discussion of pending proposals.

Dirksen took note of the fact that Johnson stopped short of saying that he would take a position on the question.

"It's a matter of submitting the issue to the people," Dirksen said. "The President doesn't sign any resolution that is passed and I don't think he ought to take a position on it."

Dirksen has sponsored a proposed constitutional amendment, now pending in the Senate Judiciary Committee, which would authorize the states to submit to their voters the issue of whether they want one house of their legislature to be elected on other than a population basis.

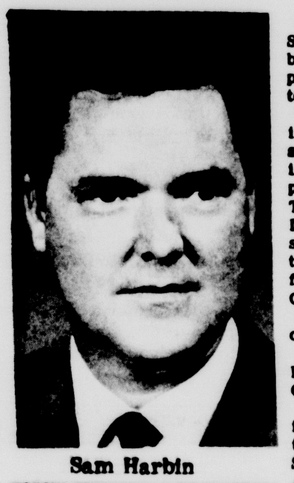

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill. said in a separate interview that Johnson's statement that he is "generally sympathetic" with apportionment on a one-man, one-vote basis is very encouraging.

Douglas said he thinks it will act to stiffen resistance by the Senate liberals against the Dirksen proposal. He said liberals had been hoping for an expression of this sort from the President.

Sam Harbin Becomes Bank Vice-President

Sam Harbin

Sam Harbin, principal of the Sikeston Middle school, has been appointed assistant vice-president of the Bank of Sikeston effective July 1.

He has been an administrater in the public school system seven years. He has been active in civic affairs. He is a past president of the Sikeston Little Theatre. He is president of the Delta Community Concert Association, Inc., and chairman of the Council on the Arts, affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce.

He has served as a director of the United Fund three years.

In 1962 he was named Young Man of the Year by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

His professional associations include membership in the National Association of Secondary School Principals, Missouri Association of Secondary School Principals, Missouri State Teachers Association, National Education Association, Sikeston Community Teachers Association, and Phi Delta Kappa, an honorary organization for educators.

Harbin was appointed to the Advisory Committee of the Governor's Council on the Arts last year. He is serving on its education committee.

Mr. Harbin attended the University of California in Los Angeles, earned his bachelor of science degree in Education from Southeast Missouri State college in Cape Girardeau, and his Master of Science degree from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Ill. He has done work beyond the masters degree at Southern Illinois university.

Harbin, his wife Del, and their three children, Julie, Ken, and Lauren live at 300 West North St.

Johnson Tells Aim Of Dominican

WASHINGTON AP--President Johnson says the aim of U. S. policy in the Dominican Republic is the establishment of a broadly based government--one that represents the people and does not include extremists.

To accomplish this end, the President told a news conference Tuesday, the United States is looking to the Organization of American States while keeping in touch with Dominican leaders.

"We have no desire to insist on our particular brand of military solution or political solution," Johnson said. "We think it is an inter-American matter, and we want to cooperate fully with them (the OAS)."

The Dominican revolt and U. S. policy toward it dominated Johnson's first nationally broadcast question-and-answer session with newsmen since April 27.

The President defended his policy, including his decision to intervene with more than 21,000 Army paratroopers, airmen and Marines.

Flew Over Dominica

Capt Everett D. Wiss, of the air force reserve, has completed a tour of duty with the air force.

He participated in Project Power Pack and received an assignment as courier pilot between Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic. His plane and crew were based at Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, and each night they would carry film, documents, supplies and personnel into and out of the objective area. Their base of operation in the Dominican Republic was the San Isidro Air base.

Captain Wiss is a pilot with the 702 and troop carrier squadron based at the Memphis Metropolitan airport in Tennessee. Their aircraft is the twin-engine Fairchild, C 123, Provider.

In civilian life Captain Wiss is a salesman with the Mitchell-Sharp Chevrolet Co.

Rosy Flight Prospect

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The man who will float alone in the heavens Thursday, and his space buddy who will pilot him there, started the last day before flight today with good news and great expectations.

Command pilot James A. McDivitt said: "We've got a good spacecraft, and it looks like we're going to have a good mission. We're ready."

Blastoff is scheduled for 9 a.m.

"We" are McDivitt and fellow Air Force Maj. Edward H. White II— the man who will step out of the Gemini 4 spacecraft and waltz in weightlessness on their second orbit of the earth.

There was the chance, too, that these two rookie American astronauts would get close enough to their booster rocket on their maneuvering early orbits to enable White to touch the booster during his weightless walk.

The space agency had said earlier that they might get as close as 20 feet to the booster. But mission director Christopher C. Kraft said that "there is nothing holy about 20 feet."

Would the mission last four days as intended? Kraft said that the decision would be made sometime after the first 24 hours of flight — when the astronauts had a chance to evaluate their fuel supply for their maneuvering jets, and experts looked at the decay of the orbit.

It was a demonstration of the flexibility of the flight plan.

Roche Educated Through Mail

DETROIT AP -- Enrollment in correspondence school classes may jump when word gets around that General Motors' new president James M. Roche got a lot of his education via the mails.

Roche, 58, elected Tuesday as president of the world's largest manufacturing concern, never attended college. As a youth he supplemented his high school education with mail courses in business and commerce from a Chicago correspondence school.

His selection came as no surprise. In recent weeks of speculation about who would succeed retiring GM President John F. Gordon, Roche's name almost always was the first one mentioned.

Roosevelt Would Change City's Image

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. AP -- Elliott Roosevelt, newly elected mayor of Miami Beach, says his major goal will be to wipe out the city's image as a tourist resort whose permanent residents all are pensioners. He promised federal housing for young families.

Elliott, 54, second son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, won office with a 1,400-vote plurality Tuesday in his second successful venture into politics. He was elected a Democratic national committeeman from Florida in 1964.

Down Two U.S. Planes

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP--Communist antiaircraft fire shot down two U. S. Navy planes during raids on North Viet Nam today. A rescue pilot said there was no chance the five American crewmen could have survived.

Two more Americans--an officer and an enlisted man--were reported killed in a Viet Cong triple ambush near Pleiku, 220 miles northeast of Saigon. Two American enlisted men were reported wounded, one seriously, and more than 80 South Vietnamese troops were killed or missing.

Correction

A mistake was made in yesterday's police report. It reported that Randy Jones, 205 North Stoddard, was charged with assault and affray. He was not but he was charged with careless and imprudent driving by exceeding the speed limit.

Kennedy Assassin's Widow Marries Technician

FATE, Tex. (AP) —Marina Oswald, widow of President John F. Kennedy's assassin, and an electronics technician she met a month ago began married life today in a white brick house on a quiet street in a Dallas suburb.

Mrs. Oswald, 23, a pretty, Russian-born blonde, and Kenneth J. Porter, 27, a divorced father of two, were married in this small north Texas farming community Tuesday.

The couple was introduced a month ago at the home where Porter was staying, just two doors from Mrs. Oswald's residence in Richardson.

The marriage ceremony, performed in the office of a justice of the peace, followed a hectic day in which the couple went to Durant, Okla., for a blood test and to Sherman, Tex., for a marriage license. They avoided a three-day Texas waiting period by getting the blood tests in Oklahoma.

The new Mrs. Porter has changed noticeably since she attended the funeral of her first husband, slain just two days after he shot President Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963.

She became active socially in recent months and was seen with escorts at Dallas night clubs. She studied English for eight weeks at the University of Michigan and then spent time in Arizona working on her life story for book publication.

She bought a small brick house in Richardson soon after Oswald was slain. Less than two months ago she moved into the three-bedroom white brick home she now occupies.

Molester At Work In City

A four-year-old white girl, who was not identified by police, was molested Monday by a white man. She was treated at Missouri Delta Community hospital.

When asked if anyone had been taken into custody, Chief of Police Arthur Bruce said that he had no information to be given out.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to molest another Sikeston girl Monday, possibly by the same man.

Police reported that a 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adon Cox, 308 E. Kathleen, was approached by a white man Monday afternoon who asked her to help him find a dog. The report said that after the man had induced her to enter an alley he offered $5 to find the dog and made an indecent proposal. The report said the man gave her a telephone number to call if she found the dog.

At this point the girl was reported to have run home. She reported to her father what had happened. She was not harmed.

NEW SHRUBS at the Public Library are admired by children who came for their first junior story hour under the leadership of Mrs. Evelyn Barnett. The first half dozen of 30 youngsters enrolled in the six-week course to arrive are Nancy Norton, Ronnie Rider, Stephanie Jewell, Becky Barnes, Kipper Norton and Raymond Arnold.

City Collects $3,075.28

Ronald Lee, city tax collector, reports that during May he collected from all tax sources $3,075.28: Real estate back taxes, 1962, $42.70; 1963, $212.52; and 1964, $791.43 for a total of $1,046.65.

In personal back taxes: 1961, $1.80; 1962, $18.81; 1963, $126.48 for a total of $147.09.

In merchants and manufacturers back tax collections $33 was collected for 1963 and $32.55 was collected in 1964 for a total of $65.55.

In license collections Lee reports that he collected $275 from merchants, $279.45 from automobile owners and $136 from dog license.

In the miscellaneous department $57.16 was collected from interest, $12.30 other costs and $1,056.08 from Associated Natural Gas for a total of $1,125.54.

Washout Lake Good Fish Spot

NEW MADRID — New Madrid County anglers are missing some of the best fishing in Southeast Missouri when they overlook the Des Cypre, or Washout Lake, five miles northwest of New Madrid, according to the county's conservation agent, Bob Hendrickson.

Hendrickson said that not many people have taken advantage of the fine fishing available at the Washout since the area was cleaned up and stocked with fish in 1963.

He said that many people may be staying away from the area since it was discovered last year that some of the fish were dying. He said that the fish are all right now and that the fishing should be good.

The lake was cleaned of fish on Sept. 17, 1963. Toxicants were applied for this purpose by conservation agents. Seines and nets were used to remove the fish from the water. Later, the lake was re-stocked with good game fish.

The renovation project was a joint effort of the Missouri Conservation Commission and the New Madrid County Sportsmen's club.

The lake covers approximately 40 acres. Its banks are lined with shade trees. Since the renovation, provisions have been made for launching boats. Those who fish from a bridge or railroad trestle may use the Cotton Belt railroad bridge.

Boy Scouts from Lilbourn and New Madrid use the sport for overnight camping.

Kiwanis Club Endorses Water-Sewer Proposal

The Kiwanis club voted unanimously Tuesday night to support a proposal by the board of public works for more than $1 million worth of improvements in the city's water distribution and sewage disposal systems. The club met at the Holiday Inn.

The action followed a speech by Charles F. Simpson of the board of public works. The proposal must be approved by the voters.

In his speech to the club, Simpson, who is business manager of the board, pointed out that increased population required improved services if the city is to continue its prosperous growth.

Engineering reports show that many of the present water and sewage facilities are functioning at or above capacity. Simpson says that he believes that increases in population would overload existing systems.

Simpson explained that new water mains of increased capacity would be installed to beef up existing water distribution lines. This would provide better service to consumers and improve fire protection.

In addition to increased water main capacity, the proposal calls for construction of new water storage facilities, including one 500,000 gallon, ground-level tank.

Simpson explained that the proposal calls for new sewer lines, expansion of the main sewage treatment plant, and increased capacity at two sewage sub-stations in the east and west parts of the city.

By board estimate, the total cost of the proposal will be $1,200,000 — $600,000 for the water system and $600,000 for the sewage system.

Revenue bonds, involving no increase in taxation, would be used to pay for improvements in water distribution, according to Simpson. The bonds would be paid off from earnings of the city water plant.

The proposed increased capacity for sewage treatment, if adopted, would mean a rise in the bonded indebtedness of the city — approximately 29 cents on $100 assessed valuation.

Geo. Kirk of the education committee, inducted the club's newest member, Richard Niedling, cashier of the Security National Bank, and presented him with a Kiwanis pin.

In the absence of Earl Hutchinson, president, and of Lee Shell, vice president, Harold Hill, immediate past president, presided.

Fulbright Changes Mind

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. J. W. Fulbright said today he has decided - reluctantly - to lead the fight for President Johnson's foreign aid bill in the Senate.

The chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee also said he will back Johnson's request that $89 million be added to the measure for the economic and social development of Southeast Asia.

The Arkansas Democrat's declaration was a boon to the administration. Last fall, Fulbright complained that the aid bill had become a "garbage can" for all sorts of things. He said he would not lead the fight for it unless military and economic assistance were separated.

The bill, passed by the House May 25, authorizes $3,352,170,000 in foreign aid for each of the next two years.

Bell City School Aid

BELL CITY -- Supt. Forrest Jackson announced today that the federal project head start program for Bell City, has been approved, and 15 more preschool children can be enrolled, who are five and six years old, and those who are four years and who will be five before Sept. 15.

Parents are advised to notify Jackson immediately if they wish to have their child enrolled.

The school session will open June 14 and continue for eight weeks. Transportation will be furnished by the school, both to and from classes. There is no direct cost to the parents. The total cost will be paid by the school district and the federal government.

Free lunches will be served at school and physical examinations will be given to students at no cost.

Police Report 144 Arrests

Police made 144 arrests in May with fines totaling $1,950.

Persons arrested for careless and reckless driving were 64, 11 cases involved intoxicants and four persons were involved in accidents.

Twenty persons were arrested on a charge of being under the influence of liquor in public.

Arrests made for peace disturbances numbered 13 and six persons were brought in accused of assault.

Ten persons were arrested and turned over to the state and there were 16 miscellaneous arrests.

Service Of Yorke Praised

A resolution adopted by the Kiwanis club at its meeting last night at the Holiday Inn praised Robert E. Yorke, Daily Standard reporter who died May 23 for his service to his community and to the Kiwanis club of which he was a member.

The resolution was presented by a committee composed of Harry C. Blanton, Norval Cannon and Robert Meyer. A copy will be given to his family.

"Because of his varied experience and world travels he possessed an unusual ability to separate the important from the unimportant events of the passing parade," the resolution stated.

"His exceptionally colorful career as a newspaperman, enabled him to have contacts with the great and near great of our State.

"His service on the program and music committee of the club produced programs of outstanding merit and entertainment.

"His service as a public relations representative of his local Club enabled the club to enjoy a fine reputation for service to the youth of his community.

"His death after a long illness removes from our midst a member possessed of good humor and a happy disposition.

"He had honorably served his country as a member of the armed forces during World War I and was a member of Henry Meldrum's post 114 of the American Legion."

Dominican Junta Asks Elections

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican junta proposed Tuesday night that elections supervised by the Organization of American States be held as soon as possible in this divided Caribbean nation.

The junta said all "democratic parties recognized by the Central Electoral Board" should be allowed to participate in the election. This presumably would include the Dominican Revolutionary party of exiled ex-President Juan Bosch in whose name the rebellion was launched April 25.

It was not clear, however, whether the junta would allow Bosch to return from exile in Puerto Rico to be a candidate. He won the presidency overwhelmingly in a free election in 1962, but military leaders overthrew him the next year.

Following the President's announcement that 2,000 more U.S. Marines were being withdrawn from Santo Domingo, helicopters began flying them to U.S. naval vessels offshore. Their departure reduces the U.S. contingent to 2,100 Marines and 14,200 paratroopers serving with 1,500 Latin-American troops in the inter-American peace force.

Drinking Charged In Lone Accident

The only injury in a highway accident in this area Tuesday occurred at 1:30 p.m. on Route H, four miles north of Steele, when a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Von Luttroll, 46, Malden, overturned while making a curve at high speed. The driver was cut on the right arm, taken to a Hayti hospital and released. Luttroll was arrested for careless and reckless driving while drinking.

Firemen answered eight alarms in May and $122 was paid to them.

Bills Sent To Senate

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House sent the Senate a number of bills Tuesday. One would set up state scholarships for outstanding high school students who might not be able to attend college without financial help.

It would provide a maximum of $600 a year for up to 1,000 students each year.

Others were bills to:

Include probate and magistrate judges in a judicial retirement plan at one-third their regular salary.

Make available an estimated $4 million a year to help exceptional as well as handicapped children.

Increase from 40 to 50 years the bonding limits for colleges and universities.

Outlaw open range in the few remaining areas where it is still used under local option.

Require food handlers in public schools to obtain health certificates.

After a brief session Tuesday morning the Senate devoted most of the day to committee hearings.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved a conflict of interest bill already passed by the House. It would require lobbyists to register and report their expenses and prohibit public officials from using their offices for personal gain.

Legislators, the governor and lieutenant governor would be required to reveal any substantial interest they might have in proposed laws.

A similar bill failed last session. If this one passes the Senate it probably will have to be returned to the House for approval of amendments suggested by the committee.

The Senate Economics Committee approved a $10 million increase in state aid to schools.

It is $14.5 million less than originally proposed in the House but the total is about $20 million more than last year.

Approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee was a bill passed by the House to let farmers form commodity merchandising councils. It would be restricted to producers of fresh fruit, vegetables and poultry.

Also approved by the farm committee was a bill changing the licensing provisions for public grain storage facilities. Grain warehouses could be licensed by the state and have their stores certified. Grain receipts issued by the warehouses then could be used for collateral in credit transactions.

Braggadocio Bank Entered

BRAGGADOCIO -- The Farmers Bank of Braggadocio was entered last night or early today. Nothing was reported missing.

Officers reported that both the front and back door glass had been broken to gain entrance but neither the vault or the safe had been touched.

Police Arrest Five Men

There were five men arrested by police in the last 24 hours, three of whom were involved in careless and imprudent driving.

Those arrested for careless and imprudent driving were: James Ray Webb, 508 Gladys; John Smith, Bertrand; and Dennis Ledbetter, 325 Selma.

Others arrested were Vernon Morgan, Bernie, and Robert Summers, St. Louis, both for intoxication while in public.

Dirksen Invites LBJ Reapportionment Silence

WASHINGTON AP -- Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen invited President Johnson today to stay out of the controversy over the reapportionment of state legislatures.

Johnson told a White House news conference Tuesday he is generally sympathetic with reapportionment on the basis of the Supreme Court's decision that both houses of state legislatures must be set up on a population basis.

Noting that a president doesn't act on a proposed constitutional amendment, Johnson said he didn't want to get into a detailed discussion of pending proposals.

Dirksen took note of the fact that Johnson stopped short of saying that he would take a position on the question.

"It's a matter of submitting the issue to the people," Dirksen said. "The President doesn't sign any resolution that is passed and I don't think he ought to take a position on it."

Dirksen has sponsored a proposed constitutional amendment, now pending in the Senate Judiciary Committee, which would authorize the states to submit to their voters the issue of whether they want one house of their legislature to be elected on other than a population basis.

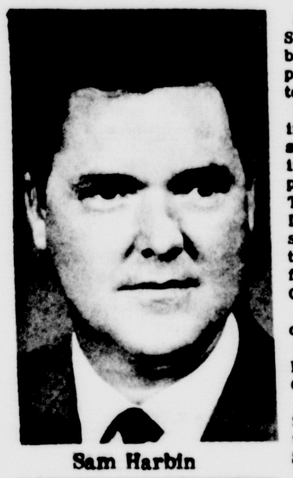

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill. said in a separate interview that Johnson's statement that he is "generally sympathetic" with apportionment on a one-man, one-vote basis is very encouraging.

Douglas said he thinks it will act to stiffen resistance by the Senate liberals against the Dirksen proposal. He said liberals had been hoping for an expression of this sort from the President.

Sam Harbin Becomes Bank Vice-President

Sam Harbin

Sam Harbin, principal of the Sikeston Middle school, has been appointed assistant vice-president of the Bank of Sikeston effective July 1.

He has been an administrater in the public school system seven years. He has been active in civic affairs. He is a past president of the Sikeston Little Theatre. He is president of the Delta Community Concert Association, Inc., and chairman of the Council on the Arts, affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce.

He has served as a director of the United Fund three years.

In 1962 he was named Young Man of the Year by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

His professional associations include membership in the National Association of Secondary School Principals, Missouri Association of Secondary School Principals, Missouri State Teachers Association, National Education Association, Sikeston Community Teachers Association, and Phi Delta Kappa, an honorary organization for educators.

Harbin was appointed to the Advisory Committee of the Governor's Council on the Arts last year. He is serving on its education committee.

Mr. Harbin attended the University of California in Los Angeles, earned his bachelor of science degree in Education from Southeast Missouri State college in Cape Girardeau, and his Master of Science degree from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Ill. He has done work beyond the masters degree at Southern Illinois university.

Harbin, his wife Del, and their three children, Julie, Ken, and Lauren live at 300 West North St.

Johnson Tells Aim Of Dominican

WASHINGTON AP--President Johnson says the aim of U. S. policy in the Dominican Republic is the establishment of a broadly based government--one that represents the people and does not include extremists.

To accomplish this end, the President told a news conference Tuesday, the United States is looking to the Organization of American States while keeping in touch with Dominican leaders.

"We have no desire to insist on our particular brand of military solution or political solution," Johnson said. "We think it is an inter-American matter, and we want to cooperate fully with them (the OAS)."

The Dominican revolt and U. S. policy toward it dominated Johnson's first nationally broadcast question-and-answer session with newsmen since April 27.

The President defended his policy, including his decision to intervene with more than 21,000 Army paratroopers, airmen and Marines.

Flew Over Dominica

Capt Everett D. Wiss, of the air force reserve, has completed a tour of duty with the air force.

He participated in Project Power Pack and received an assignment as courier pilot between Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic. His plane and crew were based at Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, and each night they would carry film, documents, supplies and personnel into and out of the objective area. Their base of operation in the Dominican Republic was the San Isidro Air base.

Captain Wiss is a pilot with the 702 and troop carrier squadron based at the Memphis Metropolitan airport in Tennessee. Their aircraft is the twin-engine Fairchild, C 123, Provider.

In civilian life Captain Wiss is a salesman with the Mitchell-Sharp Chevrolet Co.

Rosy Flight Prospect

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The man who will float alone in the heavens Thursday, and his space buddy who will pilot him there, started the last day before flight today with good news and great expectations.

Command pilot James A. McDivitt said: "We've got a good spacecraft, and it looks like we're going to have a good mission. We're ready."

IT'S TIME FOT THE ARTS

Last Saturday night's attendance at the Sikeston Little Theatre's presentation of "The Sound of Music" in Kennett should go a long way in proving our contention this area is ready for a year-round arts program.

The Kennett High School auditorium was nearly overflowing last Saturday night, and the audience so warmly received the presentation that performers found it difficult to believe their ears. At the end of the musical, local playgoers rose to give a standing and a deserved ovation to the Sikeston area cast.

Now that such enthusiasm has been evidenced, isn't it about time for some organization or organizations to come forth with a community-wide arts or cultural program?

We're hopeful that such a plan is just around the corner. The signs certainly point to widespread community acceptance of such a program in the Kennett area.

MORE ON GUN CONTROL

The Senate Judiciary subcommittee on juvenile delinquency today, resumed hearings on the gun control bill (S 1592) introduced by the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.). Sen. Dodd has charged that pressures by "the gun lobby," particularly the National Rifle Association, already have doomed the measure.

After gun control bills died in committee last year, Sen. Dodd in January introduced a moderate and not highly controversial gun bill (S 14). In effect, this measure would have placed the same kind of control over mail-order gun sales that already exists over retail sales -- banning sales to minors, criminals, psychopaths -- and establishing enforcement procedures. Sportsmen, however, greeted this overture with charges of communism and other out-sized reactions.

Sen. Dodd's substitute bill (S 1592), on which the hearings now are concentrating, incorporates the recommendations of President Johnson's crime message to Congress of March 8. The President proposed amendment of the Federal Firearms Act to prohibit interstate shipment of arms except by dealers licensed by the Treasury Department. Mail order sales to individuals would be stopped, sales to persons under 21 (18 for rifles and shotguns) would be prohibited and importation of surplus military weapons would be restricted.

In a precis of his own bill, Sen. Dodd said (Congressional Record, March 22, 1965) it would, in general: "Make it illegal to transport, ship, or receive firearms in interstate or foreign commerce, except as between licensed importers, licensed manufacturers, or licensed dealers, or between such licenses and persons excepted from the application of the Federal Firearms Act. . . Thus under the bill, the so-called interstate mail-order traffic in firearms, whereby an individual can order a gun to be shipped from a mail-order dealer in another state, would be completely terminated."

The bill also would limit sales by federally licensed importers, manufacturers and dealers of firearms to persons over 21 years of age, except for shotguns and rifles, which could not be sold to persons under 18. A companion bill (S 1591), now before the Senate Commerce Committee, covers heavy and gangster type weapons.

The revised Dodd bill is a good deal more stringent than the January measure. It has increased the ire of sportsmen, hunters, and collectors, and its path toward approval appears dark and treacherous.

14(b) AND EXCISE CUTS

With his usual political shrewdness, President Johnson has renewed the use of the carrot-and-stick technique on Congress and the public.

Having submitted to Congress a plan for progressive cuts in Federal excise taxes, the President has promptly asked for repeal of the Federal statute permitting state "right-to-work" laws.

On the other hand he intimates to the people that consumer costs on many items are to be reduced. On the other he proposes to tighten union control over the work force and thus pave the way for wage increases which will mean higher consumer prices.

It's an interesting way of pleasing many voters and leaving the economy essentially unchanged, except as it affects labor costs and government debt.

Among the standard measurements of the economy, there is absolutely no way of knowing just how much excise tax reductions can increase sales. The American economy is experiencing natural growth, partly through expanding population and broader world trade. Last year's income tax cut and the additional drop this year will put more consumer money into the sales market. There is no way to evaluate the part that lower excise taxes will play in this complex expansion. It may be more of a psychological factor than an actual benefit.

But it is clear that any reduction in Federal revenue under present budget requirements will add to the debt load of the central Government.

If excise levy cuts are to be taken with a grain of salt, so too must the advocacy of repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act. This section now permits individual states to enact laws preventing the union shop. Nineteen states have such right-to-work laws, among them Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi.

The union shop, where contracts permit it, requires involuntary union membership. Dues and assessments are paid whether the worker concurs in their use. At the same time, the union is relieved of the necessity of proving its usefulness in recruiting drives, and can devote added financial resources to harder bargaining and stronger strike power.

Certainly this generation should not forget what it means for union agents to control hiring practices. The day of the working permit, purchased from the union boss, is not so long past. Today, in states without right-to-work laws, the union managers determine who shall work and what tribute they shall pay. It costs the employer -- and the worker.

Labor is hitting hard on the 14(b) issue at this time in order to cash in on its support of the big Democratic majority in Congress.

New elections will be held in 1966, and the AFL-CIO is by no means certain it will command such strong backing in the 90th Congress.

Nevertheless, the issue is one of high controversy, and Congress is about evenly divided. It was to avoid such controversy that the President waited until mid-May to make his demand for repeal of 14(b). He wanted his domestic program enacted, or well under way, before this issue arose. How strongly he will fight for abolishing the right-to-work laws is yet to be seen, but he has paid off the unions by thrusting the matter into the lap of Congress.

There is no proof that 14(b) has resulted in "union busting," as labor leaders argue. There is every sign that repeal would place job control in the hands of union bosses and force workers to pay tribute for the chance to be gainfully employed.

President Johnson may have been reluctant to follow through on this promise to the labor politics, but when he did so he took the precaution of holding out the bait of excise tax cuts to minimize public objection. It is a political gimmick which should not go unnoticed.

The senator needed a secretary and a psychologist invited him down to watch the examination of candidates for the job. The psychologist called on the first girl and asked:

"What's two and two?" Her answer was a prompt: "Four."

The second girl thought for a moment, suspecting a catch, and said: "Twenty-two."

The last applicant answered: "Four, but it could be 22."

After they had gone, the psychologist said to the senator: "The tests were very revealing. The first girl had a conventional mind; to her, two and two is always four. The second girl has imagination; she realized it might be 22. The third girl is a combination of both; she's practical and has imagination. Clearly she will make the best secretary. Now, which would you like?"

Without hesitation, the senator replied: "The one in the tight sweater."

B. A. IN DISHWASHING

When a union official criticizes the federal government, and when a labor paper publishes the criticism, that's news!

In Little Rock, a 24-week training program has been set up with federal funds to train unemployed youths for such jobs as dishwasher, porter, and bus boy.

"It's the most ridiculous thing I ever heard of," says the Arkansas state organizer for the hotel and restaurant employees union.

Twenty-four weeks to learn how to wash dishes, to clear a table, to carry a suitcase? We have a vague feeling that the union man knows whereof he speaks.

There's one thing you have to say for the Women's Job Corps of the government's poverty program. It is traveling in classy company.

It is being mentioned in the same breath with Radcliffe College for women and Harvard University for men -- and you can hardly get any classier than that.

Linking of the three names began when Sen. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio ripped into the Women's Job Corps project as outrageously expensive.

Lausche charged that the program to teach job corps trainees basic education, homemaking and citizenship would cost taxpayers nearly $8,000 per year per girl -- twice the cost of sending her to one of the nation's leading colleges.

"Nuts," retorted the Office of Economic Opportunity, although naturally not in that language. It would cost only $6,000 a year to train a girl.

"Also," commented the OEO starchily, "we find the cost to parents and the school of sending a young woman to a place like Radcliffe College (Cambridge, Mass.) for a nine-month academic year is $8,000, compared with our $6,000."

OEO then took another look at its figures and issued another statement -- this one to the effect that actually it would cost only $4,650 to train a girl in the Women's Job Corps program, whereas it costs $6,410 a year to send a young man to Harvard.

"The heck it does," retorted Harvard, although of course not in those words. A young gentleman, said the college, could attend Harvard like a young gentleman should for as little as around $3,500 a year.

Where all this leaves the taxpayer or the puzzled parent of a Radcliffe or Harvard student is a little hazy. But it does point out how classy poverty can be when Uncle Sam gets into the act.

Any girl who finds herself hobnobbing in the news with a Harvard man or a Radcliffe girl can't be doing too poorly.

The nation's independent business proprietors apparently believe it costs more than $50 a month to house, feed and clothe a youngster.

This is reflected in the overwhelming majority by which they have voted support in a nationwide vote on H. R. 533, introduced into Congress by Rep. Walter Rogers (Texas) to raise the personal income tax exemption for an individual, his spouse and each child from the present $600 to $1,000. The vote taken by the National Federation of Independent Business resulted in 83% for, 16% opposed, with 1% undecided.

The Federation analysts report that while a large part of the favorable vote was undoubtedly prompted by the realization that the $600 exemption is unrealistically low, there is also an apparent growing sentiment among the businessmen that the 1964 income tax cut was largely a deceptive device deluding rather than alleviating the problem of the working and middle class tax payer.

The continuous year long field survey also being conducted by the Federation shows independent businessmen rapidly growing disenchanted with the 1964 tax cut, due in part to the fact that millions of tax payers owed additional money, due to under-withholding. In addition, the continuous survey is revealing the feeling that proposed increased pay roll taxes for Social Security, as well as increased state and local tax levies will not only absorb any benefits gained by the workers, but will probably result in their actually paying more taxes than before the cut was made in the income tax rate.

At one time Abraham Lincoln pointed out the difficulty of fooling all of the people all the time.

RESTORING THE MONROE DOCTRINE

At last we have taken a long and vitally important step toward accomplishing what is by far the most important goal of our foreign policy in this hemisphere: restoration of the Monroe Doctrine. But unfinished business still remains.

The firm and effective action taken by President Johnson recently in the Dominican Republic served notice on friend and foe alike that we will not tolerate further seizures of power by communists in the Western Hemisphere. They will not be allowed to take over any more countries through revolutions planned and armed by Fidel Castro and the Kremlin.

The usual outcry from the far left and all the sympathizers arose. But the action had been taken. The deed was done. In a manner that spoke far louder than any words could have done, the Monroe Doctrine was reaffirmed when the Marines landed in Santo Domingo.

But past administrations allowed a gaping breach of the Monroe Doctrine. Though we restore it now, the breach already made still remains. It is Castro's communist-controlled Cuba.

If the Monroe Doctrine is once again the basic principle of our hemispheric policy, then Cuba cannot be allowed to fly an alien banner indefinitely just ninety miles from our shores. Cuba must be restored to the free world before the Monroe Doctrine can regain its full and rightful meaning.

This need not mean war on Marine invasion. Blockade and the Cuban exiles, with sufficient help, can eliminate Castro and communism from Cuba. That should be our goal. HLH.

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — An open letter home:—

Dear Frances and Tracy,

Well, sweet ducks, I hope you are not spending the old man into bankruptcy while I'm away and too sentimental to cut off your credit. Spend less, live more.

You may be wondering what is going on over here. So do I. When I was here 48 hours, I thought I knew for sure what the truth was here. Now that I have been here toward 48 days, I'm not so sure what is untrue.

Perhaps that is a growth toward education and is typical. In any case, I would like to find out and will continue to seek to learn what I can know.

What it seems to me that we are doing is pouring out billions of American dollars and the earnestness of, eventually, perhaps hundreds of thousands of well-trained American soldiers on the doubtful hinge of victory.

The hinge, I suspect, is whether we stay in the spending area long enough to create a middle class. Can our dollars and our soldiers and our dreams make permanence here?

And that hinge, of course, is whether the Vietnamese can among themselves create a stable government that is able to achieve and reflect their national glory — and not resent our help too much.

Well, enough of politics. I suppose you may be more interested in personal things.

There is great dignity and sweetness among these people in the midst of the dire and perilous lives they live. They have time for kindness if you have, and sometimes if you haven't.

They respond immediately to a courtesy, a kindness, a smile and a help. Without being fatuous about it, I think if they can make a methodical government attentive to the people's goals then our billions spent here and our presence here will be worthwhile. Our support to their own goals of dignity won't have been wasted.

Of course, sometimes homesick men away from home fasten their dreams on the performance of an individual.

To many of us at the press center here our "Miss Viet Nam" is a 13-year-old orphan we call "Little One."

She is tiny, black-haired, ready-smiling, works like a Trojan, cleaning and polishing and serving drinks. Everybody tries to teach her a new English word every day, and she blooms under our adulation like a flower responsive to a bright sun.

She makes us all feel better every day. She's our dream daughter away from home. We have plans to buy her a smart uniform, and long-term plans to raise a fund to educate her. That means our conscience to her own future will force us to lose her. We all hate to face up to that, but we shall.

Oh, I guess I started to write you about something else — but this is what I have written. I'll have to tell you later about how I've figured how to whip the enemy Viet Cong — in 12 easy years.

Your homesick husband and father, Harold.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Last March, writing from Moscow, I reported that the United States and Russia were on a collision course. The reason, I said, was that American bombing of North Viet Nam which had cut the ground out from under Khrushchev's co-existence policy, set the Chinese to chortling that co-existence wouldn't work, and played into the hands of the old Stalinist, anti-American clique inside the Kremlin.

Last week, Cyrus Eaton, the Cleveland industrialist, returning from Moscow, reported that Premier Kosygin had told him American policy in North Viet Nam had left Russia with no alternative but to fight and that Moscow would retaliate against American forces "with everything we have" unless the bombing of North Viet Nam comes to an end.

Next day, Secretary of State Dean Rusk issued what was described as a stern warning to Russia and China not to widen the war in Viet Nam. He revealed that a new Sam missile site had just been sighted in the north. Rusk, when working for John F. Kennedy, had held Russian Sam missile sites to be purely defensive when constructed in Cuba only ninety miles away. But he viewed them with alarm 9,000 miles away.

Previously, Russian diplomats had conveyed informal but quite definite warnings to the State Department that if Russian missile sites in North Viet Nam were bombed, Russia would have no alternative but to retaliate. They have not, of course, been bombed ninety miles off the Florida coast at any time since placed there four years ago.

—DANGEROUS DIPLOMACY—

So runs the dangerous game of diplomatic tic-tac-toe between two nations which have the power, with a single push of the nuclear button, to wipe out sixty of each other's major cities. Like small boys with chips on their shoulders, each dares the other, while each accumulates more chips and more grievances.

The United States has now sent or is sending a total of 65,000 troops to Viet Nam, three times the number President Johnson found there when he took over from the late John F. Kennedy.

The North Vietnamese government is now stripping its key government ministries from its capital, Hanoi, and moving them to areas where they cannot be easily bombed. This is the act of a government preparing for a long siege, not one ready to talk peace.

Reports from South Viet Nam indicate that the Viet Cong is ready to take advantage of the monsoon rains by coming out of the jungle for prolonged ground battles; also is preparing to set up embassies in every major country to claim that it, not the frequently changing government in Saigon, is the true representative of this troubled area.

In brief, the American policy of bombing North Viet Nam, sold to President Johnson by Gen. Maxwell Taylor and White House adviser McGeorge Bundy, has been a miserable failure.

—TAYLOR'S FLOP—

Taylor had left the Army during the Eisenhower Administration to write a book, "The Uncertain Trumpet," in which he advocated small brush-fire wars for settling international problems rather than relying on the Eisenhower policy of push-button war.

Taylor sold his ideas to John F. Kennedy, who brought him back into government as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. However, Kennedy never entirely bought Taylor's theory of brush-fire wars. He dabbled with the idea in South Viet Nam, but never gave Taylor free-rein. It remained for Lyndon Johnson, inheritor of an insoluble military and political mess, to appoint Gen. Taylor as ambassador to South Viet Nam and tell him to go all out to solve the mess he helped create.

Gen. Taylor soon deviated from his original idea of brush-fire war and extended the war to his disastrous policy of Navy-Air Force bombing of North Viet Nam. This has failed. And with the beginning of the monsoon rains, we are now right back where we started — fighting an unseen, jungle enemy which sleeps by day and raids by night — the kind of warfare which the Continental Army used against the British when conducting an unpopular war against thirteen relatively weak colonies in 1776.

Those thirteen colonies won — partly because they were fighting on their own soil; partly because they were fighting for something they passionately believed in; partly because British troops were fighting a long way from home for something they did not believe in.

American troops half-way around the world in Viet Nam are in the same position today. They are fighting a battle which continued eight years under the French, ten years under American "advisers," and will continue another eighteen years, or even more — for the simple reason that the Vietnamese are fighting on their own ground against foreigners and white men.

Significantly, the George Washington of both North and South Viet Nam is Ho Chi-Minh, now the leader of North Viet Nam. But as the Father of Independence he is revered in the South as much as in the North.

The fact that the "George Washington" of Indochina is viewed with love and admiration by the people of the South whose alleged independence we are trying to preserve is a political fact which no bombing of bridges or raids on supply trains or skirmishes in the steaming jungles can eradicate.

And if Cardinal Spellman had not sold President Eisenhower on protecting the migration of one million Catholics, from North to South Viet Nam immediately after the signing of the 1954 Geneva Treaty, these two unhappy peoples might well be happily united and completely independent of Red China today.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Union Chiefs Urging President To Decree End of Lie Detector Use By All U. S. Agencies -- including FBI and CIA.

Washington, D. C.: -- A new and bitter offensive which will crackle through the headlines soon will be launched by labor against the use of polygraphs -- lie detectors -- by any government agency or by industry, regardless of the reason.

With this drive will be coupled a campaign to wipe out the use of closed circuit television, intraplant communications, computer analyses, and other electronic wizardries used to check on personnel.

But the primary target is the lie detector. Labor leaders feel so strongly about it they object to its use even by the FBI and CIA in security and anti-crime activity.

This is a sharp shift in militancy on this front. Several months ago the AFL-CIO leaders attacked the lie detector only on the commercial and industrial front. But in recent weeks labor's high command has decided to push for the wiping out of polygraph use anywhere in the U. S.

The union chiefs could not have put it more strongly when they appointed two of their group to head the campaign -- the machinists chief, Al J. Hayes, whose union has vast jurisdiction over defense and such space projects as the two-man Gemini space shot; and James Suffridge, head of the Retail Clerks International Assn. The latter often is spoken of by insiders as the next AFL-CIO president.

"Police state surveillance of the lives of individual citizens," is labor's description of the lie detector.

There are 1,500 polygraph companies in the country doing a business of more than a billion dollars. The government does a fairly large polygraph business itself.

At the latest count, the U.S. agencies -- not including the secretive CIA -- give about 24,000 polygraph tests a year. The FBI, though its specialists are the most experienced, does not use the lie detector on its personnel. It restricts the polygraph to security and crime work. Central Intelligence, however, gives all its prospective employes a polygraph test.

In addition to the CIA, 24 U.S. bureaus and agencies own and use the lie detector equipment. The government owns some 600 polygraphs in addition to what the CIA has. There actually are almost 700 authorized polygraph operators working for the government full time.

The first to be antagonized by this was the AFL-CIO government workers' unions. When the figures were made known to the national AFL-CIO chiefs they were appalled and decided to appoint the two-man subcommittee to launch the national offensive.

During a recent meeting of national labor chiefs it was decided to ask President Johnson for an immediate decree ordering the discontinuance of all federal lie detector use.

If this move fails, the labor chiefs will go to Congress.

Paralleling this will be labor's drive in private industry. The lie detectors are most heavily used by the steel industry, copper refining, auto manufacturing, meat packing, food processing, oil, electronics, mail order retailing and supermarkets.

To hit the "private sector" of the lie detectors, the national labor leaders have directed their regional people to fight for state and city laws banning the polygraph. Its use already is banned in Alaska, Oregon, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and California.

In the last state the law says: "No employer shall demand or require any applicant for employment or prospective employment or any employe to submit to or take a polygraph, lie detector, or similar test or examination as a condition of employment or continued employment. The prohibition of this section does not apply to the federal government or any agency or local subdivision thereof. . ."

The labor men, of course, want the ban to be all-inclusive. If they can't get it through the legislatures, they will fight to get it into labor contracts. And they'll surely get into a battle.

The opposition is saying there is a sharp line between the detection of dishonesty and the invasion of privacy.

IT'S TIME FOT THE ARTS

Last Saturday night's attendance at the Sikeston Little Theatre's presentation of "The Sound of Music" in Kennett should go a long way in proving our contention this area is ready for a year-round arts program.

The Kennett High School auditorium was nearly overflowing last Saturday night, and the audience so warmly received the presentation that performers found it difficult to believe their ears. At the end of the musical, local playgoers rose to give a standing and a deserved ovation to the Sikeston area cast.

Now that such enthusiasm has been evidenced, isn't it about time for some organization or organizations to come forth with a community-wide arts or cultural program?

We're hopeful that such a plan is just around the corner. The signs certainly point to widespread community acceptance of such a program in the Kennett area.

MORE ON GUN CONTROL

The Senate Judiciary subcommittee on juvenile delinquency today, resumed hearings on the gun control bill (S 1592) introduced by the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.). Sen. Dodd has charged that pressures by "the gun lobby," particularly the National Rifle Association, already have doomed the measure.

After gun control bills died in committee last year, Sen. Dodd in January introduced a moderate and not highly controversial gun bill (S 14). In effect, this measure would have placed the same kind of control over mail-order gun sales that already exists over retail sales -- banning sales to minors, criminals, psychopaths -- and establishing enforcement procedures. Sportsmen, however, greeted this overture with charges of communism and other out-sized reactions.

Sen. Dodd's substitute bill (S 1592), on which the hearings now are concentrating, incorporates the recommendations of President Johnson's crime message to Congress of March 8. The President proposed amendment of the Federal Firearms Act to prohibit interstate shipment of arms except by dealers licensed by the Treasury Department. Mail order sales to individuals would be stopped, sales to persons under 21 (18 for rifles and shotguns) would be prohibited and importation of surplus military weapons would be restricted.

In a precis of his own bill, Sen. Dodd said (Congressional Record, March 22, 1965) it would, in general: "Make it illegal to transport, ship, or receive firearms in interstate or foreign commerce, except as between licensed importers, licensed manufacturers, or licensed dealers, or between such licenses and persons excepted from the application of the Federal Firearms Act. . . Thus under the bill, the so-called interstate mail-order traffic in firearms, whereby an individual can order a gun to be shipped from a mail-order dealer in another state, would be completely terminated."

The bill also would limit sales by federally licensed importers, manufacturers and dealers of firearms to persons over 21 years of age, except for shotguns and rifles, which could not be sold to persons under 18. A companion bill (S 1591), now before the Senate Commerce Committee, covers heavy and gangster type weapons.

The revised Dodd bill is a good deal more stringent than the January measure. It has increased the ire of sportsmen, hunters, and collectors, and its path toward approval appears dark and treacherous.

14(b) AND EXCISE CUTS

With his usual political shrewdness, President Johnson has renewed the use of the carrot-and-stick technique on Congress and the public.

Having submitted to Congress a plan for progressive cuts in Federal excise taxes, the President has promptly asked for repeal of the Federal statute permitting state "right-to-work" laws.

On the other hand he intimates to the people that consumer costs on many items are to be reduced. On the other he proposes to tighten union control over the work force and thus pave the way for wage increases which will mean higher consumer prices.

It's an interesting way of pleasing many voters and leaving the economy essentially unchanged, except as it affects labor costs and government debt.

Among the standard measurements of the economy, there is absolutely no way of knowing just how much excise tax reductions can increase sales. There is no way to evaluate the part that lower excise taxes will play in this complex expansion. It may be more of a psychological factor than an actual benefit.

But it is clear that any reduction in Federal revenue under present budget requirements will add to the debt load of the central Government.

If excise levy cuts are to be taken with a grain of salt, so too must the advocacy of repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act. This section now permits individual states to enact laws preventing the union shop. Nineteen states have such right-to-work laws, among them Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi.

The union shop, where contracts permit it, requires involuntary union membership. Dues and assessments are paid whether the worker concurs in their use. Today, in states without right-to-work laws, the union managers determine who shall work and what tribute they shall pay. It costs the employer -- and the worker.

Labor is hitting hard on the 14(b) issue at this time in order to cash in on its support of the big Democratic majority in Congress.

New elections will be held in 1966, and the AFL-CIO is by no means certain it will command such strong backing in the 90th Congress.

Nevertheless, the issue is one of high controversy, and Congress is about evenly divided. President Johnson may have been reluctant to follow through on this promise to the labor politics, but when he did so he took the precaution of holding out the bait of excise tax cuts to minimize public objection. It is a political gimmick which should not go unnoticed.

The senator needed a secretary and a psychologist invited him down to watch the examination of candidates for the job. The psychologist called on the first girl and asked:

"What's two and two?" Her answer was a prompt: "Four."

The second girl thought for a moment, suspecting a catch, and said: "Twenty-two."

The last applicant answered: "Four, but it could be 22."

After they had gone, the psychologist said to the senator: "The tests were very revealing. The first girl had a conventional mind; to her, two and two is always four. The second girl has imagination; she realized it might be 22. The third girl is a combination of both; she's practical and has imagination. Clearly she will make the best secretary. Now, which would you like?"

Without hesitation, the senator replied: "The one in the tight sweater."

B. A. IN DISHWASHING

When a union official criticizes the federal government, and when a labor paper publishes the criticism, that's news!

In Little Rock, a 24-week training program has been set up with federal funds to train unemployed youths for such jobs as dishwasher, porter, and bus boy.

"It's the most ridiculous thing I ever heard of," says the Arkansas state organizer for the hotel and restaurant employees union.

Twenty-four weeks to learn how to wash dishes, to clear a table, to carry a suitcase? We have a vague feeling that the union man knows whereof he speaks.

TRENDS: According to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, men may display an Edwardian touch in their waistcoats this fall. Fancy brocades and tapestry fabrics are being used by several makers for regular vests and for matching dress ties and vests. . . A new idea -- the printed lining of blazer jackets carried the same crest motif of the metallic buttons. (Not new, but being seen more -- the lining of the breast pocket of a suit or jacket, which also matches the lining, and which pulls up to simulate a foulard breast pocket handkerchief.)

There's one thing you have to say for the Women's Job Corps of the government's poverty program. It is traveling in classy company.

It is being mentioned in the same breath with Radcliffe College for women and Harvard University for men -- and you can hardly get any classier than that.

Linking of the three names began when Sen. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio ripped into the Women's Job Corps project as outrageously expensive.

Lausche charged that the program to teach job corps trainees basic education, homemaking and citizenship would cost taxpayers nearly $8,000 per year per girl -- twice the cost of sending her to one of the nation's leading colleges.

"Nuts," retorted the Office of Economic Opportunity, although naturally not in that language. It would cost only $6,000 a year to train a girl.

"Also," commented the OEO starchily, "we find the cost to parents and the school of sending a young woman to a place like Radcliffe College (Cambridge, Mass.) for a nine-month academic year is $8,000, compared with our $6,000."

OEO then took another look at its figures and issued another statement -- this one to the effect that actually it would cost only $4,650 to train a girl in the Women's Job Corps program, whereas it costs $6,410 a year to send a young man to Harvard.

"The heck it does," retorted Harvard, although of course not in those words. A young gentleman, said the college, could attend Harvard like a young gentleman should for as little as around $3,500 a year.

Where all this leaves the taxpayer or the puzzled parent of a Radcliffe or Harvard student is a little hazy. But it does point out how classy poverty can be when Uncle Sam gets into the act.

Any girl who finds herself hobnobbing in the news with a Harvard man or a Radcliffe girl can't be doing too poorly.

The nation's independent business proprietors apparently believe it costs more than $50 a month to house, feed and clothe a youngster.

This is reflected in the overwhelming majority by which they have voted support in a nationwide vote on H. R. 533, introduced into Congress by Rep. Walter Rogers (Texas) to raise the personal income tax exemption for an individual, his spouse and each child from the present $600 to $1,000. The vote taken by the National Federation of Independent Business resulted in 83% for, 16% opposed, with 1% undecided.

The Federation analysts report that while a large part of the favorable vote was undoubtedly prompted by the realization that the $600 exemption is unrealistically low, there is also an apparent growing sentiment among the businessmen that the 1964 income tax cut was largely a deceptive device deluding rather than alleviating the problem of the working and middle class tax payer.

The continuous year long field survey also being conducted by the Federation shows independent businessmen rapidly growing disenchanted with the 1964 tax cut, due in part to the fact that millions of tax payers owed additional money, due to under-withholding. In addition, the continuous survey is revealing the feeling that proposed increased pay roll taxes for Social Security, as well as increased state and local tax levies will not only absorb any benefits gained by the workers, but will probably result in their actually paying more taxes than before the cut was made in the income tax rate.

At one time Abraham Lincoln pointed out the difficulty of fooling all of the people all the time.

Maybelle was at lunch when the holdup men arrived at the insurance company where she worked. The thugs had forced all the girls to remove their dresses and lie on the floor.

When Maybelle entered the room and witnessed the scene she lost no time in taking off her dress and joining them. "Turn over, Maybelle," said the girl on her right, "this is a stickup, not the office party."

H. L. Hunt Says

RESTORING THE MONROE DOCTRINE

At last we have taken a long and vitally important step toward accomplishing what is by far the most important goal of our foreign policy in this hemisphere: restoration of the Monroe Doctrine. But unfinished business still remains.

The firm and effective action taken by President Johnson recently in the Dominican Republic served notice on friend and foe alike that we will not tolerate further seizures of power by communists in the Western Hemisphere. They will not be allowed to take over any more countries through revolutions planned and armed by Fidel Castro and the Kremlin.

The usual outcry from the far left and all the sympathizers arose. But the action had been taken. The deed was done. In a manner that spoke far louder than any words could have done, the Monroe Doctrine was reaffirmed when the Marines landed in Santo Domingo.

But past administrations allowed a gaping breach of the Monroe Doctrine. Though we restore it now, the breach already made still remains. It is Castro's communist-controlled Cuba.

If the Monroe Doctrine is once again the basic principle of our hemispheric policy, then Cuba cannot be allowed to fly an alien banner indefinitely just ninety miles from our shores. Cuba must be restored to the free world before the Monroe Doctrine can regain its full and rightful meaning.

This need not mean war on Marine invasion. Blockade and, the Cuban exiles, with sufficient help, can eliminate Castro and communism from Cuba. That should be our goal. HLH.

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — An open letter home:—

Dear Frances and Tracy,

Well, sweet ducks, I hope you are not spending the old man into bankruptcy while I'm away and too sentimental to cut off your credit. Spend less, live more.

You may be wondering what is going on over here. So do I. When I was here 48 hours, I thought I knew for sure what the truth was here. Now that I have been here toward 48 days, I'm not so sure what is untrue.

Perhaps that is a growth toward education and is typical. In any case, I would like to find out and will continue to seek to learn what I can know.

What it seems to me that we are doing is pouring out billions of American dollars and the earnestness of, eventually, perhaps hundreds of thousands of well-trained American soldiers on the doubtful hinge of victory.

The hinge, I suspect, is whether we stay in the spending area long enough to create a middle class. Can our dollars and our soldiers and our dreams make permanence here?

And that hinge, of course, is whether the Vietnamese can among themselves create a stable government that is able to achieve and reflect their national glory — and not resent our help too much.

Well, enough of politics. I suppose you may be more interested in personal things.

There is great dignity and sweetness among these people in the midst of the dire and perilous lives they live. They have time for kindness if you have, and sometimes if you haven't.

They respond immediately to a courtesy, a kindness, a smile and a help. Without being fatuous about it, I think if they can make a methodical government attentive to the people's goals then our billions spent here and our presence here will be worthwhile. Our support to their own goals of dignity won't have been wasted.

Of course, sometimes homesick men away from home fasten their dreams on the performance of an individual.

To many of us at the press center here our "Miss Viet Nam" is a 13-year-old orphan we call "Little One."

She is tiny, black-haired, ready-smiling, works like a Trojan, cleaning and polishing and serving drinks. Everybody tries to teach her a new English word every day, and she blooms under our adulation like a flower responsive to a bright sun.

She makes us all feel better every day. She's our dream daughter away from home. We have plans to buy her a smart uniform, and long-term plans to raise a fund to educate her. That means our conscience to her own future will force us to lose her. We all hate to face up to that, but we shall.

Oh, I guess I started to write you about something else —but this is what I have written. I'll have to tell you later about how I've figured how to whip the enemy Viet Cong — in 12 easy years.

Your homesick husband and father, Harold.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Last March, writing from Moscow, I reported that the United States and Russia were on a collision course. The reason, I said, was that American bombing of North Viet Nam which had cut the ground out from under Khrushchev's co-existence policy, set the Chinese to chortling that co-existence wouldn't work, and played into the hands of the old Stalinist, anti-American clique inside the Kremlin.

Last week, Cyrus Eaton, the Cleveland industrialist, returning from Moscow, reported that Premier Kosygin had told him American policy in North Viet Nam had left Russia with no alternative but to fight and that Moscow would retaliate against American forces "with everything we have" unless the bombing of North Viet Nam comes to an end.

Next day, Secretary of State Dean Rusk issued what was described as a stern warning to Russia and China not to widen the war in Viet Nam. He revealed that a new Sam missile site had just been sighted in the north. Rusk, when working for John F. Kennedy, had held Russian Sam missile sites to be purely defensive when constructed in Cuba only ninety miles away. But he viewed them with alarm 9,000 miles away.

Previously, Russian diplomats had conveyed informal but quite definite warnings to the State Department that if Russian missile sites in North Viet Nam were bombed, Russia would have no alternative but to retaliate. They have not, of course, been bombed ninety miles off the Florida coast at any time since placed there four years ago.

—DANGEROUS DIPLOMACY—

So runs the dangerous game of diplomatic tic-tac-toe between two nations which have the power, with a single push of the nuclear button, to wipe out sixty of each other's major cities. Like small boys with chips on their shoulders, each dares the other, while each accumulates more chips and more grievances.

The United States has now sent or is sending a total of 65,000 troops to Viet Nam, three times the number President Johnson found there when he took over from the late John F. Kennedy.

The North Vietnamese government is now stripping its key government ministries from its capital, Hanoi, and moving them to areas where they cannot be easily bombed. This is the act of a government preparing for a long siege, not one ready to talk peace.

Reports from South Viet Nam indicate that the Viet Cong is ready to take advantage of the monsoon rains by coming out of the jungle for prolonged ground battles; also is preparing to set up embassies in every major country to claim that it, not the frequently changing government in Saigon, is the true representative of this troubled area.

In brief, the American policy of bombing North Viet Nam, sold to President Johnson by Gen. Maxwell Taylor and White House adviser McGeorge Bundy, has been a miserable failure.

—TAYLOR'S FLOP—

Taylor had left the Army during the Eisenhower Administration to write a book, "The Uncertain Trumpet," in which he advocated small brush-fire wars for settling international problems rather than relying on the Eisenhower policy of push-button war.

Taylor sold his ideas to John F. Kennedy, who brought him back into government as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. However, Kennedy never entirely bought Taylor's theory of brush-fire wars. He dabbled with the idea in South Viet Nam, but never gave Taylor free-rein. It remained for Lyndon Johnson, inheritor of an insoluble military and political mess, to appoint Gen. Taylor as ambassador to South Viet Nam and tell him to go all out to solve the mess he helped create.

Gen. Taylor soon deviated from his original idea of brush-fire war and extended the war to his disastrous policy of Navy-Air Force bombing of North Viet Nam. This has failed. And with the beginning of the monsoon rains, we are now right back where we started — fighting an unseen, jungle enemy which sleeps by day and raids by night — the kind of warfare which the Continental Army used against the British when conducting an unpopular war against thirteen relatively weak colonies in 1776.

Those thirteen colonies won — partly because they were fighting on their own soil; partly because they were fighting for something they passionately believed in; partly because British troops were fighting a long way from home for something they did not believe in.

American troops half-way around the world in Viet Nam are in the same position today. They are fighting a battle which continued eight years under the French, ten years under American "advisers," and will continue another eighteen years, or even more — for the simple reason that the Vietnamese are fighting on their own ground against foreigners and white men.

Significantly, the George Washington of both North and South Viet Nam is Ho Chi-Minh, now the leader of North Viet Nam. But as the Father of Independence he is revered in the South as much as in the North.

The fact that the "George Washington" of Indochina is viewed with love and admiration by the people of the South whose alleged independence we are trying to preserve is a political fact which no bombing of bridges or raids on supply trains or skirmishes in the steaming jungles can eradicate.

And if Cardinal Spellman had not sold President Eisenhower on protecting the migration of one million Catholics, from North to South Viet Nam immediately after the signing of the 1954 Geneva Treaty, these two unhappy peoples might well be happily united and completely independent of Red China today.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Union Chiefs Urging President To Decree End of Lie Detector Use By All U. S. Agencies -- including FBI and CIA.

Washington, D. C.: -- A new and bitter offensive which will crackle through the headlines soon will be launched by labor against the use of polygraphs -- lie detectors -- by any government agency or by industry, regardless of the reason.

With this drive will be coupled a campaign to wipe out the use of closed circuit television, intraplant communications, computer analyses, and other electronic wizardries used to check on personnel.

But the primary target is the lie detector. Labor leaders feel so strongly about it they object to its use even by the FBI and CIA in security and anti-crime activity.

This is a sharp shift in militancy on this front. Several months ago the AFL-CIO leaders attacked the lie detector only on the commercial and industrial front. But in recent weeks labor's high command has decided to push for the wiping out of polygraph use anywhere in the U. S.

The union chiefs could not have put it more strongly when they appointed two of their group to head the campaign -- the machinists chief, Al J. Hayes, whose union has vast jurisdiction over defense and such space projects as the two-man Gemini space shot; and James Suffridge, head of the Retail Clerks International Assn. The latter often is spoken of by insiders as the next AFL-CIO president.

"Police state surveillance of the lives of individual citizens," is labor's description of the lie detector.

There are 1,500 polygraph companies in the country doing a business of more than a billion dollars. The government does a fairly large polygraph business itself.

At the latest count, the U.S. agencies -- not including the secretive CIA -- give about 24,000 polygraph tests a year. The FBI, though its specialists are the most experienced, does not use the lie detector on its personnel. It restricts the polygraph to security and crime work. Central Intelligence, however, gives all its prospective employes a polygraph test.

In addition to the CIA, 24 U.S. bureaus and agencies own and use the lie detector equipment. The government owns some 600 polygraphs in addition to what the CIA has. There actually are almost 700 authorized polygraph operators working for the government full time.

The first to be antagonized by this was the AFL-CIO government workers' unions. When the figures were made known to the national AFL-CIO chiefs they were appalled and decided to appoint the two-man subcommittee to launch the national offensive.

During a recent meeting of national labor chiefs it was decided to ask President Johnson for an immediate decree ordering the discontinuance of all federal lie detector use.

If this move fails, the labor chiefs will go to Congress.

Paralleling this will be labor's drive in private industry. The lie detectors are most heavily used by the steel industry, copper refining, auto manufacturing, meat packing, food processing, oil, electronics, mail order retailing and supermarkets.

To hit the "private sector" of the lie detectors, the national labor leaders have directed their regional people to fight for state and city laws banning the polygraph. Its use already is banned in Alaska, Oregon, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and California.

In the last state the law says: "No employer shall demand or require any applicant for employment or prospective employment or any employe to submit to or take a polygraph, lie detector, or similar test or examination as a condition of employment or continued employment. The prohibition of this section does not apply to the federal government or any agency or local subdivision thereof. . ."

The labor men, of course, want the ban to be all-inclusive. If they can't get it through the legislatures, they will fight to get it into labor contracts. And they'll surely get into a battle.

The opposition is saying there is a sharp line between the detection of dishonesty and the invasion of privacy.

Morehouse WSCS Holds Annual Pledge Service

MOREHOUSE -- The Women's Society of Christian Service met Monday afternoon in the Sanctuary of the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist Church in Morehouse for their annual Pledge Service, under the leadership of Mrs. Jo Barnett, with fifteen members attending.

The program opened with Mrs. James Estep at the piano, playing soft music, "All Things Are Thine." Mrs. Barnett gave the meditation, "Come Let Us Prepare Ourselves To Behold The Portrait of Christ", followed by prayer, "For God's Presence In The Service." At the conclusion of prayer, a large portrait of Christ was unveiled. A solo, "More Love To Thee" was sung by Mrs. Charles Allbright. The scripture reading was from First Corinthians, 13th Chapter, followed by Mrs. Barnett giving the Introduction, "A Portrait of Christ" and a poem entitled, "God Pointed His Finger At Me."

The following ladies participated on the program: "My Goods To The Poor" by Mrs. A. W. Summers; "Love Is Kind" by Mrs. Veda Cook; "Love Suffereth Long" by Mrs. Norman Crumpecker; "I Give My Body To be Burned" by Mrs. Douglas Hammock; "Love Never Ends" by Mrs. Gladys Crumpecker; "Love Hopes All Things" by Mrs. Wendell Fox; "Love Abides" by Mrs. Virgil Owings. Soft music was played as the ladies brought their pledge cards and placed them on the Altar, all kneeling as Mrs. Barnett pronounced the Benediction.

Coalesce Club Installs New Officers May 10

Hostesses for the regular meeting of the Coalesce Club at Cyrus Inn Monday evening, May 10, were Mrs. Marcia Manning and Mrs. Diane Weston. The desert table was centered with a lovely arrangement of white chrysanthemums and red roses accented with slender white tapers.

Mrs. James Abernathy, member at-large, was in charge of the installation of officers for the coming year. After each new officer lighted a candle, she was presented a rose by the retiring officer as Mrs. Abernathy read her obligations to the club and the responsibilities of the office. New officers installed were president, Juanita Alcorn; vice president, Gloria Kiehne; recording secretary, Polly Hanks; corresponding secretary, Laura Sherman; and Parliamentarian, Ruth Miller.

Following the installation of new officers, Mrs. Marcia Manning, retiring president, presented Mrs. Abernathy with a gift of appreciation for the impressive service and thanked each member of the club for helping to make her year as president a success.

There are approximately 12 million members of the Parent-Teachers Association in the United States.

Morehouse WSCS Holds Annual Pledge Service

MOREHOUSE -- The Women's Society of Christian Service met Monday afternoon in the Sanctuary of the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist Church in Morehouse for their annual Pledge Service, under the leadership of Mrs. Jo Barnett, with fifteen members attending.

The program opened with Mrs. James Estep at the piano, playing soft music, "All Things Are Thine." Mrs. Barnett gave the meditation, "Come Let Us Prepare Ourselves To Behold The Portrait of Christ", followed by prayer, "For God's Presence In The Service." At the conclusion of prayer, a large portrait of Christ was unveiled. A solo, "More Love To Thee" was sung by Mrs. Charles Allbright. The scripture reading was from First Corinthians, 13th Chapter, followed by Mrs. Barnett giving the Introduction, "A Portrait of Christ" and a poem entitled, "God Pointed His Finger At Me."

The following ladies participated on the program: "My Goods To The Poor" by Mrs. A. W. Summers; "Love Is Kind" by Mrs. Veda Cook; "Love Suffereth Long" by Mrs. Norman Crumpecker; "I Give My Body To be Burned" by Mrs. Douglas Hammock; "Love Never Ends" by Mrs. Gladys Crumpecker; "Love Hopes All Things" by Mrs. Wendell Fox; "Love Abides" by Mrs. Virgil Owings. Soft music was played as the ladies brought their pledge cards and placed them on the Altar, all kneeling as Mrs. Barnett pronounced the Benediction.

Cards Stop 5 Game Losing Streak, Down Giants 2 to 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Cardinals pulled out of a five-game losing streak Tuesday with a 2-1 victory over the Giants at San Francisco.

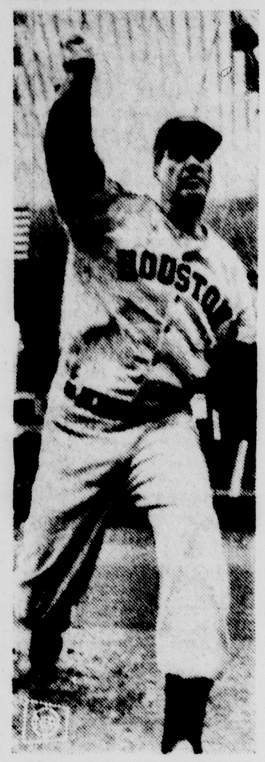

The Cardinals will entertain National League leader Los Angeles tonight at Busch Stadium in St. Louis. Don Drysdale 8-3 will start for the Dodgers against Redbird pitcher Ray Washburn 3-2. The series is the first in a 17-game homestand for St. Louis.

Ray Sadecki, who started a seven-game winning streak for St. Louis two weeks ago, was the man who stopped the nosedive. He pitched a five-hitter at the Giants and held on while Cardinal defense and singles won the game.

The Giants' only run came in the second when Willie McCovey blasted one over the centerfield fence to give the Giants a 1-0 lead.

Bill White, who had three singles, led off the fourth with a single and scampered all the way to third on an error. Ken Boyer grounded out as White scored to tie it. The Cardinals got the winning run in the sixth when Dick Groat singled Boyer home.

There were several fine fielding plays by the Redbird infield and leftfielder Lou Brock made a running catch of a drive from McCovey's bat in the ninth inning to ice the game.

Babe Ruth League Action At VFW

Sikeston Babe Ruth League held its opener at VFW Stadium. The two contests of the night turned out to be real fine baseball action. Typical of the fine action found in boys baseball. In the first contest, Home Materials nosed out a stubborn Reiss Dairy team 10 to 9. Home Materials out hit Reiss 12 to 6. The deciding inning for the Home Materials crew was the fifth, when they rolled across 5 big runs, while banging out five hits in that inning. Beal was the winning pitcher, while Counts got a mark on the loss side.

Brown carried the big stick for Reiss Dairy having two hits in the game. Stewart, Childress, Newman, McDonald and Underwood all had two hits a piece for the winners.

Anchor Toy 4, Harts 3 -- The second game of the night turned out to be a pitchers duel, with Garner on the hill for Harts and Farris doing the hardball chunking for winning Anchor Toy. Both boys pitched fine ball games. Garner allowed 6 hits in the contest, while Farris gave up only 7.

Garner was also his teams leading hitter banging out three hits in three appearances. Watkins, Harts second baseman, had two hits.

Bailey, Felker, Farris, Edwards, McDaniel and Sharp all had one hit each to lead Anchor Toy to its first seasonal win.

Sports TALK

By DON SAVAGE

"Talk" to the crawdads about fishing conditions!

If there's one creature that has the inside dope on fish, it's the lowly crawdad or crayfish. His life is a continuous struggle for survival against the voracious appetites of game fish. How successfully he wages this battle often determines how much luck the angler can expect.

Availability of food is the biggest single factor governing a fish's desire to gobble a bait. Abundant supplies mean slow fishing. Insufficient quantities generally indicate that the fish are hungry and will strike baits resembling the type of food they're accustomed to.

At certain seasons, crayfish burrow into the mud and are scarce. Fish scrounge around the bottom waiting for a straggler to stray from protection. When this occurs, frequently in the spring, a crawdad bait can prove deadly.

To discover what the crawdads are doing, check with local bait shops and producers in the area. If they are having trouble obtaining crayfish for customers, chances are good that the same condition exists in nearby lakes and streams. This is the time to dangle a crawdad over a mudbank.

Always examine closely the first fish caught to find what foods predominate in its diet. Even the most discriminating piscatorial gourmet can't resist a crawdad, and when not found in large numbers, that's your clue to give this bait a try.

"Keeping up with the crawdads" won't help your social standing, but it'll sure make a hit with the fish.

War Between AAU And NCAA Still Going Strong

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP -- The war between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union over control of ameteur athletics in the United States is going full blast again today. The big loser could be the track team the United States will send against the Russians at Kiev July 31.

The end to an uneasy truce between the organizations came Tuesday when Everett D. Barnes, president of the NCAA, warned its members to boycott the National AAU Championships at San Diego on June 26-27.

Barnes declared in a special memorandum from Hamilton, N. Y., where he is director of athletics at Colgate University, that participation of college-eligible athletes in the AAU Championships would place the student's institution in violation of the NCAA by-laws and subject to enforcement procedures.

Barnes emphasized that there would be a violation "whether or not the student represents his institution, a club or competes unattached."

This placed in jeopardy the prospect of a strong U. S. team being selected for the dual meet with the Soviet Union. The first two finishers in each event at the AAU Championships traditionally have been named as the U. S. team.

Barnes added, however, that the directive against participation in the AAU Championships "should not mean that NCAA athletes need be eliminated from the team competing against Russia. They should be permitted to quality through other established championships meets."

This was an apparent reference to the forthcoming NCAA Championships and meets conducted by the U. S. Track and Field Federation, affiliated with the NCAA.

Donald Hull, executive director of the AAU was not available for comment on Barnes' statement.

Cards Stop 5 Game Losing Streak, Down Giants 2 to 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Cardinals pulled out of a five-game losing streak Tuesday with a 2-1 victory over the Giants at San Francisco.

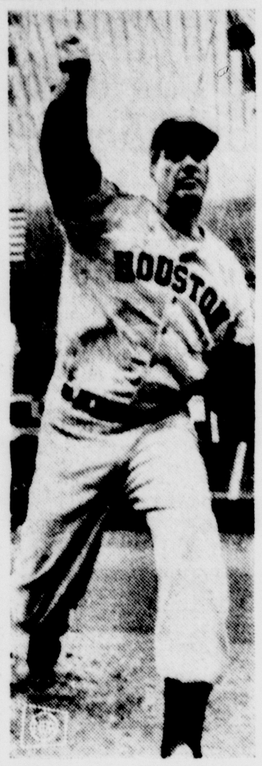

The Cardinals will entertain National League leader Los Angeles tonight at Busch Stadium in St. Louis. Don Drysdale 8-3 will start for the Dodgers against Redbird pitcher Ray Washburn 3-2. The series is the first in a 17-game homestand for St. Louis.

Ray Sadecki, who started a seven-game winning streak for St. Louis two weeks ago, was the man who stopped the nosedive. He pitched a five-hitter at the Giants and held on while Cardinal defense and singles won the game.

The Giants' only run came in the second when Willie McCovey blasted one over the centerfield fence to give the Giants a 1-0 lead.

Bill White, who had three singles, led off the fourth with a single and scampered all the way to third on an error. Ken Boyer grounded out as White scored to tie it. The Cardinals got the winning run in the sixth when Dick Groat singled Boyer home.

There were several fine fielding plays by the Redbird infield and leftfielder Lou Brock made a running catch of a drive from McCovey's bat in the ninth inning to ice the game.

DOME SWEET DOME—Dick Farrell tests the pitching mound at Harris County domed stadium, the new home of the Houston Astros.

With plastics making new gains in the construction field, sales of plastic pipe reached $63 million in 1964.

Babe Ruth League Action At VFW

Sikeston Babe Ruth League held its opener at VFW Stadium. The two contests of the night turned out to be real fine baseball action. Typical of the fine action found in boys baseball. In the first contest, Home Materials nosed out a stubborn Reiss Dairy team 10 to 9. Home Materials out hit Reiss 12 to 6. The deciding inning for the Home Materials crew was the fifth, when they rolled across 5 big runs, while banging out five hits in that inning. Beal was the winning pitcher, while Counts got a mark on the loss side.

Brown carried the big stick for Reiss Dairy having two hits in the game. Stewart, Childress, Newman, McDonald and Underwood all had two hits a piece for the winners.

Anchor Toy 4, Harts 3 -- The second game of the night turned out to be a pitchers duel, with Garner on the hill for Harts and Farris doing the hardball chunking for winning Anchor Toy. Both boys pitched fine ball games. Garner allowed 6 hits in the contest, while Farris gave up only 7.

Garner was also his teams leading hitter banging out three hits in three appearances. Watkins, Harts second baseman, had two hits.

Bailey, Felker, Farris, Edwards, McDaniel and Sharp all had one hit each to lead Anchor Toy to its first seasonal win.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Who was the only southern member of Congress who refused to secede with his state at the outbreak of the Civil War?

A—Sen. Andrew Johnson from Tennessee.

Q—What do the letters IHS represent?

A—IHS is an adaptation into Roman characters of the Greek letters spelling the name Jesus. They are most often found as a monogram on altar cloths and vestments.

Q—On what continent are marsupials to be found?

A—All marsupials, with the exception of the opossums of America and a few others, make their home only in Australia and nearby regions.

Sports TALK By DON SAVAGE

"Talk" to the crawdads about fishing conditions!

If there's one creature that has the inside dope on fish, it's the lowly crawdad or crayfish. His life is a continuous struggle for survival against the voracious appetites of game fish. How successfully he wages this battle often determines how much luck the angler can expect.

Availability of food is the biggest single factor governing a fish's desire to gobble a bait. Abundant supplies mean slow fishing. Insufficient quantities generally indicate that the fish are hungry and will strike baits resembling the type of food they're accustomed to.

At certain seasons, crayfish burrow into the mud and are scarce. Fish scrounge around the bottom waiting for a straggler to stray from protection. When this occurs, frequently in the spring, a crawdad bait can prove deadly.

To discover what the crawdads are doing, check with local bait shops and producers in the area. If they are having trouble obtaining crayfish for customers, chances are good that the same condition exists in nearby lakes and streams. This is the time to dangle a crawdad over a mudbank.

Always examine closely the first fish caught to find what foods predominate in its diet. Even the most discriminating piscatorial gourmet can't resist a crawdad, and when not found in large numbers, that's your clue to give this bait a try.

"Keeping up with the crawdads" won't help your social standing, but it'll sure make a hit with the fish.

War Between AAU And NCAA Still Going Strong

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP -- The war between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union over control of ameteur athletics in the United States is going full blast again today. The big loser could be the track team the United States will send against the Russians at Kiev July 31.

The end to an uneasy truce between the organizations came Tuesday when Everett D. Barnes, president of the NCAA, warned its members to boycott the National AAU Championships at San Diego on June 26-27.

Barnes declared in a special memorandum from Hamilton, N. Y., where he is director of athletics at Colgate University, that participation of college-eligible athletes in the AAU Championships would place the student's institution in violation of the NCAA by-laws and subject to enforcement procedures.

Barnes emphasized that there would be a violation "whether or not the student represents his institution, a club or competes unattached."

This placed in jeopardy the prospect of a strong U. S. team being selected for the dual meet with the Soviet Union. The first two finishers in each event at the AAU Championships traditionally have been named as the U. S. team.

Barnes added, however, that the directive against participation in the AAU Championships "should not mean that NCAA athletes need be eliminated from the team competing against Russia. They should be permitted to quality through other established championships meets."

This was an apparent reference to the forthcoming NCAA Championships and meets conducted by the U. S. Track and Field Federation, affiliated with the NCAA.

Donald Hull, executive director of the AAU was not available for comment on Barnes' statement.

Clark, Winner of 500 Collects $166,621.

INDIANAPOLIS AP -- Scot Jimmy Clark and Italian-born Mario Andretti shared the spotlight Tuesday night at a victory dinner which carved a record pie of $628,399 from the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Clark, the 29-year-old winner from Duns, Scotland, collected $166,621, also a record, for the Lotus - Ford team. The first prize cash actually goes to the owner of the winning car, Colin Chapman of London, who makes a distribution to the driver. This usually varies from 45 to 60 per cent.

Andretti, of Nazareth, Pa., was voted Rookie-of-the-Year for his third-place finish. Balloting by a committee of newsmen and Indianapolis Motor Speedway officials gave Andretti 23 of the 24 votes cast.

He received $500, a trophy from a meat packing firm and a year's supply of meat.

Clark also received the race's Plymouth pace car, a $1,000 wardrobe, six trophies, an engraved watch and assorted other special prizes.

The 1965 purse topped last year's by $118,224. The Speedway contributed $500,493, lap prizes another $30,000 and accessory prizes $97,906.

Last year the Speedway gave $397,150 for the prizes, and winner A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., picked up $153,650 for his car's owner.

Parnelli Jones, Torrance, Calif., runner-up in Monday's race and the 1963 champion, won $64,661, and Andretti received $42,051.

Little League Star A Girl ?

ROCK HILL, S. C. AP--Carol Tobias, her blonde hair cropped short, is ready to open the season this week as possibly the only girl ever to play Little League baseball in South Carolina.

"I just like to play baseball," the spunky 12-year-old said during a recent practice break. "If they don't want girls to play Little League with boys, they ought to have a girls' Little League team."

But the Rock Hill Little League baseball commissioner has given her permission to play this year for the York County Natural Gas Authority team.

Her coach, Jimmy Cox, said Carol is a real slugger at 84 pounds and an exceptional outfielder.

"Carol came to play and she'll be playing because she's good --not because she's a girl," he said.

Many Wiring Systems Now Out-Of-Date

Very often, homeowners continue using the same wiring system that they've been using for the past ten years, in spite of having added many new electrical appliances to their homes.

There's no doubt that electricity, through appliances and electrical utilization, has added much more comfort and convenience to our lives. But a home's wiring system must grow along with electrical use.

For one thing, the more appliances and uses for electricity, the more outlets will be needed, in the kitchen as well as in the living room, the bedroom, or, for that matter, on the patio or in the garden.

The versatility of appliances has created the need for convenient outlets and plenty of them. Such modern devices as "appliance center" for kitchens where four or five different appliances can be plugged in at the same time are among the more glamorous convenience outlets available.

To have plenty of outlets is fine. But remember, there must be enough circuits to supply all those outlets with sufficient current to operate several appliances at one time.

It all starts with the power supplied to your distribution center through the "Electrical Service Entrance."

Adequate Wiring or Full Housepower begins with the availability of at least 100 amperes of electrical current at either 120 or 240 volts.

This will mean that up to 24,000 watts of energy may be utilized at one time.

If you add up the watts on the washing machine, dryer, toaster, iron, vacuum cleaner, refrigerator, lamps, radio, television and all the other electrical uses, you will begin to understand why adequate home wiring is so important.

And when you count up those wattages, remember that the 24,000 overall wattage for your home must be distributed through all the circuits in the house. And each circuit must carry its own load. That depends, quite simply, on the size of the wire. For example, a "number 12" wire can carry 20 amperes of current whereas a "number 14" wire can carry only 15 ampres (the larger the wire, the smaller the number designation). Today, "number 12" wires are recommended throughout the house, enabling 20 ampere fuses to protect the circuits.

If you are concerned about the wiring in your house, call in an electrical contractor to check your entire system.

Woolworth Executive Cities Opportunities In Retailing Field For College Graduates

Opportunities in retailing for the more than 500,000 young men and women graduating from college this year "have never been brighter," in the view of Robert W. Young, vice president of the F. W. Woolworth Co.

"Retailing is becoming more competitive and expanding and needs qualified personnel to fill executive positions and is searching college campuses for talent as never before," Mr. Young said in an interview in New York.

"The changing character of retailing has been primarily responsible for this increased interest in recruiting well-trained personnel. Retailing is now more than ever before feeling the pressures of new and more aggressive competition as the traditional specialized areas of retailing blend and overlap, diversify and expand," he added.

EFFECT OF ELECTRONICS

The technology of electronics is changing many of the traditional practices of retailing, and the expanding economy and future population increases require long-range decisions as to market strategy and capital investments. These are only a few of the reasons for the stepped-up recruitment by retailing organizations, the Woolworth executive pointed out.

"The retailing field today offers alluring opportunities to college graduates not only in merchandising, but such areas as accounting, real estate, construction and other specialized fields," Mr. Young said.

"Our company, along with many others, needs at all times a substantial reservoir of educated men of good character to eventually move up to supervisory and executive positions. And career opportunities in our company are greater than ever before because of our company's accelerating growth not only in the variety store field but in more comprehensive areas of merchandising," he explained.

PROMOTION FROM WITHIN

"At the present time," he added, "there are about 2,400 young men in training with our company, and during the past year we sent executive teams to 276 colleges and universities to outline career opportunities."

Woolworth maintains a policy of promotion from within, and every elected officer, every executive in Woolworth's history, whether at home or abroad, is a veteran of the nation's largest variety chain.

"It has been Woolworth's experience that a fundamental basic on-the-job training course plus a policy of promoting from within and the opportunity of sharing in the net profits is an effective means of creating that feeling of belonging, that feeling of being part of a successful team," Mr. Young said.

He also stated that young men who enter the company's training program and complete it can look forward to responsibility, financial compensation, pensions and benefits equal to or better than men at a similar level in industry.

To help create the needed reservoir of new talent which all business organizations need, Woolworth has and will continue to participate in the National Merit Scholarship Program.

197th Pledges All To Vietnam Struggle

". . . we are honored by the distinction of being chosen to receive The Presidential Unit Citation and I know I speak for the entire unit when I say that we will wear it with pride.

"We will strive to conduct ourselves as a 'distinguished unit' and continue to pledge our utmost support in the grave struggle against communism in the Republic of Vietnam."

These were the words of Maj. Joseph N. Jaggers of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., Commanding Officer of the 197th Aviation Company (Armed Helicopter), when he was notified of the Presidential award.

Being singled out for unit honors is not a new experience for the men of the 197th. In 1963, the unit, then designated the Utility Tactical Transport (UTT) Company, received the Hughes Aviation Unit of the Year award. The unit was cited in part for ". . . being the first company of its kind in pioneering the techniques of providing armed helicopter escort for troop transport helicopters in Vietnam."

In individual awards and decorations, the men of the 197th are among the most decorated. Numbered among these awards are the Legion of Merit, Silver Star, Bronze Star Medal, Distinguished Flying Cross, Purple Heart, and also Vietnamese awards and decorations.

Since its arrival in Vietnam in October 1962, the unit has chalked up an average of 1,230 hours flying time and more than 1,100 sorties per month.

The Presidential Unit Citation was also awarded to the 1st Air Commando Squadron, 34th Tactical Group, 2d Air Division, United States Air Force; and three units of the Vietnamese Armed Forces.

All of the Citations were recommended by Army General W. C. Westmoreland, Commanding General, U. S. Military Assistance Command, Vietnam, and were approved by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The Internal Revenue Service processes about 400 million reports a year and the Social Security Administration handles 300 million, a government committee studying paperwork has reported.

The aluminum foil market has grown from 274.2 million pounds in 1960 to some 537 million pounds last year.

Woolworth Executive Cities Opportunities In Retailing Field For College Graduates

Opportunities in retailing for the more than 500,000 young men and women graduating from college this year "have never been brighter," in the view of Robert W. Young, vice president of the F. W. Woolworth Co.

"Retailing is becoming more competitive and expanding and needs qualified personnel to fill executive positions and is searching college campuses for talent as never before," Mr. Young said in an interview in New York.

"The changing character of retailing has been primarily responsible for this increased interest in recruiting well-trained personnel. The technology of electronics is changing many of the traditional practices of retailing, and the expanding economy and future population increases require long-range decisions as to market strategy and capital investments. These are only a few of the reasons for the stepped-up recruitment by retailing organizations, the Woolworth executive pointed out.

"The retailing field today offers alluring opportunities to college graduates not only in merchandising, but such areas as accounting, real estate, construction and other specialized fields," Mr. Young said.

"Our company, along with many others, needs at all times a substantial reservoir of educated men of good character to eventually move up to supervisory and executive positions. And career opportunities in our company are greater than ever before because of our company's accelerating growth not only in the variety store field but in more comprehensive areas of merchandising," he explained.

PROMOTION FROM WITHIN

"At the present time," he added, "there are about 2,400 young men in training with our company, and during the past year we sent executive teams to 276 colleges and universities to outline career opportunities."

Woolworth maintains a policy of promotion from within, and every elected officer, every executive in Woolworth's history, whether at home or abroad, is a veteran of the nation's largest variety chain.

"It has been Woolworth's experience that a fundamental basic on-the-job training course plus a policy of promoting from within and the opportunity of sharing in the net profits is an effective means of creating that feeling of belonging, that feeling of being part of a successful team," Mr. Young said.

He also stated that young men who enter the company's training program and complete it can look forward to responsibility, financial compensation, pensions and benefits equal to or better than men at a similar level in industry.

To help create the needed reservoir of new talent which all business organizations need, Woolworth has and will continue to participate in the National Merit Scholarship Program.

Clouds Lift From Stormy Remap Issue

By LARRY HALL

JEFFERSON CITY AP--Legislative storm clouds seem to be lifting on the tricky issue of redistricting the Missouri House of Representatives.

House Democrats caucused Tuesday to work out their strategy.

Since Democrats control the House 123 - 40, the caucus agreement should have little trouble on the floor.

In the past few days, sponsors of the current 168-member redistricting map have raised their sights a bit. They first counted 90 votes for the plan. Now they expect to hit a majority of 100 or more when it comes to a final vote.

Some of the representatives are far from satisfied with the prospects of being reapportioned out of a $4,800-a-year job. But even worse they fear the possibility of having to run at large and compete with the massive votes that would be rolled up in urban areas.

Under the current plan, the new 168-member House--an increase of five--would have almost half the membership from the Kansas City and St. Louis areas in conformance with the U. S. Supreme Court's one man-one vote decree.

Graham indicated the Democratic strategy would be to let the dissident members talk themselves out--probably next Wednesday and Thursday. But all proposed amendments would be voted down on the floor.

Then the House majority would, with as much good grace as possible, pass the proposal and send it to the Senate. Leaders in the Senate have indicated they would be inclined to go along with any fair plan that is acceptable to the House.

Meanwhile the Senate has passed and sent back to the House a proposal to put future house redistricting in the hands of a special bipartisan commission--the same system that is being used now to revamp the Senate.

This is expected to be rejected automatically by the House and be thrown into a House-Senate conference committee to work out a compromise between the commission idea and the House approved constitutional change to leave House realignment to the House itself.

Originally the House proposal called for four-year terms for representatives, the same as senators.

Graham indicated the House probably would retreat from that position but would stick to the idea of letting the House do its own reapportioning.

Whatever compromise the conferees come up with will have to be passed on by the voters at a special election later this summer.

As of now, prospects have brightened considerably for the House to wash its own redistricting linen in the first week of June, the final month of the session.

Mansfield Praises U.S. Press

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield praised the nation's press and said it must continue to reflect the truth as it sees it, "not as it is reflected in the retina of 'official position.' "

When these two views differ, Mansfield said, "there must be no forced convergence in the name of a national unity."

That kind of unity, he added, "is not a source of strength. Rather, it is a source of a dangerous and delusive weakness."

In a commencement speech prepared for delivery at Clarke College, Mansfield said it is the basic task of the press to ask incisive questions "which in a democracy need to be asked by the people and answered by their government."

The Montana Democrat said this was the case in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, where "the press provides the impetus and stimulus for a searching and continuing public debate which is likely to go on and should go on until there is a satisfactory resolution of critical national questions."

Mansfield injected his remarks about the press into a speech largely devoted to the role of women in today's society as he addressed the graduates of the liberal arts college for women. Mrs. Mansfield, who attended Clarke College for three years and was graduated from St. Mary's of Notre Dame, received an honory doctor of laws degree at the ceremonies.

Ringing Up "29"

This year rings up the 29th anniversary of June is Dairy Month — celebrated annually when milk production increases significantly.

Aimed especially at the teenage and young adult market, this year's June Dairy Month promotion will seek to improve the image of milk and point out its value to weight - watchers and dieters.

One particular aim is to remind homemakers of the nutritional, as well as economical, values of milk and its many products. Appetizing ways of serving dairy foods — not only through the month of June but throughout the entire year — will be suggested.

In cooperation the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service is currently featuring milk and dairy products — in the period of heaviest production — on its list of plentiful foods.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman will offer a special tribute to dairying in recognition of the dairy industry's great and ever-expanding contribution to the Nation's health.

Spearheading the 1965 promotion is the American Dairy Association, assisted by a large number of other dairy organizations. Under their leadership, special dairy days with parades, festivals and proclamations by various officials are expected to be held across the country throughout the month.

Solution To Bathroom Shortage

How's this for logic? If your home doesn't have enough bathroom facilities, have them installed.

Sounds ridiculously simple, but it's amazing how many people, unsatisfied with a single bathroom, don't think of the obvious solution. Or if they do think of it, then only in terms of "impossible" or "too expensive" for my house.

According to the Plumbing-Heating - Cooling Information Bureau, bathrooms in older homes are often large enough that a simple division of the area will provide room for two complete baths or perhaps a full bath and a powder room. A two-story home with a single bathroom is a natural for installing a second bath on the floor now lacking one, reports the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Space for added facilities is generally available for the looking--at the end of a dead-end or little - used hallway--in a large walk-in closet--in the end of a large room--even in basements and attics. Areas not quite large enough for a tub should be considered for possible shower installations.

In addition to securing more space, there are also many ways to better utilize present facilities by "compartmentizing," that is, providing privacy for each fixture within a bathroom. With this arrangement, bathroom fixtures can be used simultaneously by two or three persons in complete privacy.

A handy booklet entitled "Modern Bathroom Plans" may be obtained by sending 15¢ to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 East Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60601.

Lightest Mexico

By John Abney

Mexico City--If everyone will quietly lay aside the comics we can hold an enlightened discussion of the Six Day Shower Cure. This being one of the medical rages, according to a story published here.

The author says ancient Chinese tortured prisoners by letting water drip on them day and night (but fails to say for how long). And he adds that modern science transposed the idea into a sort of Marathon Bath to relieve pain and hasten healing in persons burned by such chemicals as lye, bleach or possibly too many martinis.

The current idea is to place people under a steady shower either in a stall or bathtub for as long as six days at a time. They even sleep there.

Frankly, I would be sceptical about someone pushing me in a shower stall and turning on the hydrants for six days. Unless they left the door open or had a huge drain.

There is this little village on the Pacific Coast of Mexico where they have coconut palms and jungle all around. Gorgeous place and I must go back there and write a column about it some day if I can remember the name.

A little restaurant on the beach has hammocks strung between poles that hold up the roof and you swing yourself with a bare foot tucked in the sand floor. Fine seafood served you in the hammocks at any hour of the day.

And out in back is this jungle-type shower, apparently built for curative purposes. Somebody put up a sapling platform in the quiet palm grove and set a 50-gallon drum on the platform.

When you need some therapy the gentlemen fill the drum with a rope and bucket rig. Then you get beneath the pipe and turn on the water with a butterfly valve and stand there for six days.

The water probably will not run for six days, unless somebody keeps working the rope and bucket, but if it did you would be safe. The stall is made of palm leaves tied to a sapling frame. Guaranteed drown-proof.

I recall some curing beneath this shower once. Had a terrible case of Rum Burn and the horizon looked like it was slanted. The restaurant owner's two sons put me in the therapy stall and turned on the water.

After a while the cure was effected and I had to lie in a hammock for a couple of hours eating redsnapper fillets and clams.

It was truly a triumph for science. However, things do not always work out so well.

There was this story about the fellow who cruised into the village one day and said he wanted a long shower to cool off from traveling. The bucket brigade got to work and the gentleman stepped in the shower.

After two or three hours the restaurant owner went to see what was wrong because the food his client had ordered was almost petrified. He came back shouting that the man had stayed in the water so long he had shrunk to practically nothing, then fainted.

Of course it turned out to be nothing but a midget plumber somebody had called to fix the butterfly valve because it was stuck. But I believe there is a message here for experimenting scientists.

For your own peace of mind, gentlemen, measure your patients before pushing them in a Six Day Shower. It isn't worth the agony, what with midgets and children hanging around your offices.

A Lakeful To Lap Up

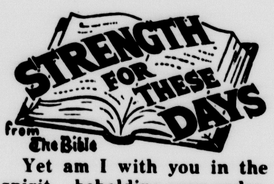

Picture a creamy white colored lake about 10 miles long, 5 miles wide and deep enough to cover a one-story house. This is what the milk produced last year in the U. S. would look like "all in one lump," says the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

This "lake of milk" produced last year was a record high 126.6 billion pounds--equal to about 60 billion quarts. So far this year even more of this "plentiful" is being produced, making all the more dairy products available for American consumers to "lap up."

Average milk and cream consumed per person in the U. S. last year was just over 140 quarts. But Midwesterners used more. Midwesterners, a U. S. Department of Agriculture report says, are among the biggest milk drinkers.

Consumption per person in the Midwest ranged from about 103 quarts in Wichita, Kans., to 160 quarts in the Dayton - Springfield, Ohio, area. Consumption in the south and west was lower than this; while as a whole, the northeast uses more.

Almost half the milk consumed by Americans is used in fluid form. The other half is turned into butter, cheese, frozen dairy products and other processed dairy foods.

Yet am I with you in the spirit...beholding your order. —(Col. 2:5)

God blesses us with order, and we have plenty of time. We live in eternity. It is the right use of this particular moment in which we are living that is important. If we fill this moment with constructive, positive thought, word or action, we need not be concerned with the next day, month or year. Let's live in the now.

Pro and Con of 'Obsession' Over Communism Question

BY BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Underlying the ferment here over U.S. foreign policy is a fairly old question—whether the government and the nation are obsessed with the threat of communism.

It is being argued anew in some quarters that we not only see Communists under every bush, but that we ascribe to them strengths and capacities which they often do not have.

It is also asserted that our heavy focus on communism sometimes obscures the role played by nationalistic-imperialistic impulses in such a country as Red China.

We are told again that other free nations do not fret about the Communist menace the way we do. And some students of foreign affairs suggest it is perfectly sensible for Communist nations, like others, to build broad protective zones around themselves.

The arguments deserve a fresh review.

INQUIRIES AMONG POLICYMAKERS in this capital do not in fact turn up people who think the Russians, the Chinese or any other Communists are really 10 feet tall. Nor do they believe Reds lurk behind every shrub.

What they do think is that the Communists, whether directed from Moscow, Peking, Havana or Hanoi, have developed techniques of covert aggression which are peculiarly fitted to what James Montgomery of the State Department calls the "vulnerabilities" visible today in so many insecure nations around the world.

With these golden opportunities lying all about, the Communists can--in this frightening nuclear age—undertake a variety of small-risk games, from guerrilla warfare to stone-the-embassy.

The link between these subversive enterprises and the nationalistic-imperialistic ambitions of Moscow and Peking is a question stirring much debate among U. S. foreign affairs specialists.

THIS IS NOT THE PLACE TO AIR the fine-spun arguments. The point is that some feel the United States might have better luck keeping nations out of the Moscow-Peking orbits by talking more about the menace of Russia and China and less about communism as such.

The other side thinks this is all academic, that vulnerable countries have grown sophisticated enough to see communism in all its aspects—a powerful weapon serving imperialist causes, a worldwide false front behind which ambitious imperialists try to widen their circle of supporters and diminish their enemies—at the minimum, a form and practice of government which, if victorious, "closes out the options" on all other kinds for long years to come.

There are some debaters who don't want us to worry at all, whether the problem be labeled "communism" or "Russia" or "China."

They contend that regional domination by large powers, whether through the compulsions of influence or through actual physical expansion as with China's moves into India and Tibet, is something we cannot prevent and ought to approve.

Frankly, I would be sceptical about someone pushing me in a shower stall and turning on the hydrants for six days. Unless they left the door open or had a huge drain.

There is this little village on the Pacific Coast of Mexico where they have coconut palms and jungle all around. Gorgeous place and I must go back there and write a column about it some day if I can remember the name.

A little restaurant on the beach has hammocks strung between poles that hold up the roof and you swing yourself with a bare foot tucked in the sand floor. Fine seafood served you in the hammocks at any hour of the day.

And out in back is this jungle-type shower, apparently built for curative purposes. Somebody put up a sapling platform in the quiet palm grove and set a 50-gallon drum on the platform.

When you need some therapy the gentlemen fill the drum with a rope and bucket rig. Then you get beneath the pipe and turn on the water with a butterfly valve and stand there for six days.

The water probably will not run for six days, unless somebody keeps working the rope and bucket, but if it did you would be safe. The stall is made of palm leaves tied to a sapling frame. Guaranteed drown-proof.

I recall some curing beneath this shower once. Had a terrible case of Rum Burn and the horizon looked like it was slanted. The restaurant owner's two sons put me in the therapy stall and turned on the water.

After a while the cure was effected and I had to lie in a hammock for a couple of hours eating redsnapper fillets and clams.

It was truly a triumph for science. However, things do not always work out so well.

There was this story about the fellow who cruised into the village one day and said he wanted a long shower to cool off from traveling. The bucket brigade got to work and the gentleman stepped in the shower.

After two or three hours the restaurant owner went to see what was wrong because the food his client had ordered was almost petrified. He came back shouting that the man had stayed in the water so long he had shrunk to practically nothing, then fainted.

Of course it turned out to be nothing but a midget plumber somebody had called to fix the butterfly valve because it was stuck. But I believe there is a message here for experimenting scientists.

For your own peace of mind, gentlemen, measure your patients before pushing them in a Six Day Shower. It isn't worth the agony, what with midgets and children hanging around your offices.

A Lakeful To Lap Up

Picture a creamy white colored lake about 10 miles long, 5 miles wide and deep enough to cover a one-story house. This is what the milk produced last year in the U. S. would look like "all in one lump," says the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

This "lake of milk" produced last year was a record high 126.6 billion pounds--equal to about 60 billion quarts. So far this year even more of this "plentiful" is being produced, making all the more dairy products available for American consumers to "lap up."

Average milk and cream consumed per person in the U. S. last year was just over 140 quarts. But Midwesterners used more. Midwesterners, a U. S. Department of Agriculture report says, are among the biggest milk drinkers.

Consumption per person in the Midwest ranged from about 103 quarts in Wichita, Kans., to 160 quarts in the Dayton - Springfield, Ohio, area. Consumption in the south and west was lower than this; while as a whole, the northeast uses more.

Almost half the milk consumed by Americans is used in fluid form. The other half is turned into butter, cheese, frozen dairy products and other processed dairy foods.

Pro and Con of 'Obsession' Over Communism Question

BY BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Underlying the ferment here over U.S. foreign policy is a fairly old question—whether the government and the nation are obsessed with the threat of communism.

It is being argued anew in some quarters that we not only see Communists under every bush, but that we ascribe to them strengths and capacities which they often do not have.

It is also asserted that our heavy focus on communism sometimes obscures the role played by nationalistic-imperialistic impulses in such a country as Red China.

We are told again that other free nations do not fret about the Communist menace the way we do. And some students of foreign affairs suggest it is perfectly sensible for Communist nations, like others, to build broad protective zones around themselves.

The arguments deserve a fresh review.

INQUIRIES AMONG POLICYMAKERS in this capital do not in fact turn up people who think the Russians, the Chinese or any other Communists are really 10 feet tall. Nor do they believe Reds lurk behind every shrub.

What they do think is that the Communists, whether directed from Moscow, Peking, Havana or Hanoi, have developed techniques of covert aggression which are peculiarly fitted to what James Montgomery of the State Department calls the "vulnerabilities" visible today in so many insecure nations around the world.

With these golden opportunities lying all about, the Communists can--in this frightening nuclear age—undertake a variety of small-risk games, from guerrilla warfare to stone-the-embassy.

The link between these subversive enterprises and the nationalistic-imperialistic ambitions of Moscow and Peking is a question stirring much debate among U. S. foreign affairs specialists.

THIS IS NOT THE PLACE TO AIR the fine-spun arguments. The point is that some feel the United States might have better luck keeping nations out of the Moscow-Peking orbits by talking more about the menace of Russia and China and less about communism as such.

The other side thinks this is all academic, that vulnerable countries have grown sophisticated enough to see communism in all its aspects—a powerful weapon serving imperialist causes, a worldwide false front behind which ambitious imperialists try to widen their circle of supporters and diminish their enemies—at the minimum, a form and practice of government which, if victorious, "closes out the options" on all other kinds for long years to come.

There are some debaters who don't want us to worry at all, whether the problem be labeled "communism" or "Russia" or "China."

They contend that regional domination by large powers, whether through the compulsions of influence or through actual physical expansion as with China's moves into India and Tibet, is something we cannot prevent and ought to approve.

West Must Approve Any Cotton Bill

WASHINGTON AP -- Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N. C., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, told cotton producers of western states there wouldn't be a Chinaman's chance of passing a cotton bill opposed by them.

He spoke to C. B. Ray, El Paso, Tex., chairman of the Cotton Producers Legislative Committee, an affiliation of cotton producers organizations of Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Oklahoma, New Mexico and California, at a hearing on a cotton bill introduced by Cooley.

He also told Ray he agreed with his statement the Agricultural Act of 1964, which would be extended by the bill, has been operating for only 10 months and this is too short a time to judge its merits.

The Cooley bill would extend for two years a program enacted by Congress last year eliminating from 1964 and 1965 the two-price cotton system. The program provides a domestic subsidy to enable textile manufacturers to buy U. S. Cotton at world prices.

Ray maintained the bill would point toward the liquidation of the cotton industry.

Ray asked the committee to allow the producers he represented 10 days to come up with definite recommendations to expand domestic consumption and step up foreign sales.

Stewart Sanders, Pine Bluff, Ark., said the Arkansas-Missouri Cotton Trade Association, which he represented, would cooperate to obtain legislation that would return the cotton industry to private interest while allowing the farmer to make the adjustments necessary to a supply and demand economy.

Q—How did California's Death Valley get its name?

A—After an emigrant party, looking for a short cut to California in 1849, suffered from heat and thirst while crossing it, they looked back from the Panamint Mountains and one said: "Goodby, Valley of Death."

Farm Labor Bulletin

STATE SUMMARY:

Strawberry harvest is nearing completion in Southeast Missouri but cotton chopping is increasing and should provide work for all available labor through the first two weeks in June.

Hot, dry weather has retarded farm work over the rest of the State, and as a result the demand for year-round hands dropped slightly. There were 124 unfilled openings reported for year-round hands and the only seasonal demand reflected in reports was for horticultural workers in Kansas City.

Workers totaling 261 strawberry pickers were referred to Southern Illinois and Kentucky by the St. Louis and Sikeston Offices.

SOUTHEAST

Sikeston: 202 South Kingshighway--Telephone: Granite 1-2731 Cotton chopping being regulated by spotty rains. Most chopping starting at 60¢ per hour. With the exception of a few growers, most growers will depend on day-haul and on-the-farm labor for chopping. Housing is limited for choppers, and only a small number of out-of-area workers will be used.

Farm Labor Information Station & Rest Camp, Route #2, Sikeston--502 migrants used the facilities of the Farm Labor Camp during the week ending May 23. 47 were from Arkansas and 455 from Texas. Their destinations were: 53 to Illinois, 18 to Indiana, 362 to Michigan, 62 to Ohio and 7 to Wisconsin. Thus far 2,891 persons have stopped at the camp this year compared to 3,112 this time last year.

Cape Girardeau: 238 Broadway -- Telephone: Edgewater 5-6666 -- Strawberry harvest continues with adequate local labor available. Wage rate 7¢ per quart for picking. Demand for hay hands continues to exceed supply of workers available. Wages $1.00 per hour or 2¢ per bale per worker. Cotton chopping started with wages offered 50¢ per hour. Very little labor available at this time. A surplus of labor, consisting of inexperienced school age youth ranging from age 16 to 20 years, is expected to develop about 1 to 4.

Poplar Bluff: 211 Pine Street --Telephone: Sunset 5-9606-- Crops are all in good condition in this area. Some scattered chopping is being done in this area with wages being $6.00 a day. Strawberry harvest is finished and some crews are wanting to leave for Illinois and Michigan.

Kennett: 405 St. Francis Street --Telephone: Tuxedo 8-3184-- Strawberry harvest is nearing completion and will be finished by early next week. Total placement in strawberry harvest this week, 1648. Cotton chopping is in full swing this week; prevailing wage rate $6.00 per day. The Caruthersville office supplied five crews and one crew came from Blytheville, Arkansas, for strawberries. Several growers are using chemicals for grass and weed control in cotton. No workers available for other areas.

Caruthersville: 112 West Fifth Street--Telephone: Edison 3-2416 -- Cotton chopping has started in this area with wages at 60¢ per hour. Demand for choppers is increasing daily. There is no demand for out of area labor for this activity.

WASHINGTON (ANF) —The Army Materiel Command keeps a mighty big supply room.

It has supplies equal to a 10-lane highway from Boston to Los Angeles and a double track railroad from Washington, D.C., to St. Louis.

It has materiel equal to a surfaced area more than half the size of Washington, enough acreage to completely cover Connecticut — plus one-third of Rhode Island, and it has enough building space to enclose 42 Pentagons.

Farm Labor Bulletin

STATE SUMMARY:

Strawberry harvest is nearing completion in Southeast Missouri but cotton chopping is increasing and should provide work for all available labor through the first two weeks in June.

Hot, dry weather has retarded farm work over the rest of the State, and as a result the demand for year-round hands dropped slightly. There were 124 unfilled openings reported for year-round hands and the only seasonal demand reflected in reports was for horticultural workers in Kansas City.

Workers totaling 261 strawberry pickers were referred to Southern Illinois and Kentucky by the St. Louis and Sikeston Offices.

SOUTHEAST

Sikeston: 202 South Kingshighway--Telephone: Granite 1-2731 Cotton chopping being regulated by spotty rains. Most chopping starting at 60¢ per hour. With the exception of a few growers, most growers will depend on day-haul and on-the-farm labor for chopping. Housing is limited for choppers, and only a small number of out-of-area workers will be used.

Farm Labor Information Station & Rest Camp, Route #2, Sikeston--502 migrants used the facilities of the Farm Labor Camp during the week ending May 23. 47 were from Arkansas and 455 from Texas. Their destinations were: 53 to Illinois, 18 to Indiana, 362 to Michigan, 62 to Ohio and 7 to Wisconsin. Thus far 2,891 persons have stopped at the camp this year compared to 3,112 this time last year.

Cape Girardeau: 238 Broadway -- Telephone: Edgewater 5-6666 -- Strawberry harvest continues with adequate local labor available. Wage rate 7¢ per quart for picking. Demand for hay hands continues to exceed supply of workers available. Wages $1.00 per hour or 2¢ per bale per worker. Cotton chopping started with wages offered 50¢ per hour. Very little labor available at this time. A surplus of labor, consisting of inexperienced school age youth ranging from age 16 to 20 years, is expected to develop about 1 to 4.

Poplar Bluff: 211 Pine Street --Telephone: Sunset 5-9606-- Crops are all in good condition in this area. Some scattered chopping is being done in this area with wages being $6.00 a day. Strawberry harvest is finished and some crews are wanting to leave for Illinois and Michigan.

Kennett: 405 St. Francis Street --Telephone: Tuxedo 8-3184-- Strawberry harvest is nearing completion and will be finished by early next week. Total placement in strawberry harvest this week, 1648. Cotton chopping is in full swing this week; prevailing wage rate $6.00 per day. The Caruthersville office supplied five crews and one crew came from Blytheville, Arkansas, for strawberries. Several growers are using chemicals for grass and weed control in cotton. No workers available for other areas.

Caruthersville: 112 West Fifth Street--Telephone: Edison 3-2416 -- Cotton chopping has started in this area with wages at 60¢ per hour. Demand for choppers is increasing daily. There is no demand for out of area labor for this activity.

WASHINGTON (ANF) —The Army Materiel Command keeps a mighty big supply room.

It has supplies equal to a 10-lane highway from Boston to Los Angeles and a double track railroad from Washington, D.C., to St. Louis.

It has materiel equal to a surfaced area more than half the size of Washington, enough acreage to completely cover Connecticut — plus one-third of Rhode Island, and it has enough building space to enclose 42 Pentagons.

Missouri Press Report From Edward Long

The Senate last week passed the Administration's Voting Rights Act of 1965 after five weeks of discussion on the measure.

Final passage came with a big majority of 77 Senators voting in favor of the bill. A cloture motion was passed to bring the measure up for final action. The move to limit debate was only the seventh time that the Senate had invoked cloture to bring legislation to a vote.

The Administration proposal to guarantee all Americans the right to participate in our democracy is now due to receive further consideration in the House of Representatives.

A new program to combat poverty in America is aimed at channeling needed assistance to disadvantaged pre-school age children.

Project Head Start was inaugurated three months ago by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, Honorary Chiarman of the program. Its objective is to provide assistance to children of low-income American families before poverty has given them as early handicap of disadvantage and under-privilege.

The project is now planned to ehlp 600,000 per-school children in more than 2,000 communities across the United States. The hub of the new child-assistance effort is the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington. However, local volunteers are expected to be a vital part in most Head Start programs which will rely heavily on local community effort.

The Agriculture Department reports it is initiating a new program to improve and simplify Department services and operations.

"Project Simpler" is being launched on a nationwide scale by the Argicultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. It was developed in response to President Johnson's desire for more efficiency and economy in government.

Secretary Freeman advises me that the effort will result in better and simpler service to the farmers the Department serves. Targets for the USDA streamlining campaign are designed as government program provisions, instruction and procedures, forms, communications, and work methods.

Improved efficiency for ASCS employees will not be anything new, however. Measured work per employee in this agency has increased more than 25 percent in the past four years. "Project Simpler" will seek to continue this progress.

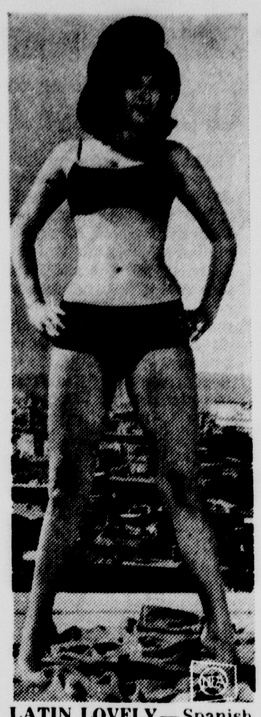

Two Talks On Child Care Needs

BENTON -- Tuesday and Wednesday Arthur McArthur, human development and family relations specialist for the University of Missouri at Columbia will present a special talk on "Parents Are People, Too." He spoke Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the 4-H building in Charleston and will speak Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. at the Airport cafe in Dexter. The public is invited.

McArthur will speak on the needs of parents and how important the three "R's" of reassurance, recognition, and relief are to the parent.

Q—What is the meaning of the word "caliche" used by President Johnson in his inaugural address?

A—Caliche is an odd kind of earth that is slick as soap when wet, hard as rock when dry, and crumbly while it is damp. It was widely used in the '20s and '30s for road surfacing—excellent in dry weather and slippery during infrequent rains.

LATIN LOVELY—Spanish actress Aurora de Alba finds a Roman roof the perfect place to soak up some sunshine while studying her lines for a role in a new film.

Johnson Guidelines Given Test

NEW YORK — If the honeymoon of the Johnson adminstration and business fades it might well be due to government's new tool for influencing economic behavior — guidelines.

They are being applied to prices, wages, investments and banking practices. They are undergoing their first big test right now.

Guidelines join the traditional government tools of taxes, subsidies, and supervising agencies. All are used to shape the economy more or less.

Opposition to the new tool of guidelines is rising in some business and banking quarters as well as in some labor unions.

One example is in steel. Labor objects to government's saying it should ask so much and no more to avoid inflation. Management resents government saying how much it could raise wages without increasing prices. And any government censure of steel price increases brings angry replies from some steel executives.

Government guidelines as an influence on economic decisions differ from other tools in several ways. By definition they rest on voluntary compliance.

They are implemented to a large degree by exerting pressure of public opinion. And they usually carry at least an implied threat that if business doesn't follow the guidelines, government may step in and impose controls.

The moral that government hopes management and labor will grasp is that voluntary compliance to guidelines of what Washington thinks is best for the economy is preferable to controls or direct penalties.

Business takes all of the government's economic tools into account when making its decisions.

Guidelines are now in the testing stage. Those aimed at wages and prices seek price stability from two approaches: 1. Labor costs should rise only as much as output per man-hour rises; 2. Prices should rise only in industries where output per man-hour lags behind the national average and should fall in industries with greater than average productivity gains.

Compliance runs up against the natural desire of workers for higher pay and of management for tailoring prices to demand and competition as well as to production costs.

In the field of investments and banking, the government guideposts have as goals: 1. Keeping long-term interest rates low enough to inspire economic growth; 2. Keeping U.S. dollars at home, both by keeping short-term interest rates high and by getting corporations voluntarily to cut back on overseas investments and inducing banks to trim foreign loans.

Here compliance has worked so far. But corporations grumble that over the long run their overseas investments would return more dollars in profits than they now cost in construction. And banks argue that much of their overseas lending is to finance American exports which strengthen the U.S. dollar more than any lending can hurt it.

TODAY'S KITCHEN TOPS IN CONVENIENCE AND BEAUTY

In addition to being a real "mom-saver," a modern, functional kitchen provides a smart setting for appliances and fixtures. A well-planned kitchen can be as decorative as any room in the house. The focal point of kitchen convenience and beauty is the sink. For the ultimate in decorous utility, plans should include a double or triple-bowl sink, complete with food waste disposer and single control faucet.

Accredited colleges and universities east of the Mississippi River number twice as many as those to the west.

Ask Traffic Death Case Be Dropped

MEMPHIS -- Asked by Atty. Gen. Phil Canale to request the extradition of Joel Montgomery, 47, land developer and civic leader of Sikeston, Mo., and a former Memphian, to Memphis to face trial in connection with a 6-year-old traffic fatality, Governor Clement has now been told that the traffic victim's family wants the matter dropped.

John Hooker, Sr., of Nashville, attorney for Montgomery, and James P. Smith, of Memphis, who represents the family of Miss Glenda Wiles, the traffic victim, conferred with Governor Clement about the matter yesterday.

"Miss Wiles' family has had enough in the way of grief caused by the publicity about the case through the years," Smith said today. "The governor said he would take the matter under advisement."

The extradition suit charges Montgomery's car, driven by Mrs. Betty Lou Sells, a secretary, collided with a car in which Miss Wiles was a passenger, at 12:45 a.m., Oct. 14, 1959. Mrs. Sells was convicted of involuntary manslaughter and given one to three years in the penal farm. Her case was first affirmed, then reversed by the Tennessee Supreme Court.

The late Judge Sam Campbell of Division Two, Criminal Court, then asked that the attorney general investigate the matter further with a view of "adding another name" (Montgomery's) to the indictment.

In buses today, old-fashioned chivalry is a standing joke.

Dieting may not slim some women, but it gives them plenty to talk about.

A judge says it's no crime to loaf, but a lot of people are in jail for taking things easy.

Some folks figure on two vacations. One when they go away and another when the boss goes.

THE FACTS ABOUT U.N.

The United Nations is composed of 115 member nations. India is the largest with over 450 million people, the Soviet Union second with about 224 million people, and the United States third with 194 million people. Six member nations have populations of less than 100 million but more than 50 million each.

30 member nations have between 10 and 50 million people.

21 member nations have between 5 and 10 million people.

46 member nations have between 1 and 5 million people.

4 member nations have between 500,000 and 1 million people.

5 member nations have less than 500,000 people.

Sixty-four member nations have fewer people living in them altogether than live in the United States. Nevertheless these sixty-four nations have 64 times as many votes in the General Assembly as our country.

Each member nation has one vote except the Soviet Union, which has three.

The citizens of the small nations have vastly more voting representation in the General Assembly than the citizens of the larger nations. One citizen in Gabon, for instance, has as much representation in the General Assembly as 428 citizens of the United States. Moreover, very few citizens of the Asian and African members of U.N. are educated and very large numbers of them are still primitive bush people. To give a handful of educated people, backed by a few hundred thousand savages, the same voting power in the General Assembly as the large well-developed nations is not realistic. It cannot succeed.

Our country pays about one-third of the costs of operating the United Nations, plus many extras such as the purchase of U.N. bonds and special projects.

One hundred thirteen member-nations combined pay about the same percentage of the costs of U.N. as the United States alone. The world has never afforded a better example of taxation without representation than our country in the United Nations.

Roughly, it might be said that about one-third of the member nations of U.N. are at least nominally Christian. Some of these and most of the other two-thirds could be classified as Socialist or Communist states. The predominant philosophy of U.N. is Marxist. Its whole ideology and operating technique is Marxist. If it gains the power to rule the world, as it aspires to do, we will be a minor province in a Socialist world, taxed down to the level of Asia, Africa, and Latin America.

If member nations disarm and turn the bulk of their military forces over to the United Nations, as some of our top leadership is urging, our independence will be at an end.

Reds Involved

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says U.S. Communists are playing a major role in agitation against the nation's foreign policy concerning Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

Mrs. Johnson To Virgin Islands

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands AP -- Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson paid tribute today to "the proud history" of the Virgin Islands but said she was aware things were not as untroubled elsewhere in the Caribbean.

"In our hearts is the prayer that their voyage to peace will be a short one," the First Lady said in an apparent reference to the Dominican crisis as she arrived by commercial plane for a five-day stay mixing official duties and a vacation.

Acting Director Of Health Named

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A veteran of 34 years service with the State Health Division was named acting director of the agency Tuesday.

He is Dr. L. M. Garner, 58, formerly director of local health services. He will replace Dr. H. M. Hardwicke of Ashland, who resigned last week.

The Coast Guard has been credited with rescuing 21,888 persons and saving $15 billion worth of vessels and other property in the last 10 years.

236 Feared Dead In Japanese Mine

TOKYO AP -- A total of 236 men are feared dead in Japan's second - worst postwar coal-mine disaster.

Rescue workers recovered 219 bodies from the Yamano mine, on Kyushu Island, where a gas explosion occurred nearly 2,000 feet underground Tuesday.

Police said hope was virtually abandoned for 17 other miners believed buried under piles of coal and rock.

About 600 teen-agers — a ratio of 4 of every 100,000 — commit suicide annually. It is the fourth leading cause of death among teen-agers, ranking behind accident, cancer and rheumatic heart disease.

Estrogen Fights Menopausal Distress, Aging Symptoms

By Louise Chase

It is now possible to make the aging process of woman--the menopause--more tranquil and relatively free of such unpleasant symptoms as the "hot flush" and back pain. And it is also possible to protect the aging woman from deteriorating bone and circulatory conditions which make growing old more like a disease than the natural process it is.

These beneficial effects may be achieved by the use of the hormone, estrogen, as a preventive, according to Dr. M. Edward Davis, Chariman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, University of Chicago School of Medicine. Dr. Davis reported his findings recently to fellow physicians attending the 13th annual meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

The doctor pointed out that menopause generally begins when the ovaries of a woman, usually in her late forties or early fifties, cease to produce estrogen, or produce much less of it.

Estrogen Makes the Girl

"Estrogen is what makes a girl a girl," notes Dr. Davis. "This hormone," he says, "stimulates femininity, development of body contours, reproductive organs, menstruation." For about 30 or 35 years, the girl's and woman's health and vigor are at their peak, childbearing is generally normal, enthusiasm for living is high. The incidence of heart and circulatory disease is usually lower than among males."

The decline of estrogen production affects other hormonal activity as well, and together these seem to cause menopausal and other aging symptoms, according to Dr. Davis. The woman's reproductive structures begin to atrophy, breast and other tissues lose their elasticity, hair and skin begin to age.

Coronary disease, which is 20 times more common among males than females until about age 40, afflicts an increasing number of women after menopause, as do atherosclerosis, a circulatory condition, and a bone condition known as osteoporosis. In the latter, the bone structure becomes thinner and weaker, and fractures become more frequent. Dr. Davis estimates that about 25 per cent of women eventually suffer from osteoporosis after menopause.

About 18 months ago, reported Dr. Davis, scientists in the radiology department at Chicago developed a machine which can accurately measure bone density. Tests made on four different groups of women proved conclusively, the doctor said, that estrogen therapy retards or prevents postmenopausal osteoporosis.

There is also evidence that normal bone metabolism can be continued or reestablished by the administration of estrogen.

Dr. Davis is convinced, on the basis of 25 years of experience, that "long-term replacement of estrogen must become an integral part of medical practice."

He believes that estrogen therapy, continued indefinitely, can suppress menopausal symptoms, slow down physical deterioration, retard the development of circulatory disorders, brittle bones, and other skeletal changes.

Southern Baptist Boom Rates Losing Steam

DALLAS, Tex. -- The once-booming growth rate of Southern Baptists has lost some of its steam, they noted today. And they're upset about it.

As their 108th annual convention went into its first working day, the Rev. Dr. James L. Sullivan of Nashville, head of the denomination's Sunday School Board, observed:

"The change - the slowdown -- in the percentage of growth rate has brought great concern to us all."

For more than a decade Southern Baptists have paced the field among the nation's larger Protestant bodies in membership gains, climbing to first place in size with 10.6 million on the rolls.

The tempo of the upsurge has sagged.

This "has upset many who did not understand its causes," Dr. Sullivan told the huge gathering, including 11,000 registered "messengers" from local churches, a record for a first day.

He said that increased size itself, and the spread of the denomination throughout the nation from its past Southern borders, along with organizational readjustments, has dampened the growth rate.

Moreover, in an increasingly technological environment, he said, "it is more difficult to get people to think in spiritual terms."

The new conditions call for changes in church life, he said.

Firing up of the denomination's characteristic evangelical zeal was urged by the convention president, the Rev. Dr. Wayne Dehoney of Jackson, Tenn.

At the opening ceremonies Tuesday night, he called for a "fresh vision of a lost world" and "the greatest evangelistic and missionary thrust this world has ever seen."

Teen Time Snack Problem Solved By These 'Burgers

Mom needn't worry too much about what her teen-agers should have for a snack if she has these items on hand: ground beef, cheese soup, dehydrated onion and pepper flakes, tomatoes and buns or English muffins.

Ground beef can be kept in the freezer, points out Reba Staggs, meat authority, for just such a purpose as this. Freeze ground beef in a moisture-vapor proof wrapping and it can be stored at 0° F. or lower for one to three months. Hamburger buns or muffins may also be frozen just to have on hand for the teen crowd.

Quickly put together, absolutely super for eating, these speedy 'burgers are a combination cheese, hamburger and "Sloppy Joe." They're certain to get a vote of confidence from young and old alike.

Speedy Beef-Cheese 'Burgers

- 1½ pounds ground beef
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onion, reconstituted
- 1 tablespoon bell pepper flakes, reconstituted
- 1 can (11 ounces) Cheddar cheese soup
- 12 tomato slices
- ½ teaspoon basil or thyme
- 6 hamburger buns or English muffins, split and toasted

Combine ground beef, salt, pepper, onion and pepper flakes. Brown lightly. Pour off drippings. Add soup. Mix well. Cook slowly 10 minutes. Broil tomato slices until heated through. Sprinkle basil or thyme on each tomato. Place tomato slice on each bun or muffin half. Spoon meat mixture on top. 6 servings.

Share In 1963 Exports To Japan

You may think we see a lot of "Made in Japan" labels on the products in our stores, but did you ever stop to realize the number of "Made in America" labels Japanese shoppers might encounter? Only last year, every Japanese spent over twice as much per capita for American exports as Americans spent for theirs. Figuratively speaking, that's a lot of "Made in America" labels, too!

In fact, with the exception of Canada, Japan is the United States' best customer. And with the close to $2 billion in products she now buys from us, she creates nearly 200,000 jobs in the 50 states, according to the U.S.-Japan Trade Council. This trend began 20 years ago, and since then the U.S. has consistently maintained a favorable balance of trade with Japan, exporting considerably more than we import.

California and Texas are the leading states exporting goods to Japan. Each supplied over $60 million worth of cotton—the most important single commodity sold to Japan. Oil, machinery and chemicals are among a host of others. Illinois, New York and Washington follow closely behind, with over $75 million each in total exports to Japan. Their biggest products are machinery, wheat and other foodstuffs, logs and lumber. The U.S. is Japan's largest supplier for all of these.

Today, there may be twice as many "Made in America" labels in Japan as there are "Made in Japan" labels here, but the Trade Council estimates the gap will widen even further through this decade, creating substantial increases in sales and jobs for every state in the Union.

Missouri was 15th in sales to Japan, totaling $34,300,000. Chief commodities were (in millions of dollars): soybeans 12; sorghum grain 8; corn 4; machinery 3; hides and skins 2; chemicals 2; manufactured articles 1.

These exports created an estimated 2,900 jobs in Missouri, including direct production workers, suppliers and service personnel.

With a steadily declining agricultural labor force, resulting from rapid industrialization, Japan will continue to depend heavily on food imports. Add to this the fact that Japan's demand for soybeans alone will more than triple during the text decade, and it's obvious that Missouri should enjoy a substantial and expanding Japanese market in the years ahead.

Try Foil Bag Fasteners

by Polly Cramer, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Polly

DEAR POLLY—If you do not have enough twist ties to fasten plastic bags, tear off a strip of aluminum foil, twist it together and use it as if it were a regular twist tie. It works just fine.—MARYLEE

DEAR POLLY—If the waistbands to last year's skirts and shorts will not button this year, try my solution. Take a button similar or the same as now on the waistband and five inches of elastic cord. Starting at the back of the button, thread the cord through one hole and back again through the second hole. Bring the ends of the cord together and knot. Now place the elastic loop around the button on the skirt and stretch until the new button will go through the skirt buttonhole.—MRS. F. E. L.

DEAR POLLY—My hands are no longer sore and a calloused mark has disappeared since I started to wear a cotton glove with the fingers cut off over the first knuckle when ironing. This leaves my fingers free for coping with buttons and putting things on hangers.

Tablecloths usually slip on the ironing board and do not stay even. Fold lengthwise and pin with non-rust straight pins placed about four inches apart. When the ironing is finished, take out the pins and reiron over edges. This is especially good for long and large cloths—FLORENCE

GIRLS—This idea would also be good to use when ironing curtains, bedspreads and sheets.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—While reading your helpful column in today's paper it occurred to me that I have been sitting on a Polly's Pointer for several months. How come? Just this. My doctor ordered me to buy a "doughnut" to relieve the hardness of a chair while seated. My purse did not contain the price. After inspecting foam rubber pads, I went to a small mattress factory and bought a thick foam rubber chair seat for less than a dollar. I used a toilet seat as a pattern for marking the center to be removed. Using a bread knife, I cut the outside shape and then the center "doughnut" hole. It was just about what the doctor ordered except that it was homemade and cost what I could afford. This has served its purpose well.—HAZEL

Estrogen Fights Menopausal Distress, Aging Symptoms

By Louise Chase

It is now possible to make the aging process of woman--the menopause--more tranquil and relatively free of such unpleasant symptoms as the "hot flush" and back pain. And it is also possible to protect the aging woman from deteriorating bone and circulatory conditions which make growing old more like a disease than the natural process it is.

These beneficial effects may be achieved by the use of the hormone, estrogen, as a preventive, according to Dr. M. Edward Davis, Chariman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, University of Chicago School of Medicine. Dr. Davis reported his findings recently to fellow physicians attending the 13th annual meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

The doctor pointed out that menopause generally begins when the ovaries of a woman, usually in her late forties or early fifties, cease to produce estrogen, or produce much less of it.

Estrogen Makes the Girl

"Estrogen is what makes a girl a girl," notes Dr. Davis. "This hormone," he says, "stimulates femininity, development of body contours, reproductive organs, menstruation." For about 30 or 35 years, the girl's and woman's health and vigor are at their peak, childbearing is generally normal, enthusiasm for living is high. The incidence of heart and circulatory disease is usually lower than among males."

The decline of estrogen production affects other hormonal activity as well, and together these seem to cause menopausal and other aging symptoms, according to Dr. Davis. The woman's reproductive structures begin to atrophy, breast and other tissues lose their elasticity, hair and skin begin to age.

Coronary disease, which is 20 times more common among males than females until about age 40, afflicts an increasing number of women after menopause, as do atherosclerosis, a circulatory condition, and a bone condition known as osteoporosis. In the latter, the bone structure becomes thinner and weaker, and fractures become more frequent. Dr. Davis estimates that about 25 per cent of women eventually suffer from osteoporosis after menopause.

About 18 months ago, reported Dr. Davis, scientists in the radiology department at Chicago developed a machine which can accurately measure bone density. Tests made on four different groups of women proved conclusively, the doctor said, that estrogen therapy retards or prevents postmenopausal osteoporosis.

There is also evidence that normal bone metabolism can be continued or reestablished by the administration of estrogen.

Dr. Davis is convinced, on the basis of 25 years of experience, that "long-term replacement of estrogen must become an integral part of medical practice."

He believes that estrogen therapy, continued indefinitely, can suppress menopausal symptoms, slow down physical deterioration, retard the development of circulatory disorders, brittle bones, and other skeletal changes.

Southern Baptist Boom Rates Losing Steam

DALLAS, Tex. -- The once-booming growth rate of Southern Baptists has lost some of its steam, they noted today. And they're upset about it.

As their 108th annual convention went into its first working day, the Rev. Dr. James L. Sullivan of Nashville, head of the denomination's Sunday School Board, observed:

"The change - the slowdown -- in the percentage of growth rate has brought great concern to us all."

For more than a decade Southern Baptists have paced the field among the nation's larger Protestant bodies in membership gains, climbing to first place in size with 10.6 million on the rolls.

The tempo of the upsurge has sagged.

This "has upset many who did not understand its causes," Dr. Sullivan told the huge gathering, including 11,000 registered "messengers" from local churches, a record for a first day.

He said that increased size itself, and the spread of the denomination throughout the nation from its past Southern borders, along with organizational readjustments, has dampened the growth rate.

Moreover, in an increasingly technological environment, he said, "it is more difficult to get people to think in spiritual terms."

The new conditions call for changes in church life, he said.

Firing up of the denomination's characteristic evangelical zeal was urged by the convention president, the Rev. Dr. Wayne Dehoney of Jackson, Tenn.

At the opening ceremonies Tuesday night, he called for a "fresh vision of a lost world" and "the greatest evangelistic and missionary thrust this world has ever seen."

Teen Time Snack Problem Solved By These 'Burgers

Mom needn't worry too much about what her teen-agers should have for a snack if she has these items on hand: ground beef, cheese soup, dehydrated onion and pepper flakes, tomatoes and buns or English muffins.

Ground beef can be kept in the freezer, points out Reba Staggs, meat authority, for just such a purpose as this. Freeze ground beef in a moisture-vapor proof wrapping and it can be stored at 0° F. or lower for one to three months. Hamburger buns or muffins may also be frozen just to have on hand for the teen crowd.

Quickly put together, absolutely super for eating, these speedy 'burgers are a combination cheese, hamburger and "Sloppy Joe." They're certain to get a vote of confidence from young and old alike.

Speedy Beef-Cheese 'Burgers

- 1½ pounds ground beef
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onion, reconstituted
- 1 tablespoon bell pepper flakes, reconstituted
- 1 can (11 ounces) Cheddar cheese soup
- 12 tomato slices
- ½ teaspoon basil or thyme
- 6 hamburger buns or English muffins, split and toasted

Combine ground beef, salt, pepper, onion and pepper flakes. Brown lightly. Pour off drippings. Add soup. Mix well. Cook slowly 10 minutes. Broil tomato slices until heated through. Sprinkle basil or thyme on each tomato. Place tomato slice on each bun or muffin half. Spoon meat mixture on top. 6 servings.

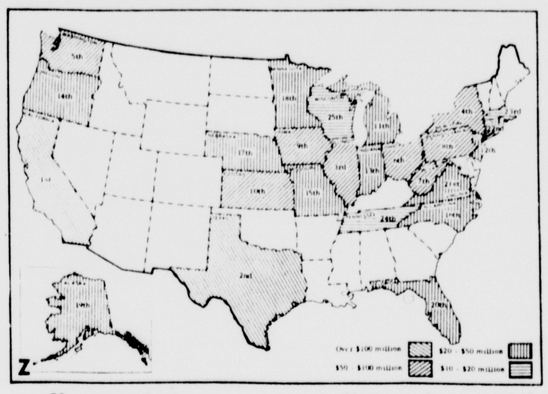

JUST LOOKING — Michele Ann Portwood, who was recently named Miss American Indian, will be a special guest at the International Beauty Congress in Long Beach, Calif., Aug. 4-14, but she won't compete for the title. A sociology major at the University of Wyoming, the 20-year-old beauty, who carries the Indian name Natanahase, can't compete because her tribe won't allow her to appear in a bathing suit.

Share In 1963 Exports To Japan

You may think we see a lot of "Made in Japan" labels on the products in our stores, but did you ever stop to realize the number of "Made in America" labels Japanese shoppers might encounter? Only last year, every Japanese spent over twice as much per capita for American exports as Americans spent for theirs. Figuratively speaking, that's a lot of "Made in America" labels, too!

In fact, with the exception of Canada, Japan is the United States' best customer. And with the close to $2 billion in products she now buys from us, she creates nearly 200,000 jobs in the 50 states, according to the U.S.-Japan Trade Council. This trend began 20 years ago, and since then the U.S. has consistently maintained a favorable balance of trade with Japan, exporting considerably more than we import.

California and Texas are the leading states exporting goods to Japan. Each supplied over $60 million worth of cotton—the most important single commodity sold to Japan. Oil, machinery and chemicals are among a host of others. Illinois, New York and Washington follow closely behind, with over $75 million each in total exports to Japan. Their biggest products are machinery, wheat and other foodstuffs, logs and lumber. The U.S. is Japan's largest supplier for all of these.

Today, there may be twice as many "Made in America" labels in Japan as there are "Made in Japan" labels here, but the Trade Council estimates the gap will widen even further through this decade, creating substantial increases in sales and jobs for every state in the Union.

Missouri was 15th in sales to Japan, totaling $34,300,000. Chief commodities were (in millions of dollars): soybeans 12; sorghum grain 8; corn 4; machinery 3; hides and skins 2; chemicals 2; manufactured articles 1.

These exports created an estimated 2,900 jobs in Missouri, including direct production workers, suppliers and service personnel.

With a steadily declining agricultural labor force, resulting from rapid industrialization, Japan will continue to depend heavily on food imports. Add to this the fact that Japan's demand for soybeans alone will more than triple during the text decade, and it's obvious that Missouri should enjoy a substantial and expanding Japanese market in the years ahead.

Try Foil Bag Fasteners

by Polly Cramer, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Polly

DEAR POLLY—If you do not have enough twist ties to fasten plastic bags, tear off a strip of aluminum foil, twist it together and use it as if it were a regular twist tie. It works just fine.—MARYLEE

DEAR POLLY—If the waistbands to last year's skirts and shorts will not button this year, try my solution. Take a button similar or the same as now on the waistband and five inches of elastic cord. Starting at the back of the button, thread the cord through one hole and back again through the second hole. Bring the ends of the cord together and knot. Now place the elastic loop around the button on the skirt and stretch until the new button will go through the skirt buttonhole.—MRS. F. E. L.

DEAR POLLY—My hands are no longer sore and a calloused mark has disappeared since I started to wear a cotton glove with the fingers cut off over the first knuckle when ironing. This leaves my fingers free for coping with buttons and putting things on hangers.

Tablecloths usually slip on the ironing board and do not stay even. Fold lengthwise and pin with non-rust straight pins placed about four inches apart. When the ironing is finished, take out the pins and reiron over edges. This is especially good for long and large cloths—FLORENCE

DEAR POLLY—While reading your helpful column in today's paper it occurred to me that I have been sitting on a Polly's Pointer for several months. How come? Just this: My doctor ordered me to buy a "doughnut" to relieve the hardness of a chair while seated. My purse did not contain the price. After inspecting foam rubber pads, I went to a small mattress factory and bought a thick foam rubber chair seat for less than a dollar. I used a toilet seat as a pattern for marking the center to be removed. Using a bread knife, I cut the outside shape and then the center "doughnut" hole. It was just about what the doctor ordered except that it was homemade and cost what I could afford. This has served its purpose well.—HAZEL

A barracuda is among the most dangerous fish in the world and should properly be credited with many swimming tragedies attributed to the shark. The fish ranges from three to ten feet in length. It has long pointed jaws filled with teeth of razor-like sharpness. In appearance it somewhat resembles the pike. The largest of the species lurk about tropical reefs as the pike does about the edges of a pond.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is 6'3" and he says he weighs 265 pounds but I don't believe it. He refuses to get on a scale in my presence.

I had him on a special diet but gave up when I discovered the diet meal was just a snack and he was eating everything in sight when my back was turned.

The children hide their candy from him but he finds it. When I bake for my club he sneaks into the freezer and eats the desserts. I think he has high blood pressure but he won't go to a doctor.

You told the other wife that some things are worth nagging about and husband's health is one of them. Does this go for me, too? — OPEN FOR SUGGESTIONS

Dear Open: Yes, but change your tone and your tune. Tomorrow tell him you are making an appointment for him with a doctor. Ask which day and what time would be best.

A few days later ask if his affairs are in order because the way he eats he's not going to be around to see his children through college.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a terrible problem. I'll bet you've never heard anything like this before.

When I was six years old I saw a tuba in the Labor Day parade. I said to my mother "I want one of those when I grow up." For years I begged for a tuba and my mother said if I was still interested she would get me one for my 12th birthday.

Well, six months ago I reached my 12th birthday and my mother bought me a tuba — secondhand, but very nice. Now, nobody will let me practice. Everytime I start to play my mother says she has a headache, or I will wake up my little sister. Or my Dad says he can't hear what's on TV and to play some other time.

The band leader who is also my teacher said if I don't start learning something pretty soon I will have to get out of the band. I'm ashamed to tell him my problem. What shall I do? — SAD KID

Dear Kid: Every school has music rooms where kids can practice. Tell your teacher it is very difficult to practice at home and you'd appreciate it if he'd give you permission to use a practice room.

Dear Ann Landers: We are having discussions in our Sunday religious instruction class. The subject under debate is "Should Sex Education Be Taught In Schools?"

Most of the kids I have talked to are for it. I am against it. I feel that a subject as intimate as sex should be taught at home, by parents. Do you agree? — AGAINST IT

Dear Against It: Sex education SHOULD be taught at home by parents. But too many parents are abysmally ignorant. Some parents are incapable of discussing sex with their children because they are inhibited by age-old taboos instilled in them by THEIR parents.

To those who are against sex education in schools I say this: It is foolish and unrealistic to tell teen-agers to stop thinking about sex. They ARE thinking about sex and they are going to continue to think about it. What they need is correct information so they will know HOW to think about it. Nine out of 10 teens who write to me about sex problems say they cannot communicate with their parents, which is a sad commentary, indeed.

When the information is not available at home, school is the next best place to learn.

Parents are people — they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mail Box

Dear Mr. Blanton,

Although removed from the Standard for the most part of the last three years, I must express the deep sense of loss I have in the death of Mr. Yorke.

As you know, he was a great man to me. I came to the paper as a real novice; he taught me a great deal about more than the newspaper world during my four years with him.

I shall remember the Judge Reeves story, a letter to President Johnson, the Jaycee Rodeo, and many other times I spent with him, under his wing and many times, I'm sure, underfoot.

But he was patient and kind and tolerant to me, and I am a better person because of him.

We have all lost a real reporter, a fine man, and a wonderful friend. And I have lost the finest teacher I have had.

I shall miss him.

Respectfully,
Joe Bean

USS HANCOCK (CVA-19) (FHTNC) May 25 — Airman Apprentice Danny O. Eaton, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Baton of 835 Greer, Sikeston, Mo., is scheduled to arrive in Alameda, Calif., May 29, aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Hancock, following a seven-month cruise with the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific that included three months of combat operations.

Since February 7, until she departed the Western Pacific for the United States, the Hancock participated in the majority of the air strikes conducted against North Viet Nam and communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

In eight major strikes and numerous minor operations, Hancock aircraft struck communist billeting areas, harassed ground traffic, and knocked out anti-aircraft batteries, radar installations and many bridges vital to communist supply movements.

SANTA ANA, CALIF. (FHTNC) May 14 — Marine Sergeant William R. Lemons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lemons of 106 Glenstone Road, Dexter, Mo., has returned to the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station at Santa Ana, Calif., after deployment to the Marine Corps Air Station, Yuma, Ariz. May 2-8.

He is a member of Marine Heavy Helicopter Squadron 462, a unit of Marine Aircraft Group 26. This group, part of the 3rd Marine Aircraft Wing at El Toro, deploys to Yuma for one week every three months.

Cadet Captain Ranney W. McDonough, son of Walton R. McDonough, Morley, Missouri, received the ROTC Pilot Badge Full-Wing Award during the U.S. Army ROTC Group Awards Review ceremonies at the University of Missouri at Rolla on May 24, 1965. The award was presented by Colonel David L. Gundling, Professor of Military Science at UMR.

The full-wing type ROTC Pilot Badge is awarded to cadets who complete the Reserve Officers Training Corps Flight Training Program, which is an extracurricular activity and is limited to those students who have sufficiently high academic standing to be recommended by the Chancellor and the Professor of Military Science.

Students complete the ROTC Flight Training Program normally have the opportunity to progress into Army Aviation training and assignment after obtaining their commissions and entering active duty with the Army.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK. — Blytheville based bombers along with other United States Air Force bombers of the Strategic Air Command (SAC) will participate with Air Defense forces of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) in a joint training exercise overflying North Central Canada and 26 Central U.S. states during early morning hours on Friday, May 21. The SAC bombers and NORAD fighter intercepter aircraft will overfly Canada within an area from Hudson Bay over Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Saskatchewan, south into the central United States. Over the Central U.S., exercise bombers and fighters will overfly an area East of the Rocky Mountains to central Georgia and southward over Texas.

Large numbers of subsonic B-47 and B-52 global range bombers will fly toward simulated targets at high and low altitudes close to U.S. cities and towns in 26 states and near several cities in Canada.

In addition several B-58 "Hustler" bombers will fly high altitude supersonic missions over or near cities in Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska and Wisconsin creating noisy but harmless sonic booms. Additional B-58 supersonic missions are scheduled at high altitudes over provinces of Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Saskatchewan in Canada.

NORAD fighter aircraft of the U.S. and Royal Canadian Air Force will fly practice aircraft interception missions as they rise to meet bombers of the exercise attack force. Bombers simulating attack will be tracked by U.S. and Canadian Aerospace Defense Forces exercising all elements of the defense system.

Air Traffic Control officials in Canada and the United States have received advance information of this exercise and no suspension of normal civil air traffic is expected. The exercise will not last longer than one hour over any particular land area. No missiles will be fired during this exercise.

GREAT LAKES, ILL. (RHTNC) Seaman Recruit Richard G. Holt, 20, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Holt of Route 1, Dexter, Mo., has begun nine weeks of Navy basic training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

In the first weeks of his naval service he will study military subjects and live and work under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian to sailor he will be taught and supervised by experienced Navy petty officers. They will teach him the basic skills of seamanship as well as survival techniques, military drill and other basic subjects.

On completion of his recruit training he will be assigned to a school, shore station or ship, according to the results of his Navy classification tests, his own desires and the needs of the Navy.

The Collegians

Collegians In Concert

The Collegians, a male quartet from Evangel college in Springfield, will give a vocal and instrumental concert at the First Assembly of God Church, 310 South Kingshighway at 7:30 p.m. tonight the Rev. James E. Smith announced.

The quartet is on a three-month summer tour. The Collegians are Bob Reedy, Denver, Colo.; Paul Guiney, Lafayette, Ind.; Gary Hallberg, Moline, Ill.; Johnnie Shows, Natchez, Miss.; and David Jenkins, Pittsfield, Ill.

The Collegians' program will include piano solos, trombone and tenor solos, trios with brass accompaniment, brass ensemble pieces, and vocal quartet numbers.

Among the numbers on the program will be "We Are More Than Conquerors," vocal and instrumental; "Onward Christian Soldiers," instrumental; "Battle Hymn of the Republic," trumpet trio; "How Great Thou Art," combined vocal and instrumental; "The Unveiled Christ," and instrumental arrangements of such old favorites as "Amazing Grace" and "Power in the Blood."

Reedy, a junior music education major, is pianist and plays trumpet. First tenor Guiney, a freshman music education major, plays trombone. Hallberg, second tenor and trumpet, is a sophomore elementary education major. Jenkins is a sophomore music education major and is the bass in the quartet as well as playing the French horn. Baritone Shows plays trumpet and is a junior music education major.

Evangel College is a regionally accredited four-year college of arts and sciences. A church-related college, Evangel's parents denomination is the Assemblies of God.

Fertility & Sterility

REPRODUCTION PUZZLES YIELDING TO RESEARCH

Nature has paved the road to human conception with so many obstacles that it seems a miracle the event happens at all. Rather than diminish this aura of wondrousness, the birth of billions of people illustrates the remarkable ability of the reproductive system to overcome handicaps. The miracle lies in the delicate balance of male and female procreative machinery — for every obstacle to pregnancy there is a surmounting factor, for every natural roadblock a natural detour.

In about one of ten couples, though, a cog slips in the complex apparatus and conception is thwarted. Husband, wife, or both, start out or later become infertile. As a result, approximately 4,000,000 American couples are either childless or cannot have as many children as they desire.

Conversely, many more millions of families face the problem of excess fertility. For a variety of reasons — medical, economic, emotional — they wish to limit the number of their children or regulate the time of their arrival.

RECENT PROGRESS

Fortunately, both kinds of families can be helped in greater number than ever before because of relatively recent breakthroughs in our understanding of the fundamental biochemistry of human reproduction.

In the treatment of infertility, for example, therapies were effective in only about 20 per cent of cases two decades ago. Now, with new approaches, that success quotient has at least doubled. In the male, several surgical, chemical and other procedures have been developed to correct oligospermia — deficiency of spermatozoa in the semen. Recent research is also illuminating the psychological components of mail infertility.

Similarly in the female, we have learned much about the endocrine system which governs ovulation. This knowledge has made it possible to stimulate the production of ova in previously anovulatory women. In a number of cases, new drugs are supporting pregnancies in women who had habitually miscarried or delivered with drastic prematurity. In addition, surgical techniques are making conception possible in women whose cases were once considered hopeless.

REGULATING FERTILITY

As for the other side of the coin — the containment of conception — progress has been at least as dramatic. With the development of hormonal compounds which regulate the female reproductive system, medicine's ability to control and schedule fertility has achieved a major advance. In this way, too, mechanical methods of contraception have been supplemented by more esthetically attractive means.

In the background of this progress lies the achievement of a clearer view of the operation of the procreative apparatus. Despite gaps in knowledge that persist, we can now chart its labyrinthine activities in fine detail.

In the normal woman, which means the vast majority, we know that all is regular, all is automatic. Every four weeks during her child-bearing years (from menarche, the onset of menstruation, to menopause), she ovulates. If an ovum is fertilized by a spermatozoon (from the Greek "animal seed"), the mechanism prepares the conditions under which an embryo can develop. If the egg is not fertilized, the mechanism prepares for menstruation and a fresh cycle.

BEHIND THE SCENES

As in all complicated processes that perform with seeming ease, a bustle of activity is taking place in the female reproductive organs. It is thought that the initial impetus leading to ovulation is provided by the hypothalamus, which acts on the nearby pituitary gland. The pituitary is a key member of the endocrine system, which secretes hormones directly into the bloodstream for transport to specific organs. (Hormone, from the Greek ormanein, means "to arouse to excite," which is precisely what minute quantities of hormones do.)

One of these chemical stimulants is FSH, or follicle-stimulating hormone. The bloodstream carries FSH selectively to the ovaries, where many immature ova are lying fallow. FSH inspires a few of the ovaries' follicles — tiny sacs that contain the eggs — to start growing.

Only one follicle usually attains maturity, although it has been estimated that 100,000 to 400,000 reside in the ovaries in a primordial state. About the fourteenth day of the menstrual cycle, the most mature follicle bursts and drops its ovum, which is as small as a grain of sand. Over a five-or six-day period, the egg wends its way down the Fallopian tube, or oviduct, to the uterus, a distance of about four and a half inches. (To be continued.)

Get The Most From Air Conditioning

"The bigger the better" doesn't apply to your home air conditioning system. According to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, oversizing is not only needless, it's a waste of money.

An experienced heating-cooling contractor will help you make an accurate determination to give you maximum performance and economy. Once you have a properly-sized unit installed, help it to do its best job.

Here's how you can get the best use from it:

1. Keep the doors and windows closed as much as possible. Letting warm, humid air enter the house defeats the purpose of air conditioning.

2. Don't wait until the warmest part of the day to turn on the system. By starting early, it will remove heat continually as it enters the house.

3. Zone the system with a thermostat in only those living areas where cooling is required.

4. Ventilate cooking areas so that moisture from boiling water etc., will not get into the air.

5. Keep the laundry area separate from air conditioned portions of the home. Here again, moisture-laden air is to be avoided.

Dear Mr. Blanton,

Although removed from the Standard for the most part of the last three years, I must express the deep sense of loss I have in the death of Mr. Yorke.

As you know, he was a great man to me. I came to the paper as a real novice; he taught me a great deal about more than the newspaper world during my four years with him.

I shall remember the Judge Reeves story, a letter to President Johnson, the Jaycee Rodeo, and many other times I spent with him, under his wing and many times, I'm sure, underfoot.

But he was patient and kind and tolerant to me, and I am a better person because of him.

We have all lost a real reporter, a fine man, and a wonderful friend. And I have lost the finest teacher I have had.

I shall miss him.

Respectfully,
Joe Bean

USS HANCOCK (CVA-19) (FHTNC) May 25 — Airman Apprentice Danny O. Eaton, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Baton of 835 Greer, Sikeston, Mo., is scheduled to arrive in Alameda, Calif., May 29, aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Hancock, following a seven - month cruise with the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific that included three months of combat operations.

Since February 7, until she departed the Western Pacific for the United States, the Hancock participated in the majority of the air strikes conducted against North Viet Nam and communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

In eight major strikes and numerous minor operations, Hancock aircraft struck communist billeting areas, harassed ground traffic, and knocked out anti-aircraft batteries, radar installations and many bridges vital to communist supply movements.

SANTA ANA, CALIF. (FHTNC) May 14 — Marine Sergeant William R. Lemons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lemons of 106 Glenstone Road, Dexter, Mo., has returned to the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station at Santa Ana, Calif., after deployment to the Marine Corps Air Station, Yuma, Ariz. May 2-8.

He is a member of Marine Heavy Helicopter Squadron 462, a unit of Marine Aircraft Group 26. This group, part of the 3rd Marine Aircraft Wing at El Toro, deploys to Yuma for one week every three months.

Cadet Captain Ranney W. McDonough, son of Walton R. McDonough, Morley, Missouri, received the ROTC Pilot Badge Full-Wing Award during the U.S. Army ROTC Group Awards Review ceremonies at the University of Missouri at Rolla on May 24, 1965. The award was presented by Colonel David L. Gundling, Professor of Military Science at UMR.

The full-wing type ROTC Pilot Badge is awarded to cadets who complete the Reserve Officers Training Corps Flight Training Program, which is an extracurricular activity and is limited to those students who have sufficiently high academic standing to be recommended by the Chancellor and the Professor of Military Science.

Students complete the ROTC Flight Training Program normally have the opportunity to progress into Army Aviation training and assignment after obtaining their commissions and entering active duty with the Army.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK. — Blytheville based bombers along with other United States Air Force bombers of the Strategic Air Command (SAC) will participate with Air Defense forces of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) in a joint training exercise overflying North Central Canada and 26 Central U.S. states during early morning hours on Friday, May 21. The SAC bombers and NORAD fighter intercepter aircraft will overfly Canada within an area from Hudson Bay over Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Saskatchewan, south into the central United States. Over the Central U.S., exercise bombers and fighters will overfly an area East of the Rocky Mountains to central Georgia and southward over Texas.

Large numbers of subsonic B-47 and B-52 global range bombers will fly toward simulated targets at high and low altitudes close to U.S. cities and towns in 26 states and near several cities in Canada.

In addition several B-58 "Hustler" bombers will fly high altitude supersonic missions over or near cities in Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska and Wisconsin creating noisy but harmless sonic booms. Additional B-58 supersonic missions are scheduled at high altitudes over provinces of Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Saskatchewan in Canada.

NORAD fighter aircraft of the U.S. and Royal Canadian Air Force will fly practice aircraft interception missions as they rise to meet bombers of the exercise attack force. Bombers simulating attack will be tracked by U.S. and Canadian Aerospace Defense Forces exercising all elements of the defense system.

Air Traffic Control officials in Canada and the United States have received advance information of this exercise and no suspension of normal civil air traffic is expected. The exercise will not last longer than one hour over any particular land area. No missiles will be fired during this exercise.

GREAT LAKES, ILL. (RHTNC) Seaman Recruit Richard G. Holt, 20, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Holt of Route 1, Dexter, Mo., has begun nine weeks of Navy basic training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

In the first weeks of his naval service he will study military subjects and live and work under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian to sailor he will be taught and supervised by experienced Navy petty officers. They will teach him the basic skills of seamanship as well as survival techniques, military drill and other basic subjects.

On completion of his recruit training he will be assigned to a school, shore station or ship, according to the results of his Navy classification tests, his own desires and the needs of the Navy.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.--James A. McKinley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayborne J. McKinley, Bertrand, Mo., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School (OTS) at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Lieutenant McKinley, selected for OTS through competitive examination, is being assigned to an Air Training Command unit at Vance AFB, Okla., for pilot training.

The lieutenant, a graduate of Charleston (Mo.) High School attended Southeast Missouri State college. He received his bachelor degree in architecture from Kansas State University.

The Collegians

Collegians In Concert

The Collegians, a male quartet from Evangel college in Springfield, will give a vocal and instrumental concert at the First Assembly of God Church, 310 South Kingshighway at 7:30 p.m. tonight the Rev. James E. Smith announced.

The quartet is on a three-month summer tour. The Collegians are Bob Reedy, Denver, Colo.; Paul Guiney, Lafayette, Ind.; Gary Hallberg, Moline, Ill.; Johnnie Shows, Natchez, Miss.; and David Jenkins, Pittsfield, Ill.

The Collegians' program will include piano solos, trombone and tenor solos, trios with brass accompaniment, brass ensemble pieces, and vocal quartet numbers.

Among the numbers on the program will be "We Are More Than Conquerors," vocal and instrumental; "Onward Christian Soldiers," instrumental; "Battle Hymn of the Republic," trumpet trio; "How Great Thou Art," combined vocal and instrumental; "The Unveiled Christ," and instrumental arrangements of such old favorites as "Amazing Grace" and "Power in the Blood."

Reedy, a junior music education major, is pianist and plays trumpet. First tenor Guiney, a freshman music education major, plays trombone. Hallberg, second tenor and trumpet, is a sophomore elementary education major. Jenkins is a sophomore music education major and is the bass in the quartet as well as playing the French horn. Baritone Shows plays trumpet and is a junior music education major.

Evangel College is a regionally accredited four-year college of arts and sciences. A church-related college, Evangel's parents denomination is the Assemblies of God.

Fertility & Sterility

REPRODUCTION PUZZLES YIELDING TO RESEARCH

Nature has paved the road to human conception with so many obstacles that it seems a miracle the event happens at all. Rather than diminish this aura of wondrousness, the birth of billions of people illustrates the remarkable ability of the reproductive system to overcome handicaps. The miracle lies in the delicate balance of male and female procreative machinery — for every obstacle to pregnancy there is a surmounting factor, for every natural roadblock a natural detour.

In about one of ten couples, though, a cog slips in the complex apparatus and conception is thwarted. Husband, wife, or both, start out or later become infertile. As a result, approximately 4,000,000 American couples are either childless or cannot have as many children as they desire.

Conversely, many more millions of families face the problem of excess fertility. For a variety of reasons — medical, economic, emotional — they wish to limit the number of their children or regulate the time of their arrival.

RECENT PROGRESS

Fortunately, both kinds of families can be helped in greater number than ever before because of relatively recent breakthroughs in our understanding of the fundamental biochemistry of human reproduction.

In the treatment of infertility, for example, therapies were effective in only about 20 per cent of cases two decades ago. Now, with new approaches, that success quotient has at least doubled. In the male, several surgical, chemical and other procedures have been developed to correct oligospermia — deficiency of spermatozoa in the semen. Recent research is also illuminating the psychological components of mail infertility.

Similarly in the female, we have learned much about the endocrine system which governs ovulation. This knowledge has made it possible to stimulate the production of ova in previously anovulatory women. In a number of cases, new drugs are supporting pregnancies in women who had habitually miscarried or delivered with drastic prematurity. In addition, surgical techniques are making conception possible in women whose cases were once considered hopeless.

REGULATING FERTILITY

As for the other side of the coin — the containment of conception —progress has been at least as dramatic. With the development of hormonal compounds which regulate the female reproductive system, medicine's ability to control and schedule fertility has achieved a major advance. In this way, too, mechanical methods of contraception have been supplemented by more esthetically attractive means.

In the background of this progress lies the achievement of a clearer view of the operation of the procreative apparatus. Despite gaps in knowledge that persist, we can now chart its labyrinthine activities in fine detail.

In the normal woman, which means the vast majority, we know that all is regular, all is automatic. Every four weeks during her child-bearing years (from menarche, the onset of menstruation, to menopause), she ovulates. If an ovum is fertilized by a spermatozoon (from the Greek "animal seed"), the mechanism prepares the conditions under which an embryo can develop. If the egg is not fertilized, the mechanism prepares for menstruation and a fresh cycle.

BEHIND THE SCENES

As in all complicated processes that perform with seeming ease, a bustle of activity is taking place in the female reproductive organs. It is thought that the initial impetus leading to ovulation is provided by the hypothalamus, which acts on the nearby pituitary gland. The pituitary is a key member of the endocrine system, which secretes hormones directly into the bloodstream for transport to specific organs. (Hormone, from the Greek ormanein, means "to arouse to excite," which is precisely what minute quantities of hormones do.)

One of these chemical stimulants is FSH, or follicle-stimulating hormone. The bloodstream carries FSH selectively to the ovaries, where many immature ova are lying fallow. FSH inspires a few of the ovaries' follicles — tiny sacs that contain the eggs — to start growing.

Only one follicle usually attains maturity, although it has been estimated that 100,000 to 400,000 reside in the ovaries in a primordial state. About the fourteenth day of the menstrual cycle, the most mature follicle bursts and drops its ovum, which is as small as a grain of sand. Over a five-or six-day period, the egg wends its way down the Fallopian tube, or oviduct, to the uterus, a distance of about four and a half inches. (To be continued.)

Get The Most From Air Conditioning

"The bigger the better" doesn't apply to your home air conditioning system. According to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, oversizing is not only needless, it's a waste of money.

An experienced heating-cooling contractor will help you make an accurate determination to give you maximum performance and economy. Once you have a properly-sized unit installed, help it to do its best job.

Here's how you can get the best use from it:

1. Keep the doors and windows closed as much as possible. Letting warm, humid air enter the house defeats the purpose of air conditioning.

2. Don't wait until the warmest part of the day to turn on the system. By starting early, it will remove heat continually as it enters the house.

3. Zone the system with a thermostat in only those living areas where cooling is required.

4. Ventilate cooking areas so that moisture from boiling water etc., will not get into the air.

5. Keep the laundry area separate from air conditioned portions of the home. Here again, moisture-laden air is to be avoided.

Richland PTA Honors Teacher

GRAY RIDGE -- Grover Myers was honored by the Richland PTA at the May meeting. He is retiring this year with 28 years of service in the Richland and Stoddard County schools.

Hubert Swinger gave a brief history of Mr. Myers' life and teaching experience, with the help of Mr. Myers' son, Gene Myers.

Ralph Parks, superintendent of Richland presented Mr. Myers with a plaque. Mrs. Ed Bridges was hostess for the evening. Jan Bridges, Sondra Tucker, and Linda Coffey, sang many selections accompanied by Tera Finklea.

Jack Stapleton was the guest speaker. A devotional was given by Frank Hill.

The president, Mrs. Melvin Lane, presided over the business session. Routine reports were approved as read. The following PTA officers for the new year were installed by Mrs. Harold Gisi: President, Mrs. Paul Schuerenberg; vice president, Mrs. L. B. Black; secretary, Mrs. Bill Pippens; treasurer, Mrs. Russell Joseph.
